THREAT OF NEW SOFT COAL STRIKE ARISES

Bakers' Appeal For Decontrol Turned Down

Agriculture Department Says No But OPA May End Ceilings Soon

ORDER LIFTING LIDS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Restaurant Industry Committee Asks Removal Of Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A broad order lifting price controls from wheat flour, bread and other bakery products is still under consideration, informed officials said tonight, despite formal rejection today of a baking industry petition for decontrol.

The Agriculture Department denied the industry petition, which was based on the contention that bread and other bakery products are available in ample supply.

However, the department emphasized in a statement that its denial does not preclude termination of ceilings by the OPA and the department, on other grounds. Such other grounds were used last week in the case of meats and vegetable oil food products.

Officials who declined to permit use of their names said the two agencies are considering a broad order lifting controls from wheat flour, semolina, farina, and breakfast cereals, as well as from bread and other bakery products.

They said action on this order was expected within a day or so.

Under the Price Control Act, an industry petition for decontrol may be granted only if the affected commodity is found to be available in ample supply for all demands. The law, however, gives the OPA authority to end controls without regard to the supply situation, with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

In other decontrol actions today:

1. OPA's Restaurant Industry advisory Committee petitioned OPA and the Agriculture Department for removal of price controls from all restaurant food and drinks. Two weeks ago OPA granted a 15 per cent increase in ceilings on meat menu items.

2. The OPA's Soap Industry Advisory Committee asked removal of price ceilings on soap if and when ceilings are lifted from the inedible fats and oils used in making soap.

The baking industry petition was denied by Administrator Robert H. Shields, of the department's Production and Marketing Administration, acting for Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who is out of the city.

In a letter to the OPA Baking Industry Advisory Committee, sponsor of the petition, Shields said "our inability to conclude from these available information that bakery products for the current marketing season are not in short supply will not preclued our considering with the Office of Prince Administration the advisability of removing price controls from any or all types of bakery products on bases other than supply."

The department has also denied a milling industry petition for decontrol of flour, semolina and farina on the grounds that wheat, the raw material for these products, is in short supply, when considered from the standpoint of possible foreign demands upon this country.

State Health Department Asks $4,820,254 Budget

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21. (AP)—The State Department of Health today requested a budget of $4,820,254 for 1948-49—nearly three times the department's appropriation for the current biennium.

The request, submitted to Budget Director Walter N. Kirkman, includes proposed expenditures of some $400,000 in each of the next two years for a new Baltimore medical-care program.

Moscow Rebuffs U. S. Plan To Insure Free Elections In Bulgaria

Would Constitute "Rude Interference," Russia Contends; U. S. To Keep Sharp Eye On Balloting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Russia sharply rebuffed today an American plan for Allied action to insure free elections in Bulgaria, declaring the plan would constitute "rude interference" in Bulgarian affairs.

The State Department, obviously irate, made public an exchange of messages on the development and served notice it would keep a sharp eye on the coming elections.

The exchange centered around a United States request, originated by Secretary of State Byrnes in Paris September 24, for a special session of the tri-power Bulgarian Control Commission "to consider the steps" necessary to insure a free election. These steps were listed as:

1. Freedom of press, radio and assembly for the opposition.

2. Non-interference of the militia either with candidates or voters except to maintain law and order.

3. Release of political prisoners or open formulation of charges against them.

4. Elimination of any possible threat of post-election retaliation for political reasons.

Byrnes, in a letter to Prime Minister Kimon Georgiev, of Bulgaria, reminded him of the hopes expressed at Yalta by President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill for free democratic elections in the liberated lands.

From Bulgaria's Premier came the reply, however, that the Bulgarian government already had decided to hold "entirely free elections" and added:

1. Freedom of the press in Bulgaria "within the limits of existing law is fully assured."

2. "All basic laws, and especially the electoral law, forbid the militia in our country interfering or exerting influence in the choice of candidates for popular representatives."

3. The government "liberated all persons detained on political grounds and against whom there was no basis for formulation of infringement of existing laws."

4. The government has taken steps which "will constitute sufficient guarantee for the removal of any menace of post-election reprisals on political grounds."

Prior to the Premier's reply, Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson took up with Col. Gen. Sergei Biryusov, Soviet representative on the Allied Control Commission, the question of holding a special commission meeting on the election.

From Biryusov came the reply that the guarantee of free elections "is the prerogative of the Bulgarian government."

"Therefore," he wrote, "the discussion of questions raised by the commission and even more, the taking of any kind of measures by the commission would be in violation of these prerogatives and a rude interference in the internal affairs of Bulgaria. On the other hand the commission cannot consider these questions, as they do not come under its jurisdiction, as determined by the armistice agreement with Bulgaria."

Robertson then replied to Biryusov that he disagreed with the latter's conclusions, and notified him that he was forwarding ther to Secretary Byrnes "with the request that he take such steps in the circumstances as he may consider necessary."

HAS 50-50 CHANCE — The mother of three - month - old Yvonne Newland (above), of Chicago, had to choose between seeing her baby live in continual pain or authorizing an operation with only a 50-50 chance of success. She chose the operation. The child has congenital hernia. A breach in her diaphragm permitted the stomach to slip through and push the heart and lungs to the wrong side.

No Settlement Of TWA Pilots' Strike In Sight

Thousands Of Passengers, Tons Of Cargo Stranded; 115 Planes Idle

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (AP) — Pilots of Trans-World Airline, striking for higher pay, paralyzed its operations at home and abroad tonight with no prospect of an immediate settlement in sight.

Some 3,000 passengers and tons of cargo were stranded as the company was compelled to cancel all flights of 115 planes, including eight now in foreign countries, for 24 hours after the sudden walkout. A second 24-hour cancellation was in prospect for tomorrow, and others after that.

Jack Frye, TWA president, said government seizure of the line "might" be a solution. But no immediate move in that direction was apparent.

Earn Up To $12,598

Their earnings now are calculated by the union at $7,600 to $9,100 a year. The company said they range as high as $12,598.

The company said that if the demands were granted, highest paid pilots would get $15,300 a year. The union said its proposals range from $930.31 to $1,187.43 monthly, depending upon the flights and planes a pilot flies.

The company cancelled all flights on its 28,270-mile system for 24 hours and announced it will continue cancellations from day to day pending an agreement with the Air Line Pilots Association. Eight planes overseas were among those grounded.

A daily average of more than 3,000 passengers, 25 tons of mail and 33 tons of express is carried by

Reece "Interprets" Soviet Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, said today a Moscow broadcast commending the CIO-Political Action Committee "was intended as a commedation of Democrat candidates for the Senate and House."

This is "proved," Reece added, by a quotation from the remarks of the Russian commentator, A. Ossipov, that "if the hopes of Republicans for a dominant position in Congress are realized, this would mean a national disaster for the country, the end of democracy in America."

"The Russian broadcaster, of course, used the world 'democracy' in the Russian sense, meaning the system under which the actions and even the thoughts of all individuals are dictated from Moscow," Reece's statement continued. "He is 100 per cent right in stating that the election of a Republican Congress will mean the end of that kind of 'democracy' in the United States."

UNRRA Eases Embargo On Chinese Shipments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (AP) — UNRRA Director Fiorello H. LaGuardia tonight announced the easing of an embargo against relief shipments to China.

He said in a statement that sailings will be permitted "in accordance with capacity of ports of destination" and that the ships "will move as soon as the present labor disputes make it possible."

LaGuardia said relaxation of the embargo was made possible by "the great improvement in the rate of distribution of supplies from China's ports."

Molotov Sure U. N. Can Solve Its Problems

Delegates To Assembly Pledge Themselves To Work For Peace

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The chief delegates of Soviet Russia and Great Britain and of small nations the world over pledged themselves today to work for peace and the success of the United Nations General Assembly which will begin its history-making sessions at Flushing Meadow Wednesday.

Hundreds of diplomats, many of them landing from the British liner Queen Elizabeth, thronged New York. Already there were many quiet conferences in preparation for the coming "Town Meeting Of The World."

Molotov Is Optimistic

Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Russian Foreign Minister and head of the Soviet delegation, said at a news conference on the Queen Elizabeth he was sure that "important tasks now before the United Nations can be successfully solved and that any difficulties can be overcome, given good will and the real desire to achieve mutual understanding."

Winding up the ocean voyage which gave him a brief respite from his schedule at the Paris peace conference, Molotov said the Russian delegation "will contribute to insuring that the work of the United Nations General Assembly and the Council of Foreign Ministers is successful and is accomplished in the interests of strengthening peace and the well-being of peoples, great and small."

Philip Noel Baker, British Air Secretary and leader of his country's delegation until Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin arrives, expressed optimism over the assembly meeting.

Sen. Connally Arrives

The arrival of United States Sen. Tom Connally, of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, on the liner, completed the roster of the United States delegation, which has taken over a complete hotel floor and set up a "Little State Department" for the assembly.

Connally told newsmen: "I deplore the talk of another war. Russia doesn't want another war; Stalin and Molotov do not want another war. The Paris peace conference (which he attended as an American delegate) accomplished substantial results. We did not secure all that we desired and Russia did not get all that it was looking for. On the whole, the conference was a success. It tears the curtain from secret diplomacy—it lets the people of the world know what is going on."

Lovers' Quarrel Ends In Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—A woman identified by police as Margaret Hogan, attractive 37-year-old government employe, was fatally shot in her apartment today and a man police named as Ralph D. Whitt, 31, a rug salesman, was critically wounded.

Two hours after the woman died in Emergency Hospital, police said they believed Whitt shot her and then turned the gun on himself but added their investigation was incomplete.

Sgt. Bernard C. Crooke of the homicide squad said: "He apparently shot her."

The shooting, climax of a lovers' quarrel, police said, took place in the third floor apartment of the woman, a payroll clerk in the Treasury Department. She was shot three times in the abdomen and died an hour later. Whitt was wounded once or twice in the head.

Jewish Underground Threatens Soldiers

JERUSALEM, Oct. 21, (AP)—Agents of the Stern Gang, Jewish underground organization, posted leaflets throughout Tel Aviv tonight threatening death to "every soldier carrying or wearing a gun in Palestine."

The posters also warned of other measures "to combat our British enemies."

WHALE RUNS AGROUND—A playful 60-foot whale which ventured too close to shore and was stranded on the ebb tide in the harbor at Huntington, N. Y., yesterday, died before it could be gotten back into deeper water. The whale, which attracted many spectators by its ponderous flappings, will be towed 40 miles out to open sea and blown to pieces with demolition charges.

Georgia Negro's Election Status Straightened Out

Scott Is Valid Candidate Until He Withdraws Or Proved Ineligible

ATLANTA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Aurelius S. Scott, negro educator, who offered for coroner of Fulton county (Atlanta), will be regarded as a valid candidate until he personally withdraws or until he is proved indigible, County Ordinary (clerk) Eugene Gunby said today.

Gunby said he would hear evidence Thursday, October 24, on petition of a white candidate who has challenged Scott's eligibility on grounds he was a resident of Birmingham in 1945 and hence failed to fulfill residence requirements.

Reported In Hospital

Scott, meanwhile, was reported in Hubbard General Hospital at Nashville, where officials said he was under care of a psychiatrist. The negro candidate was taken to Nashville Sunday, after members of his family had requested police to take him in custody for violence. Police Chief Hornsby said Scott was "booked to hold on charges of disorderly conduct and demented."

Scott's brother, Publisher Cornelius A. Scott, of the Atlanta Daily World, issued a statement saying: "Aurelius has not been sent or carried to any asylum as reported. No member of his family has made any charge about his mental condition. No one has been authorized to state where he is except that he is resting at a private hospital in a nearby city."

Amplifies Statement

Cornelius Scott later amplified this saying: "The officers would not take Aurelius to the hospital without our consent. We made no charges. He was not guilty of violating any law. However, after making us sign a statement before agreeing to hold Aurelius in jail, the officers seem to have put in the record these slanderous charges about his being demented."

Chief Hornsby said he had no comment on this statement.

Trolley Strikes Pole At Baltimore; 27 Hurt

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Twenty-seven persons were injured today when a Baltimore Transit Company trackless trolley crashed into a trolley pole on Howard street, south of Centre street.

Twenty-three, including the driver, William L. Smith, 23, were taken to Maryland General Hospital, where 11 doctors attended them. Police said the driver swerved sharply to avoid striking a car that had stopped in front of him, and collided with the pole.

An eyewitness said three women were thrown through the windshield of the trolley to the pavement.

END OF 27-DAY MARITIME STRIKE APPARENTLY NEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Negotiators for East and Gulf coast ship owners and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (CIO) ended their discussions tonight and Federal Conciliator Frederick Livingston said that an announcement regarding an agreement would be made shortly.

Upon adjournment of the session with MEBA, the operators resumed discussion with the Masters, Mates and Pilots (AFL), the second union involved in the 21-day maritime strike.

55 Germans Held In Bomb Investigation

STUTTGART, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP)—American constabulary troopers, equipped with tanks and machine guns and aided by German police, took 55 Germans into custody tonight in two lightning raids in search of anti-denazification terrorists who exploded three bombs here Saturday.

The first raid, lasting two hours in an area four blocks square, netted 30 suspects.

The second raid was directed against residents of air raid bunkers in another section of this war-damaged city.

American intelligence agents said underground bunkers in most German cities had been found to house subversive elements such as homeless youths who are members of the "Edelweiss Pirathen" (Edelweiss Pirates), a Nazi-minded organization reputedly headed by SS (Elite Guard) men who have escaped capture.

The dragnet followed by a few hours a warning by a United States official in Berlin that widespread bombings and other acts of sabotage might occur in the United States occupation zone in protest against denazification measures.

However, headquarters of United States forces in Europe issued a statement declaring that there was no indication that the bombings were manifestations of a "zone-wide organized demonstration."

Meanwhile, an American security official here disclosed that six ammunition caches, buried by the Nazis in the closing stages of the war, had been uncovered in Southern Germany. He added that they had no apparent connection with the bombing.

House Committee Orders Subpoena For Eisler

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) —The House Committee on Un-American Activities moved today for a full-dress investigation of Communist activities in this country.

It ordered a subpoena for Gerhard Eisler, of New York, identified by Louis F. Budenz as the director of Communist activity in the United States. Eisler has disavowed that role.

Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, renounced Communism to rejoin the Catholic Church and now is an economics instructor at Fordham University.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga) said the date for Eisler's appearance will be decided later.

Adm. Waesche Rites

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Funeral services for Adm. Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard from 1936 to 1945, were held at nearby Fort Meyer, Va., today. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery. Adm. Waesche died Thursday at the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., after a long illness. He was 60.

Tension Mounts In Bombay; Three Stabbed To Death

Violence Erupts In Calcutta With Police Firing On Rioters

NEW DELHI, Oct. 21. (AP)—Tension heightened in Bombay today as news spread of attacks on Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru in the northwest frontier country by hostile Moslems and violence erupted in Calcutta as refugees from Eastern Bengal continued to pour into the city.

Three persons were killed and 12 injured in knifing in different parts of Bombay today, a communique said. Eight persons were wounded, one fatally, when police opened fire on rioters in Calcutta.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the predominantly Hindu Congress Party, said in an interview, meanwhile, that communal disturbances would end "much quicker" if British influence were removed from India.

Nehru, former Congress Party president and leading minister in the new interim government, and three members of his party were injured when Moslems stoned their car near Malakand during Nehru's tour of the wild northwest frontier area.

Calcutta police opened fire outside Sealdah Station, the Calcutta terminus of all East Bengal trains, in order to break up fighting that arose between Moslems and Hindus over the custody of two refugee girls from East Bengal.

The girls were reported victims of forced conversion to the Moslem religion.

J. A. Kripalani, president-elect of the Congress Party, returned today to Camilla in Eastern Bengal. He took with him thousands of leaflets in the Bengal language which he planned to drop from his plane advising Hindus that forced conversion and marriages are not valid according to religious and social laws, and assuring them of Congress Party aid.

Negro Pleads Guilty To "Ice-Box" Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Felix Maple, 31-year-old negro laborer pleaded guilty today to the "ice-box" murder of Miss Constance Catanzaro, 40, who was found last month in the chilling room of a wholesale fruit company, her throat slit with a banana knife.

Detective Lt. William Feehley told Magistrate Solomon Liss at arraignment today that he had a statement signed by Maple in which the laoorer said he had gone into the headquarters of the fruit company and then "lost his head."

Lewis Charges Government Is Violating Pact

UMW Leader Moves To Reopen Whole Question Of Wages, Hours

"Significant Changes" In Pay Policy Cited By Union Chieftain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The threat of a paralyzing new soft coal strike next month arose tonight as John L. Lewis charged the government with breaching its contract and moved to reopen the whole question of wages, hours and a host of other matters.

The charge of contract violation, believed to be the first such accusation ever levelled by a union against the government as the operator of seized properties, arose from interpretations of the existing pact. Lewis said the government's interpretations had cost his United Mine Workers "millions of dollars."

Unless the government, which has been operating the mines since last spring's strike, agrees to a new contract a new walkout could start November 20.

Late tonight the Coal Mines Administrator, Capt. C. H. Collison, made public a letter which he said had been sent to Lewis prior to the latter's blast against the government.

In it Collison denied there had been any "intentional violation" by the government of the Krug-Lewis agreement.

Collison released a letter to Lewis, which he said was based on a conference Saturday between Krug and Lewis, and was not a reply to Lewis' charges today. Collison added, however, that a reply would be issued, probably tomorrow morning.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, withheld formal comment until "we learn more about" the Lewis move.

Owners Not Consulted

Battle said apparently the negotiations were strictly between Lewis and the government and that there had been no consultation with "the people who own the coal mines."

Citing "significant changes in government wage policy," Lewis, recovered from his appendicitis operation, asked a conference with Secretary of the Interior Krug and Krug's negotiators here November 1 to negotiate "new arrangements affecting wages, hours, rules, practices, differentials, inequalities and all other pertinent matters."

The Krug-Lewis contract of May 29, which ended the last strike, provided, Lewis said, that either party

Krug Denies Lewis' Charge; Doesn't Want To Reopen Coal Talks

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug tonight flatly denied charges made in Washington today by John L. Lewis, mine union chief, that the government had breached its contract with the United Mine Workers (AFL).

Krug also declared he did not desire to reopen negotiations with the union, which Lewis asked, saying such negotiations would tend to prolong that period of government operation of the coal mines.

He said Lewis' charge came as a surprise, since he had talked with Lewis last Saturday morning in Washington.

Earlier, he said he feared Lewis' charges might lead to a miners strike.

Plastic Preserves Thousands Of GIs' Initials On Rails Of Largest Liner

NEW YORK, Oct. 21, (AP) — The mighty Queen Elizabeth, gleaming in a new peacetime dress but proudly bearing on her boat rails mute evidence of her doughty six years of war service, today brought the postwar era of luxury travel to New York harbor.

Completely refitted in exterior colors of black, red and white and lavish interior decorations, the 83,674-ton liner nevertheless had preserved in special plastic coating on her rails the initials of thousands of American GIs she carried to and from the war.

Dignitaries, screeching harbor whistles, escorting airplanes, spouting fireboats and a sunlit day—all combined to provide a perfect setting for the Queen's first entry into New York as a luxurious passenger vessel.

The Elizabeth, world's largest ship, was not completed until after the war began in Europe. Painted a drab gray, she first came here in March, 1940, a fugitive from Nazi bombs. After that, she piled up nearly 500,000 wartime miles and carried more than 800,000 military personnel. Often she had a full division, 15,000 men, aboard.

Her 2,314 passengers on this trip included such notables as Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Sen. Connally (D-Tex), and Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, all coming here for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

The welcoming committee was headed by Acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri. And 175 customs agents remarked "this is like old times."

The Elizabeth made no attempt to break the transatlantic liner record held by her sister ship, the Queen Mary. The Elizabeth steamed from Southampton to Ambrose Light outside New York harbor in

Deluge Strikes

Inventors Swamp Patent Office

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Somebody ought to invent a gadget which would help a panting patent office keep up with all the new inventions.

Patent Commissioner Casper W. Ooms told a reporter today that his office could close up shop right now, and still have enough work to keep busy for three years.

Ooms guessed there will be 100,000 requests for patents this year. Best previous year: 1929, with 94,000 requests.

Why the rush?

Ooms suspects that part of this year's crop of inventions sprouted during the war.

"Some of it is secret stuff that couldn't be mentioned in public before," he said.

"Then other inventors had trouble finding patent lawyers to handle their inventions for them. About a third of the patent lawyers either were in the Army of in some specialized work."

The Patent Office, of course, fell behind during the war, when it was short-handed.

Ooms figured on catching up as soon as the war was over—and then the deluge hit.

Another patent problem: Space for all the records needed.

Years ago the Patent Office gave up trying to keep models of the inventions, but it's still pressed for room, what with detailed patent plans pouring in by the hundreds each day.

"The trouble here is that we have to keep all the old stuff while we're adding the new," he explained.

"Just like a cemetery."

High Court To Review Case Of Boy Accused And Sentenced Same Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look back 14 years and rule on whether a 17-year-old Michigan boy's constitutional rights were violated when he was charged with murder and sentenced to life imprisonment on the same day.

One of the issues is whether the Constitution's guarantee of due process of law was breached by the speed of the hearing at Adrian, Michigan, when Rene De Meerleer was accused the morning of May 16, 1932, of killing a filling station attendant in a robbery and sentenced that afternoon to a life term.

The case is expected to get close attention from all law enforcement officers because of the court's earlier rulings on rights of persons accused of crimes.

In one of these which stirred wide controversy, the court set aside the murder convictions of three brothers McNabb in 1943 on grounds they were not arraigned with reasonable promptness after their arrest. Retried for the shooting of an internal revenue agent in Tennessee, the McNabbs were convicted of manslaughter.

De Meerleer's petition for a hearing was one of 45 on which the court announced action. The date for arguments will be set later.

For the second successive Monday, the court met and adjourned without announcing whether it will consider a move by three Georgia voters to invalidate their state's county unit election system. Under that system, Eugene Talmadge won the Democratic nomination for governor although trailing James C. Carmichael in popular votes.

Nor did the court announce whether it would hear the suit by a group of Illinois voters to force redistricting of that state's congressional districts.

Bakers' Appeal For Decontrol Turned Down

ORDER LIFTING LIDS UNDER CONSIDERATION

Restaurant Industry Committee Asks Removal Of Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — A broad order lifting price controls from wheat flour, bread and other bakery products is still under consideration, informed officials said tonight, despite formal rejection today of a baking industry petition for decontrol.

The Agriculture Department denied the industry petition, which was based on the contention that bread and other bakery products are available in ample supply.

However, the department emphasized in a statement that its denial does not preclude termination of ceilings by the OPA and the department, on other grounds. Such other grounds were used last week in the case of meats and vegetable oil food products.

Officials who declined to permit use of their names said the two agencies are considering a broad order lifting controls from wheat flour, semolina, farina, and breakfast cereals, as well as from bread and other bakery products.

They said action on this order was expected within a day or so.

Under the Price Control Act, an industry petition for decontrol may be granted only if the affected commodity is found to be available in ample supply for all demands. The law, however, gives the OPA authority to end controls without regard to the supply situation, with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

In other decontrol actions today:

1. OPA's Restaurant Industry advisory Committee petitioned OPA and the Agriculture Department for removal of price controls from all restaurant food and drinks. Two weeks ago OPA granted a 15 per cent increase in ceilings on meat menu items.

2. The OPA's Soap Industry Advisory Committee asked removal of price ceilings on soap if and when ceilings are lifted from the inedible fats and oils used in making soap.

The baking industry petition was denied by Administrator Robert H. Shields, of the department's Production and Marketing Administration, acting for Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who is out of the city.

In a letter to the OPA Baking Industry Advisory Committee, sponsor of the petition, Shields said "our inability to conclude from these available information that bakery products for the current marketing season are not in short supply will not preclued our considering with the Office of Prince Administration the advisability of removing price controls from any or all types of bakery products on bases other than supply."

The department has also denied a milling industry petition for decontrol of flour, semolina and farina on the grounds that wheat, the raw material for these products, is in short supply, when considered from the standpoint of possible foreign demands upon this country.

State Health Department Asks $4,820,254 Budget

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21. (AP)—The State Department of Health today requested a budget of $4,820,254 for 1948-49—nearly three times the department's appropriation for the current biennium.

The request, submitted to Budget Director Walter N. Kirkman, includes proposed expenditures of some $400,000 in each of the next two years for a new Baltimore medical-care program.

Would Constitute "Rude Interference," Russia Contends; U. S. To Keep Sharp Eye On Balloting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Russia sharply rebuffed today an American plan for Allied action to insure free elections in Bulgaria, declaring the plan would constitute "rude interference" in Bulgarian affairs.

The State Department, obviously irate, made public an exchange of messages on the development and served notice it would keep a sharp eye on the coming elections.

The exchange centered around a United States request, originated by Secretary of State Byrnes in Paris September 24, for a special session of the tri-power Bulgarian Control Commission "to consider the steps" necessary to insure a free election. These steps were listed as:

1. Freedom of press, radio and assembly for the opposition.

2. Non-interference of the militia either with candidates or voters except to maintain law and order.

3. Release of political prisoners or open formulation of charges against them.

4. Elimination of any possible threat of post-election retaliation for political reasons.

Byrnes, in a letter to Prime Minister Kimon Georgiev, of Bulgaria, reminded him of the hopes expressed at Yalta by President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill for free democratic elections in the liberated lands.

From Bulgaria's Premier came the reply, however, that the Bulgarian government already had decided to hold "entirely free elections" and added:

1. Freedom of the press in Bulgaria "within the limits of existing law is fully assured."

2. "All basic laws, and especially the electoral law, forbid the militia in our country interfering or exerting influence in the choice of candidates for popular representatives."

3. The government "liberated all persons detained on political grounds and against whom there was no basis for formulation of infringement of existing laws."

4. The government has taken steps which "will constitute sufficient guarantee for the removal of any menace of post-election reprisals on political grounds."

From Biryusov came the reply that the guarantee of free elections "is the prerogative of the Bulgarian government."

"Therefore," he wrote, "the discussion of questions raised by the commission and even more, the taking of any kind of measures by the commission would be in violation of these prerogatives and a rude interference in the internal affairs of Bulgaria. On the other hand the commission cannot consider these questions, as they do not come under its jurisdiction, as determined by the armistice agreement with Bulgaria."

Robertson then replied to Biryusov that he disagreed with the latter's conclusions, and notified him that he was forwarding ther to Secretary Byrnes "with the request that he take such steps in the circumstances as he may consider necessary."

Delegates To Assembly Pledge Themselves To Work For Peace

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The chief delegates of Soviet Russia and Great Britain and of small nations the world over pledged themselves today to work for peace and the success of the United Nations General Assembly which will begin its history-making sessions at Flushing Meadow Wednesday.

Hundreds of diplomats, many of them landing from the British liner Queen Elizabeth, thronged New York. Already there were many quiet conferences in preparation for the coming "Town Meeting Of The World."

Molotov Is Optimistic

Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Russian Foreign Minister and head of the Soviet delegation, said at a news conference on the Queen Elizabeth he was sure that "important tasks now before the United Nations can be successfully solved and that any difficulties can be overcome, given good will and the real desire to achieve mutual understanding."

Winding up the ocean voyage which gave him a brief respite from his schedule at the Paris peace conference, Molotov said the Russian delegation "will contribute to insuring that the work of the United Nations General Assembly and the Council of Foreign Ministers is successful and is accomplished in the interests of strengthening peace and the well-being of peoples, great and small."

Philip Noel Baker, British Air Secretary and leader of his country's delegation until Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin arrives, expressed optimism over the assembly meeting.

Sen. Connally Arrives

The arrival of United States Sen. Tom Connally, of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, on the liner, completed the roster of the United States delegation, which has taken over a complete hotel floor and set up a "Little State Department" for the assembly.

Connally told newsmen: "I deplore the talk of another war. Russia doesn't want another war; Stalin and Molotov do not want another war. The Paris peace conference (which he attended as an American delegate) accomplished substantial results. We did not secure all that we desired and Russia did not get all that it was looking for. On the whole, the conference was a success. It tears the curtain from secret diplomacy—it lets the people of the world know what is going on."

WHALE RUNS AGROUND—A playful 60-foot whale which ventured too close to shore and was stranded on the ebb tide in the harbor at Huntington, N. Y., yesterday, died before it could be gotten back into deeper water. The whale, which attracted many spectators by its ponderous flappings, will be towed 40 miles out to open sea and blown to pieces with demolition charges.

Georgia Negro's Election Status Straightened Out

Scott Is Valid Candidate Until He Withdraws Or Proved Ineligible

ATLANTA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Aurelius S. Scott, negro educator, who offered for coroner of Fulton county (Atlanta), will be regarded as a valid candidate until he personally withdraws or until he is proved indigible, County Ordinary (clerk) Eugene Gunby said today.

Gunby said he would hear evidence Thursday, October 24, on petition of a white candidate who has challenged Scott's eligibility on grounds he was a resident of Birmingham in 1945 and hence failed to fulfill residence requirements.

Reported In Hospital

Scott, meanwhile, was reported in Hubbard General Hospital at Nashville, where officials said he was under care of a psychiatrist. The negro candidate was taken to Nashville Sunday, after members of his family had requested police to take him in custody for violence. Police Chief Hornsby said Scott was "booked to hold on charges of disorderly conduct and demented."

Scott's brother, Publisher Cornelius A. Scott, of the Atlanta Daily World, issued a statement saying: "Aurelius has not been sent or carried to any asylum as reported. No member of his family has made any charge about his mental condition. No one has been authorized to state where he is except that he is resting at a private hospital in a nearby city."

Amplifies Statement

Cornelius Scott later amplified this saying: "The officers would not take Aurelius to the hospital without our consent. We made no charges. He was not guilty of violating any law. However, after making us sign a statement before agreeing to hold Aurelius in jail, the officers seem to have put in the record these slanderous charges about his being demented."

Chief Hornsby said he had no comment on this statement.

END OF 27-DAY MARITIME STRIKE APPARENTLY NEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Negotiators for East and Gulf coast ship owners and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (CIO) ended their discussions tonight and Federal Conciliator Frederick Livingston said that an announcement regarding an agreement would be made shortly.

Upon adjournment of the session with MEBA, the operators resumed discussion with the Masters, Mates and Pilots (AFL), the second union involved in the 21-day maritime strike.

55 Germans Held In Bomb Investigation

STUTTGART, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP)—American constabulary troopers, equipped with tanks and machine guns and aided by German police, took 55 Germans into custody tonight in two lightning raids in search of anti-denazification terrorists who exploded three bombs here Saturday.

The first raid, lasting two hours in an area four blocks square, netted 30 suspects.

The second raid was directed against residents of air raid bunkers in another section of this war-damaged city.

American intelligence agents said underground bunkers in most German cities had been found to house subversive elements such as homeless youths who are members of the "Edelweiss Pirathen" (Edelweiss Pirates), a Nazi-minded organization reputedly headed by SS (Elite Guard) men who have escaped capture.

The dragnet followed by a few hours a warning by a United States official in Berlin that widespread bombings and other acts of sabotage might occur in the United States occupation zone in protest against denazification measures.

However, headquarters of United States forces in Europe issued a statement declaring that there was no indication that the bombings were manifestations of a "zone-wide organized demonstration."

Meanwhile, an American security official here disclosed that six ammunition caches, buried by the Nazis in the closing stages of the war, had been uncovered in Southern Germany. He added that they had no apparent connection with the bombing.

Tension Mounts In Bombay; Three Stabbed To Death

Violence Erupts In Calcutta With Police Firing On Rioters

NEW DELHI, Oct. 21. (AP)—Tension heightened in Bombay today as news spread of attacks on Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru in the northwest frontier country by hostile Moslems and violence erupted in Calcutta as refugees from Eastern Bengal continued to pour into the city.

Three persons were killed and 12 injured in knifing in different parts of Bombay today, a communique said. Eight persons were wounded, one fatally, when police opened fire on rioters in Calcutta.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the predominantly Hindu Congress Party, said in an interview, meanwhile, that communal disturbances would end "much quicker" if British influence were removed from India.

Nehru, former Congress Party president and leading minister in the new interim government, and three members of his party were injured when Moslems stoned their car near Malakand during Nehru's tour of the wild northwest frontier area.

Calcutta police opened fire outside Sealdah Station, the Calcutta terminus of all East Bengal trains, in order to break up fighting that arose between Moslems and Hindus over the custody of two refugee girls from East Bengal.

The girls were reported victims of forced conversion to the Moslem religion.

J. A. Kripalani, president-elect of the Congress Party, returned today to Camilla in Eastern Bengal. He took with him thousands of leaflets in the Bengal language which he planned to drop from his plane advising Hindus that forced conversion and marriages are not valid according to religious and social laws, and assuring them of Congress Party aid.

Lewis Charges Government Is Violating Pact

"Significant Changes" In Pay Policy Cited By Union Chieftain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The threat of a paralyzing new soft coal strike next month arose tonight as John L. Lewis charged the government with breaching its contract and moved to reopen the whole question of wages, hours and a host of other matters.

The charge of contract violation, believed to be the first such accusation ever levelled by a union against the government as the operator of seized properties, arose from interpretations of the existing pact. Lewis said the government's interpretations had cost his United Mine Workers "millions of dollars."

Unless the government, which has been operating the mines since last spring's strike, agrees to a new contract a new walkout could start November 20.

Late tonight the Coal Mines Administrator, Capt. C. H. Collison, made public a letter which he said had been sent to Lewis prior to the latter's blast against the government.

In it Collison denied there had been any "intentional violation" by the government of the Krug-Lewis agreement.

Collison released a letter to Lewis, which he said was based on a conference Saturday between Krug and Lewis, and was not a reply to Lewis' charges today. Collison added, however, that a reply would be issued, probably tomorrow morning.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, withheld formal comment until "we learn more about" the Lewis move.

Owners Not Consulted

Battle said apparently the negotiations were strictly between Lewis and the government and that there had been no consultation with "the people who own the coal mines."

Citing "significant changes in government wage policy," Lewis, recovered from his appendicitis operation, asked a conference with Secretary of the Interior Krug and Krug's negotiators here November 1 to negotiate "new arrangements affecting wages, hours, rules, practices, differentials, inequalities and all other pertinent matters."

The Krug-Lewis contract of May 29, which ended the last strike, provided, Lewis said, that either party

Krug Denies Lewis' Charge; Doesn't Want To Reopen Coal Talks

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug tonight flatly denied charges made in Washington today by John L. Lewis, mine union chief, that the government had breached its contract with the United Mine Workers (AFL).

Krug also declared he did not desire to reopen negotiations with the union, which Lewis asked, saying such negotiations would tend to prolong that period of government operation of the coal mines.

He said Lewis' charge came as a surprise, since he had talked with Lewis last Saturday morning in Washington.

Earlier, he said he feared Lewis' charges might lead to a miners strike.

No Settlement Of TWA Pilots' Strike In Sight

Thousands Of Passengers, Tons Of Cargo Stranded; 115 Planes Idle

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (AP) — Pilots of Trans-World Airline, striking for higher pay, paralyzed its operations at home and abroad tonight with no prospect of an immediate settlement in sight.

Some 3,000 passengers and tons of cargo were stranded as the company was compelled to cancel all flights of 115 planes, including eight now in foreign countries, for 24 hours after the sudden walkout. A second 24-hour cancellation was in prospect for tomorrow, and others after that.

Jack Frye, TWA president, said government seizure of the line "might" be a solution. But no immediate move in that direction was apparent.

Earn Up To $12,598

Their earnings now are calculated by the union at $7,600 to $9,100 a year. The company said they range as high as $12,598.

The company said that if the demands were granted, highest paid pilots would get $15,300 a year. The union said its proposals range from $930.31 to $1,187.43 monthly, depending upon the flights and planes a pilot flies.

The company cancelled all flights on its 28,270-mile system for 24 hours and announced it will continue cancellations from day to day pending an agreement with the Air Line Pilots Association. Eight planes overseas were among those grounded.

A daily average of more than 3,600 passengers, 25 tons of mail and 33 tons of express is carried by

Reece "Interprets" Soviet Broadcast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Carroll Reece, Republican National Chairman, said today a Moscow broadcast commending the CIO-Political Action Committee "was intended as a commedation of Democrat candidates for the Senate and House."

This is "proved," Reece added, by a quotation from the remarks of the Russian commentator, A. Ossipov, that "if the hopes of Republicans for a dominant position in Congress are realized, this would mean a national disaster for the country, the end of democracy in America."

"The Russian broadcaster, of course, used the world 'democracy' in the Russian sense, meaning the system under which the actions and even the thoughts of all individuals are dictated from Moscow," Reece's statement continued. "He is 100 per cent right in stating that the election of a Republican Congress will mean the end of that kind of 'democracy' in the United States."

UNRRA Eases Embargo On Chinese Shipments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (AP) — UNRRA Director Fiorello H. LaGuardia tonight announced the easing of an embargo against relief shipments to China.

He said in a statement that sailings will be permitted "in accordance with capacity of ports of destination" and that the ships "will move as soon as the present labor disputes make it possible."

LaGuardia said relaxation of the embargo was made possible by "the great improvement in the rate of distribution of supplies from China's ports."

Lovers' Quarrel Ends In Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—A woman identified by police as Margaret Hogan, attractive 37-year-old government employe, was fatally shot in her apartment today and a man police named as Ralph D. Whitt, 31, a rug salesman, was critically wounded.

Two hours after the woman died in Emergency Hospital, police said they believed Whitt shot her and then turned the gun on himself but added their investigation was incomplete.

Sgt. Bernard C. Crooke of the homicide squad said: "He apparently shot her."

The shooting, climax of a lovers' quarrel, police said, took place in the third floor apartment of the woman, a payroll clerk in the Treasury Department. She was shot three times in the abdomen and died an hour later. Whitt was wounded once or twice in the head.

Jewish Underground Threatens Soldiers

JERUSALEM, Oct. 21, (AP)—Agents of the Stern Gang, Jewish underground organization, posted leaflets throughout Tel Aviv tonight threatening death to "every soldier carrying or wearing a gun in Palestine."

The posters also warned of other measures "to combat our British enemies."

Trolley Strikes Pole At Baltimore; 27 Hurt

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Twenty-seven persons were injured today when a Baltimore Transit Company trackless trolley crashed into a trolley pole on Howard street, south of Centre street.

Twenty-three, including the driver, William L. Smith, 23, were taken to Maryland General Hospital, where 11 doctors attended them. Police said the driver swerved sharply to avoid striking a car that had stopped in front of him, and collided with the pole.

An eyewitness said three women were thrown through the windshield of the trolley to the pavement.

House Committee Orders Subpoena For Eisler

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) —The House Committee on Un-American Activities moved today for a full-dress investigation of Communist activities in this country.

It ordered a subpoena for Gerhard Eisler, of New York, identified by Louis F. Budenz as the director of Communist activity in the United States. Eisler has disavowed that role.

Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, renounced Communism to rejoin the Catholic Church and now is an economics instructor at Fordham University.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga) said the date for Eisler's appearance will be decided later.

Adm. Waesche Rites

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Funeral services for Adm. Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard from 1936 to 1945, were held at nearby Fort Meyer, Va., today. Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery. Adm. Waesche died Thursday at the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., after a long illness. He was 60.

Negro Pleads Guilty To "Ice-Box" Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Felix Maple, 31-year-old negro laborer pleaded guilty today to the "ice-box" murder of Miss Constance Calanzaro, 40, who was found last month in the chilling room of a wholesale fruit company, her throat slit with a banana knife.

Detective Lt. William Feehley told Magistrate Solomon Liss at arraignment today that he had a statement signed by Maple in which the laoorer said he had gone into the headquarters of the fruit company and then "lost his head."

Plastic Preserves Thousands Of GIs' Initials On Rails Of Largest Liner

NEW YORK, Oct. 21, (AP) — The mighty Queen Elizabeth, gleaming in a new peacetime dress but proudly bearing on her boat rails mute evidence of her doughty six years of war service, today brought the postwar era of luxury travel to New York harbor.

Completely refitted in exterior colors of black, red and white and lavish interior decorations, the 83,674-ton liner nevertheless had preserved in special plastic coating on her rails the initials of thousands of American GIs she carried to and from the war.

Dignitaries, screeching harbor whistles, escorting airplanes, spouting fireboats and a sunlit day—all combined to provide a perfect setting for the Queen's first entry into New York as a luxurious passenger vessel.

The Elizabeth, world's largest ship, was not completed until after the war began in Europe. Painted a drab gray, she first came here in March, 1940, a fugitive from Nazi bombs. After that, she piled up nearly 500,000 wartime miles and carried more than 800,000 military personnel. Often she had a full division, 15,000 men, aboard.

Her 2,314 passengers on this trip included such notables as Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Sen. Connally (D-Tex), and Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, all coming here for the United Nations General Assembly meeting.

The welcoming committee was headed by Acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri. And 175 customs agents remarked "this is like old times."

The Elizabeth made no attempt to break the transatlantic liner record held by her sister ship, the Queen Mary. The Elizabeth steamed from Southampton to Ambrose Light outside New York harbor in

Deluge Strikes

Inventors Swamp Patent Office

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Somebody ought to invent a gadget which would help a panting patent office keep up with all the new inventions.

Patent Commissioner Casper W. Ooms told a reporter today that his office could close up shop right now, and still have enough work to keep busy for three years.

Ooms guessed there will be 100,000 requests for patents this year. Best previous year: 1929, with 94,000 requests.

Why the rush?

Ooms suspects that part of this year's crop of inventions sprouted during the war.

"Some of it is secret stuff that couldn't be mentioned in public before," he said.

"Then other inventors had trouble finding patent lawyers to handle their inventions for them. About a third of the patent lawyers either were in the Army of in some specialized work."

The Patent Office, of course, fell behind during the war, when it was short-handed.

Ooms figured on catching up as soon as the war was over—and then the deluge hit.

Another patent problem: Space for all the records needed.

Years ago the Patent Office gave up trying to keep models of the inventions, but it's still pressed for room, what with detailed patent plans pouring in by the hundreds each day.

"The trouble here is that we have to keep all the old stuff while we're adding the new," he explained.

"Just like a cemetery."

High Court To Review Case Of Boy Accused And Sentenced Same Day

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to look back 14 years and rule on whether a 17-year-old Michigan boy's constitutional rights were violated when he was charged with murder and sentenced to life imprisonment on the same day.

One of the issues is whether the Constitution's guarantee of due process of law was breached by the speed of the hearing at Adrian, Michigan, when Rene De Meerleer was accused the morning of May 16, 1932, of killing a filling station attendant in a robbery and sentenced that afternoon to a life term.

The case is expected to get close attention from all law enforcement officers because of the court's earlier rulings on rights of persons accused of crimes.

In one of these which stirred wide controversy, the court set aside the murder convictions of three brothers McNabb in 1943 on grounds they were not arraigned with reasonable promptness after their arrest. Retried for the shooting of an internal revenue agent in Tennessee, the McNabbs were convicted of manslaughter.

De Meerleer's petition for a hearing was one of 45 on which the court announced action. The date for arguments will be set later.

For the second successive Monday, the court met and adjourned without announcing whether it will consider a move by three Georgia voters to invalidate their state's county unit election system. Under that system, Eugene Talmadge won the Democratic nomination for governor although trailing James C. Carmichael in popular votes.

Nor did the court announce whether it would hear the suit by a group of Illinois voters to force redistricting of that state's congressional districts.

USSR-Supported Party Is Routed At Berlin Polls

Communism Is "Also-Ran"; Western Allies Are Jubilant

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 21, (AP)—Shattered, hungry Berlin, still looked upon as Germany's political barometer, decisively rejected Communism in yesterday's elections but took a stand farther to the left than in prewar years complete unofficial returns showed tonight.

Residents of the one-time capital, participating in their first free elections since Adolf Hitler's rise to power, gave the left-of-center Social Democrats a wide plurality in the voting for city and borough councils.

Socialist Unity Party Third

The Communist-dominated, Russian-supported Socialist Unity Party ran a poor third to the middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats. The Liberal Democrats were fourth.

The final figures:

Social Democrats 48.2 per cent and 948,851 votes; Christian Democrats 21.7 per cent and 432,016 votes; Socialist Unity 19.3 per cent and 383,269 votes; Liberal Democrats 9.1 per cent and 181,875 votes.

The results indicated to the Russians that their favored party had little chance of winning German-wide elections which presumably would be held when the country is united.

Western Allies Jubilant

Political observers predicted that the Russians would let the Socialist Unity Party slide into oblivion and would concentrate on a tightly-knit Communist Party.

The Western Allies were openly jubilant about the results, and their feelings were expressed by the German newspaper Kurier, published in the French Zone, which said "Berlin was not as far east as it seemed to be."

One Social Democrat newspaper ran a banner headline "Berlin chooses Freedom."

Lewis Charges

could reopen it by giving 10 days' notice of a new negotiating conference. And, Lewis added, 15 days after that date (November 1) either party can terminate the contract after five additional days.

The miners traditionally do not work without a contract. Thus the way would be open for another walkout November 20 unless a new agreement is reached before then.

Changes Not Specified

Lewis's notice to Krug did not specify what wage and hour changes he seeks. In this he followed the strategy which he pursued in starting his last negotiations with the coal operators, where his chief emphasis was upon a demand for a health and welfare fund to be financed by the mine owners. The collapse of these negotiations and the ensuing strike led to the government's seizing the mines and negotiating a contract with Lewis.

The government still is operating them. Subsequent efforts to bring about an agreement between Lewis and the owners which would permit the government to get out of the picture came to nothing.

Lewis also did not amplify his reference to "significant changes in government wage policy having occurred."

President Truman, in removing the price controls from meat—an action which Lewis urged, incidentally—announced that the whole decontrol program consequently would be accelerated, including removal of the government wage controls. But these still remain in effect.

In addition to the wage policy "changes," Lewis cited two rulings by Krug which, he contended, "constitute a breach" of the May 29 contract. They involve the manner of computing the levy for the welfare fund, and application of vacation pay provisions.

The contract provides that for the welfare fund "there shall be paid into said fund by the operating managers five cents per ton on each ton of coal produced for use or sale." Krug ruled that this tonnage should be measured by the weight of coal at the railroad where it is carried away from the mines.

Lewis contends that the tonnage should be measured at the mine tipple. The use of railroad weights, he said, "means several million dollars lost as a result of coal being weighed after washery processes, as well as the loss of coal for company use."

The vacation pay dispute arose over the manner of its application to miners working less than a full year. This pay is $100 a year. Lewis declared the government had interpreted the contract provision so that "a miner who had changed jobs or quit prior to the government's taking over the mines on May 22 would lose pro rata monthly vacation payments and thus runs into millions of dollars."

"For 90 days our representatives have protested these breaches of contract which have led to the loss of millions of dollars due to the mine workers," Lewis wrote Krug. "Your adamant refusal to correct these errors continues unabated."

Passengers, Mail Diverted

Passengers and mail were being diverted to other airlines and to railroads.

There was no immediate indication of any clear-cut steps by government officials to end the strike.

Robert P. Cole, secretary of the National Mediation Board, said he knew nothing definite about the situation. The office of John R. Steelman, Reconversion Director and adviser to President Truman on labor matters, said the strike was being handled by the Mediation Board.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, which probably would be the agency called upon to make recommendations, discussed the strike but had nothing to say after its meeting except that it is greatly interested because of the possible effect on American competition overseas and the possible cost in subsidies.

Air Travel Takes Big Jump In 1946

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21, (AP)—William A. M. Burden, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, estimated tonight that domestic air travel for 1946 will total six billion passenger miles, or nearly double the 1945 figures.

In an address before an aviation meeting of the Baltimore Association of Commerce, Burden said airline travel for this year would total more than 25 per cent on estimated 1946 Pullman traffic. In addition, he said, non-scheduled and charter firms alone are employing 750 twin-engined DC-3s, or more than the scheduled airlines.

"The volume of traffic carried by these (charter) operators is relatively small," he said, "but the six largest operators are currently carrying more freight and express than all the scheduled airlines together."

"In the international field, traffic carried on United States flag lines will exceed 900,000,000 passenger-miles, or twice the 1945 total x x x."

Turning to airport development, the Assistant Secretary urged municipal authorities to "set their sights high" in planning to accommodate this increased traffic.

B. And O. Orders 80,200 Tons Of Steel

BALTIMORE—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has just placed orders for 80,200 tons of steel rail and 35,000 tons of track accessories, according to an announcement made today by Roy B. White, president of the company. This is the heaviest tonnage of rail which the B. and O. has been able to secure from the steel mills since before the war.

Of the rail orders, the Bethlehem Steel Company will roll 28,500 tons of 131-pound rail and 11,500 tons of 112-pound rail; the Carnegie Steel Company, 27,600 tons of 131-pound rail and 11,600 tons of 112-pound rail; and the Inland Steel Company, 1,000 tons of 112-pound rail.

Orders for the track accessories have been placed with various manufacturers.

Halloween Pranks Are On Increase

State and City Police said last night that damage from Halloween pranksters is on the increase and warned that anyone caught causing damage will be prosecuted.

City officers said some one threw a rock twice the size of an egg through a window of the Root home at 402 Pine avenue about 9:30 last night, narrowly missing a young girl who is sick in bed.

State Police reported a lot of complaints of windows being broken and gates being carried away. They added that home owners who have come out to remonstrate with the "pranksters" have been greeted with showers of rocks.

Officers said the damage is being caused by teen age boys.

Red Cross Completes 683 Terminal Leave Blanks

The local Red Cross office has completed, notarized and addressed 683 terminal leave pay application blanks thus far, according to Mrs. Louise Dean, home service secretary.

The blanks became available on August 26 and during the remainder of that month 197 were filled out at the local office. In September 387 were completed and 99 thus far in October.

Veterans have one year in which to file their applications, Mrs. Dean said.

Local News In Brief

Residents of the Broadway Circle area expressed pleasure last night at the installation of street lights in that area. According to Howard Brown, Sydney Phillips and others, the area has been a "dark and dismal" place, but the new lights make it possible for residents to take a shorter route to and from their homes after dark, and avoid climbing the steep hill at Broadway. William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and lights, had workmen install two lights in the neighborhood Saturday.

Steel City Gets Back To Normal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP)—This city was rapidly regaining its stride today as industrial and civic leaders bent to the task of overcoming the losses of a costly 27-day power strike.

Less than 12 hours after striking power unionists had voted to arbitrate their dispute, the Duquesne Light Company reported that normal power service was being supplied to this 817-square mile industrial area.

The company said at least 50 per cent of the downtown arc lights had been replaced and that all of them would be burning by tomorrow night. Virtually all downtown street lights had burned out during the work stoppage.

For the first time since September 23, Pittsburgh's downtown "Golden Triangle" was aglow. Movie marquees and big display signs glittered again. Street car service was back to normal.

Hundreds of industrial plants resumed work at full speed to make up for nearly a month's idleness. Scores of other plants reduced by the strike to one shift were back to three.

The Sun-Telegraph estimated the strike cost the steel capital "at least $300,000,000" in business and wages. The United States Employment Service office said $3,179,360 had been doled out in unemployment compensation to 79,484 persons from September 30 to October 17.

Amvets Name Officers Of Basketball Team

Norman Gerdeman was named business manager of the Amvets basketball team at a meeting held last night at the Amvets Home, Baltimore street.

C. William Spangler was appointed athletic adviser of the organization.

John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh will coach the team.

Fifteen attended last night's session.

New uniforms will be purchased and arrangements are being made to hold practice sessions and games at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium. It is hoped to have the first drill next week.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Charley Millan, 140½, Baltimore, gained a unanimous decision tonight over Maxie Starr, 142, also of Baltimore, in a ten-round welter of flying blows that never subsided after the opening round.

Leo Stoll, 185, won a unanimous verdict from Howard Bennett, 176, in an eight-round semifinal reminiscent of Donnybrook Fair. George Slater, 159½, Philadelphia, took a pasting from Frank Lacy, 157.

The Coliseum management reported 2,819, paid admissions for a gross of $6,933.25.

Atlanta Police Believe Missing Bride Is Alive

Investigators Report Girl Was Seen Twice Near Rooming House

ATLANTA, Oct. 21, (AP) — Atlanta police theorized tonight that the missing bride of an Ohio Marine veteran is alive, despite crumpled notes indicating she may have contemplated suicide.

Detectives J. E. Helms and W. M. Holland, investigating the disappearance of a young woman listed as Evelyn Cornish, Tulsa, Okla., said she had been seen twice Saturday shortly after leaving the tourist rooming house where she had registered. At a dry-cleaning establishment, where she took a pair of riding breeches to be cleaned and mended, her conversation suggested she may have gone to Athens.

In Cleveland, O., Marine Veteran William F. Globaker, Euclid City, O., said the young woman was his bride of six weeks, who had left him nine days ago after a quarrel over her working hours as a registered nurse.

Globaker said they met in Chicago August 29, the day he received his discharge, and were married in Cleveland September 4. A torn marriage license, attesting her marriage to Globaker, was found in the Atlanta rooming house, along with a crumpled note saying in part: "I am afraid to die, but I am more afraid to live."

The Atlanta detectives said a young woman answering the bride's description had been seen twice near Ponce De Leon avenue and Ponce De Leon Place, in the area of the rooming house.

Titled Germans Testify In Trial

FRANKFURT, Oct. 21. (AP)—A princess and two princes of the House of Hesse testified today in the military trial of Maj. David F. Watson on charges of conspiring with two other United States Army officers to steal the Hesse royal jewels from Kronberg Castle.

The titled witnesses merely laid the groundwork for the prosecution's case by relating how they hid $1,500,000 worth of family gems under the floor of the castle to protect them from Allied air raids.

They did not mention the Burlingame, Calif., major by name. He is accused of helping Col. Jack Durant and his wife steal the jewels after a German workman revealed their hiding place in the castle when it was occupied as an officers' club.

Mrs. Durant has been convicted and sentenced to five years imprisonment and her husband is awaiting trial.

Troopers' Use At Struck Plant Will Be Probed

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 21—(AP)—Gov. Clarence W. Meadows promised an investigation today of the use of state police at gates of the struck International Nickel Company plant, Raymond A. Gulley, sub-regional director of the CIO-United Steelworkers of America, reported.

Gulley said he went to Charleston to ask Meadows why 14 troopers had been stationed near the Inco entrance last Saturday. He quoted the Governor as saying the officers had been requested in a telegram to State Police Superintendent W. E. Burchett from Common Pleas Judge H. Clay Warth.

The jurist last week continued indefinitely an injunction limiting picketing of some CIO 200 salaried workers at Inco. They struck October 1 for a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

About 2,500 CIO unionists employed at five other major industrial plants left their jobs Friday in what Gulley said was a protest demonstration against the injunction.

USSR-Supported Party Is Routed At Berlin Polls

Communism Is "Also-Ran"; Western Allies Are Jubilant

BERLIN, Germany, Oct. 21. (AP)—Shattered, hungry Berlin, still looked upon as Germany's political barometer, decisively rejected Communism in yesterday's elections but took a stand farther to the left than in prewar years, complete unofficial returns showed tonight.

Residents of the one-time capital, participating in their first free elections since Adolf Hitler's rise to power, gave the left-of-center Social Democrats a wide plurality in the voting for city and borough councils.

Socialist Unity Party Third

The Communist-dominated, Russian-supported Socialist Unity Party ran a poor third to the middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats. The Liberal Democrats were fourth.

The final figures:

Social Democrats 48.2 per cent and 948,851 votes; Christian Democrats 21.7 per cent and 432,016 votes; Socialist Unity 19.3 per cent and 383,269 votes; Liberal Democrats 9.1 per cent and 181,875 votes.

The results indicated to the Russians that their favored party had little chance of winning German-wide elections which presumably would be held when the country is united.

Western Allies Jubilant

Political observers predicted that the Russians would let the Socialist Unity Party slide into oblivion and would concentrate on a tightly-knit Communist Party.

The Western Allies were openly jubilant about the results, and their feelings were expressed by the German newspaper Kurier, published in the French Zone, which said "Berlin was not as far east as it seemed to be."

One Social Democrat newspaper ran a banner headline "Berlin chooses Freedom."

Lewis Charges

could reopen it by giving 10 days' notice of a new negotiating conference. And, Lewis added, 15 days after that date (November 1) either party can terminate the contract after five additional days.

The miners traditionally do not work without a contract. Thus the way would be open for another walkout November 20 unless a new agreement is reached before then.

Changes Not Specified

Lewis's notice to Krug did not specify what wage and hour changes he seeks. In this he followed the strategy which he pursued in starting his last negotiations with the coal operators, where his chief emphasis was upon a demand for a health and welfare fund to be financed by the mine owners. The collapse of these negotiations and the ensuing strike led to the government's seizing the mines and negotiating a contract with Lewis.

The government still is operating them. Subsequent efforts to bring about an agreement between Lewis and the owners which would permit the government to get out of the picture came to nothing.

Lewis also did not amplify his reference to "significant changes in government wage policy having occurred."

President Truman, in removing the price controls from meat—an action which Lewis urged, incidentally—announced that the whole decontrol program consequently would be accelerated, including removal of the government wage controls. But these still remain in effect.

In addition to the wage policy "changes," Lewis cited two rulings by Krug which, he contended, "constitute a breach" of the May 29 contract. They involve the manner of computing the levy for the welfare fund, and application of vacation pay provisions.

The contract provides that for the welfare fund "there shall be paid into said fund by the operating managers five cents per ton on each ton of coal produced for use or sale." Krug ruled that this tonnage should be measured by the weight of coal at the railroad where it is carried away from the mines.

Lewis contends that the tonnage should be measured at the mine tipple. The use of railroad weights, he said, "means several million dollars lost as a result of coal being weighed after washery processes, as well as the loss of coal for company use."

The vacation pay dispute arose over the manner of its application to miners working less than a full year. This pay is $100 a year. Lewis declared the government had interpreted the contract provision so that "a miner who had changed jobs or quit prior to the government's taking over the mines on May 22 would lose pro rata monthly vacation payments and thus runs into millions of dollars."

"For 90 days our representatives have protested these breaches of contract which have led to the loss of millions of dollars due to the mine workers," Lewis wrote Krug. "Your adamant refusal to correct these errors continues unabated."

Passengers, Mail Diverted

Passengers and mail were being diverted to other airlines and to railroads.

There was no immediate indication of any clear-cut steps by government officials to end the strike.

Robert P. Cole, secretary of the National Mediation Board, said he knew nothing definite about the situation. The office of John R. Steelman, Reconversion Director and adviser to President Truman on labor matters, said the strike was being handled by the Mediation Board.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, which probably would be the agency called upon to make recommendations, discussed the strike but had nothing to say after its meeting except that it is greatly interested because of the possible effect on American competition overseas and the possible cost in subsidies.

Air Travel Takes Big Jump In 1946

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21. (AP)—William A. M. Burden, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, estimated tonight that domestic air travel for 1946 will total six billion passenger miles, or nearly double the 1945 figures.

In an address before an aviation meeting of the Baltimore Association of Commerce, Burden said airline travel for this year would total more than 25 per cent on estimated 1946 Pullman traffic. In addition, he said, non-scheduled and charter firms alone are employing 750 twin-engined DC-3s, or more than the scheduled airlines.

"The volume of traffic carried by these (charter) operators is relatively small," he said, "but the six largest operators are currently carrying more freight and express than all the scheduled airlines together."

"In the international field, traffic carried on United States flag lines will exceed 900,000,000 passenger-miles, or twice the 1945 total x x x."

Turning to airport development, the Assistant Secretary urged municipal authorities to "set their sights high" in planning to accommodate this increased traffic.

B. And O. Orders 80,200 Tons Of Steel

BALTIMORE—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has just placed orders for 30,200 tons of steel rail and 35,000 tons of track accessories, according to an announcement made today by Roy B. White, president of the company. This is the heaviest tonnage of rail which the B. and O. has been able to secure from the steel mills since before the war.

Of the rail orders, the Bethlehem Steel Company will roll 28,500 tons of 131-pound rail and 11,500 tons of 112-pound rail; the Carnegie Steel Company, 27,600 tons of 131-pound rail and 11,600 tons of 112-pound rail; and the Inland Steel Company, 1,000 tons of 112-pound rail.

Orders for the track accessories have been placed with various manufacturers.

Halloween Pranks Are On Increase

State and City Police said last night that damage from Halloween pranksters is on the increase and warned that anyone caught causing damage will be prosecuted.

City officers said some one threw a rock twice the size of an egg through a window of the Root home at 402 Pine avenue about 9:30 last night, narrowly missing a young girl who is sick in bed.

State Police reported a lot of complaints of windows being broken and gates being carried away. They added that home owners who have come out to remonstrate with the "pranksters" have been greeted with showers of rocks.

Officers said the damage is being caused by teen age boys.

Red Cross Completes 683 Terminal Leave Blanks

The local Red Cross office has completed, notarized and addressed 683 terminal leave pay application blanks thus far, according to Mrs. Louise Dean, home service secretary.

The blanks became available on August 26 and during the remainder of that month 197 were filled out at the local office. In September 387 were completed and 99 thus far in October.

Veterans have one year in which to file their applications, Mrs. Dean said.

Local News In Brief

Residents of the Broadway Circle area expressed pleasure last night at the installation of street lights in that area. According to Howard Brown, Sydney Phillips and others, the area has been a "dark and dismal" place, but the new lights make it possible for residents to take a shorter route to and from their homes after dark, and avoid climbing the steep hill at Broadway. William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and lights, had workmen install two lights in the neighborhood Saturday.

Steel City Gets Back To Normal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP)—This city was rapidly regaining its stride today as industrial and civic leaders bent to the task of overcoming the losses of a costly 27-day power strike.

Less than 12 hours after striking power unionists had voted to arbitrate their dispute, the Duquesne Light Company reported that normal power service was being supplied to this 817-square mile industrial area.

The company said at least 50 per cent of the downtown arc lights had been replaced and that all of them would be burning by tomorrow night. Virtually all downtown street lights had burned out during the work stoppage.

For the first time since September 23, Pittsburgh's downtown "Golden Triangle" was aglow. Movie marquees and big display signs glittered again. Street car service was back to normal.

Hundreds of industrial plants resumed work at full speed to make up for nearly a month's idleness. Scores of other plants reduced by the strike to one shift were back to three.

The Sun-Telegraph estimated the strike cost the steel capital "at least $300,000,000" in business and wages. The United States Employment Service office said $3,179,360 had been doled out in unemployment compensation to 79,484 persons from September 30 to October 17.

Fifteen attended last night's session.

New uniforms will be purchased and arrangements are being made to hold practice sessions and games at SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium. It is hoped to have the first drill next week.

Atlanta Police Believe Missing Bride Is Alive

Investigators Report Girl Was Seen Twice Near Rooming House

ATLANTA, Oct. 21, (AP) — Atlanta police theorized tonight that the missing bride of an Ohio Marine veteran is alive, despite crumpled notes indicating she may have contemplated suicide.

Detectives J. E. Helms and W. M. Holland, investigating the disappearance of a young woman listed as Evelyn Cornish, Tulsa, Okla., said she had been seen twice Saturday shortly after leaving the tourist rooming house where she had registered. At a dry-cleaning establishment, where she took a pair of riding breeches to be cleaned and mended, her conversation suggested she may have gone to Athens.

In Cleveland, O., Marine Veteran William F. Globaker, Euclid City, O., said the young woman was his bride of six weeks, who had left him nine days ago after a quarrel over her working hours as a registered nurse.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

This wacky world! The Japanese government invited Eleanor Roosevelt and Pearl Buck, via Associated Press, to pass on its new national constitution before approving it themselves . . . The Communist Political Association in New York has a Regent telephone exchange. . . . In case you're thinking of going to Tahiti to get away from shortages, don't; there is a grave shortage of clothing there, even of the g-strings which natives are supposed to wear. . . . There'll be a shortage of peanuts here because there's a shortage of nails, which fasten the slats on which the goober vines are placed during the harvesting process. . . . Oysters soon will be shipped in plastic shells, not because of any shortage but because plastic is lighter and stronger than the shells provided by Mother Nature. . . . In Washington they're referring to it as the "surrender of corn-Wallace."

Radio union threatening to do a by Enid Bagnold, Bretaigne Windust to direct...Something new in Petrillo by demanding one paid professional for each amateur used on all audience-participation shows. . . Two major film companies want to screen-test Ted Williams. . . . Three film companies have their eyes on N.B.C. Baritone Warde Donovan, just signed for the lead in "Toplitzky of Notre Dame." . . . A mustache-less Groucho Marx to startle his public in the new Norman Krasna play, "The Garden of Eden" . . . Clark Gable will be rushed into "The Hucksters" because Warners has already bought a story called "Radio City" with a similar theme . . .Producer Edgar levy expected to close with Playwright Malvin Wald to bring the latter's "Father Was President" to Broadway before Wald leaves for the West Coast to talk Hollywood into a picture about New York's homicide squad.

Joyce Redmond, the unforgettable bawd of the Old Vic's "King Henry IV," to star on Broadway this winter in "Lottie Dundess," new drama casting will be George Wood's plan to pick all showgirls for the Colonial Inn at Hollywood, Fla., from the ranks of models at ex-GI Dave March's new agency...Broadway talk is that Mary Jane Walsh will step into the Ethel Merman shoes in "Annie Get Your Gun" when, if, and as, Ethel decides to take a vacation...The Chet O'Briens (he was once Marilyn Miller's husband) dissolving via the Reno route... It-is-later-than-you-think department: The American Artists' Group is sending out its 1946 selection of Christmas cards.

The Broadway theater season, which started out so auspiciously took a nosedive with "The Duchess of Malfi," which is a grand opera libretto without a grand opera score, and the all-Negro "Lysistrata," which would have been a lot better as a hot musical comedy set to swing music. The Club Zanzibar puts on a better show... Canada Lee's debut in whiteface, in "The Duchess," adds nothing to his stature as an actor and had best be written off as a stunt...The Cotillion Room of the Hotel Pierre, of all places, has come up with the best new South American combination in years, the Gonzales-Menconi band of five pieces. The former is Brazilian, the latter an Italian concert pianist, and between them they do tricks with an original composition called "Tumbango" that will have the town's dance fans by the ears.

Walter Redell, general manager for Bing and Bing Hotel Properties and supervisor of the Drake Hotel, is penning a history on the cycles of dining habits in Gotham for the past 30 years, with an eye to restoring some of that "gastronomic graciousness" which vanished when restaurant dancing came in. He's made a good start at the Drake Room, which has joined the list of New York's topflight non-dancing restaurants, which include the Colony, Chambord, Voisin, Baroque, Barberry Room (under the direction of Carlo, maitre d'hotel since Jim Moriarty's death), etc., etc.....Incidentally, with all the food restrictions, New York still has more good restaurants in one block than the average city can boast within its boundaries...Brooklyn's Hotel St. George is opening a new over-the-river rendezvous, the Stardust Room, next Thursday.

Freedom Returns To The American People

In deciding to remove, by November 1, price controls on most foods, commodities and services, OPA takes the step which will release almost over night the nation's tremendous powers of production and thus end in short order the sacrifices which have caused so much misery in so many American households. The fact that this obviously is politically inspired does not detract from its desirability.

For a time prices probably will be higher but when industry and business become adjusted to the freedom which has been denied them in the last five years the nation's economy should gradually return to something resembling a normal basis. Had OPA controls been permitted to remain indefinitely, the period of readjustment would have been still more extendd.

It was high time for action of this sort. Price control, however necessary it may have been deemed when the country was at war, long ago lost its standing as an instrument of peace. It could not be enforced with any degree of effectiveness and was an open invitation to black marketeers to ply their nefarious trade. It left producers and manufacturers in such a state of perpetual uncertainty that only the gamblers among them had the termerity to produce goods in large quantity.

The retreat of the Truman Administration from price controls is, of course, hailed as a victory for the free-enterprise system. But the system has won a battle, not a war. The war will be won only if, and when, free enterprise proves to the American people that it can serve them better than governmnt planning and management of the economy.

The opportunity for proof is coming sooner and more fully than seemed possible until the last few weeks, and it should not be muffed. In the next couple of weeks, as we have pointed out, enterprise will be given more freedom than it has had for five years. That prospect is welcomed by all Americans. But freedom also has a price, and an obligation.

Since meat was decontroled we have talked with a good many plain citizens—among them a taxi driver, a bus driver, an elevator man, an apartment janitor, a cook, a restaurant waiter, a telephone operator. Most of them are glad to see the meat industry escape government shackles. The meat famine had confirmed their suspicion that OPA was doing more harm than good. They expected meat prices to rise sharply for a while. They voiced a touching faith that forces of which they had heard or read—competition and the law of supply and demand—soon would bring them down again. They should not lose sight of the fact that they, too, can work wonders in this direction. They can hurry the downward trend by refusing to buy meat cuts, the price for which they consider exhorbitant.

We feel that business, taking cognizance of the faith expressed by those people in the matter of supply and demand, will guard against doing anything to betray such faith. Business faces many trials. Inflationary pressures remain strong. Shortages will continue to ipterfere with normal operation of supply and demand, and tempt chislers and profiteers. Future wages are an uncertain quantity. And industry, business and agriculture have every right and duty to earn fair profits, if they can. The least that any business can do safely and honorably is to seek no unfair profit, to charge no unnecessarily high price, to practice vigorous and honest competition, to take no self advantage of the return of a free economy to the American people.

But in spite of the protestations of the left-wingers, there will be few Americans to mourn the passing of the era of regimentation which was imposed upon them. Peace time price control was a measure contrary to all American concepts and traditions. It has failed so signally that it should never be tried again except in the case of the most dire emergency, if then.

It may be necessary to lay off some of OPA's 36,000 employes, now that they have even less to do, but OPA will try to hold this line until the last possible paycheck.

Short-Term Enlistments

The disadvantages of the Army's policy of permitting short-term enlistments to get volunteers to sign up are demonstrated by reports from the American occupation zone in Germany.

Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, commander of the United States constabulary force, says redeployment will deprive him of 12,000 of his 33,000 men by the end of January. Nearly 75 per cent of the force is composed of Regular Army men, but at least 25 per cent of these are signed up for only one year. General Harmon has had to spend far more time training replacements than he can afford to spend. The steady ebb of trained men and flow of green hands mar the effectiveness of the organization.

The Navy has discontinued short enlistments on the ground that no sooner is a man properly trained than his hitch is up. The Army ought to follow the example.

Static hampered the vote count in Alaska, which may have given the Kansas City Pendergast boys a new idea.

Nature Takes A Hand

As though we didn't have enough man-made dangers to worry about, a comet recently just missed the earth by eight days, and a hurricane threatened to play hob with Florida. Looks like Mother Nature wants to get in on the play.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE UNWELCOME WART

MANY skin blemishes are often a cosmetic problem rather than a menace to health. The wart is in this category. Consequently the cure should be no worse than the disease.

These tiny tumors develop most commonly in children and usually blossom on the hands, fingers, or face. A virus is believed responsible, gaining entrance via areas which have been scratched, injured or damaged thru pressure.

As a rule, they are only temporary, but those which persist may represent merely an overgrowth of tissue in which the infection died out long ago. Their contagious nature can be demonstrated by piercing one with a sterile needle and then scratching it on the normal skin. Within a few weeks a new crop will appear along this line.

There are several varieties, and the most popular—verruca vulgaris—ranges in size from a pinhead to a split pea and is half conical in shape. At first a reddish lesion, scarcely visible above the surface, is exhibited. Later it becomes elevated, hard, dry, and grayish in color. The top is furrowed, rough, and uneven.

When they break out on the eyelids and neck (verruca filiformis), the growths are slender, flexible, and threadlike and are covered with smooth and apparently normal epidermis. The planta type attacks the sole of the foot just behind the base of the toes. Pain is generally present on walking because the pressure points they produce impart the feeling as tho one had a pebble in the shoe.

Warts are fickle, and no one treatment is universally successful. Most physicians are likely to suggest simple remedies for they see no advantage in replacing an innocent blemish with a conspicuous scar. Furthermore, the tumor may vanish at any time without leaving a trace. Altho some have been known to persist for 30 years, the majority fade away within three years. Apparently this occurs after immunity is established.

Warts are frequently amenable to suggestion in children. Some have disappeared by rubbing potato peelings or kernels of corn or painting the area with a harmless solution. As a rule, they have a tendency to heal spontaneously.

A single or solitary sprout can be dissolved thru the application of chemicals. A silver nitrate pencil, fuming nitric acid, trichloracetic acid, and glacial acetic acid are all valuable. But whichever is used, care must be exertised because sometimes the solution finds its way into the surrounding skin and a burn may result in an ugly scar.

Vaccines, mercury, iodines, and certain arsenicals given hypodermically are helpful in destroying the virus. A more reliable method is to have the excrescences removed surgically or burned off with carbon dioxide snow or X-rays. The latter must be employed with great caution and only by experts in this field.

ARE YOU SURE?

D. H. writes: What makes a person stout even tho he doesn't eat much?

REPLY

If he is healthy, and his metabolism normal, then his diet is responsible. The amount of food consumed is relative and a large meal to one is bird food to another. In addition, many individuals prefer dishes high in calories, even tho the quantity does not seem excessive.

ALBUMIN

R. S. F. writes: Is Bright's disease always present when the urine shows albumin?

REPLY

No, for in some cases it can be considered harmless and in others, the cause is unknown. One cannot come to this conclusion, however, unless the kidneys have been studied thoroly.

STROKE AND LOW PRESSURE

Mrs. J. writes: Can apoplexy occur with low blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes, altho it is far more common when the tension is elevated. Much depends upon the condition of the blood vessels. Those with low pressures are not immune to hardening of the arteries, which encourages apoplexy.

PULSE RATE

M. E. W. writes: What is the normal heart beat for a woman of 31?

REPLY

Between 70 and 90 would be ideal. The pulse is not considered rapid unless it exceeds 100. Under 60 is classified as slow.

NEW SUPER HOTEL

A hotel chain is planning to put up a big, super hotel in Los Angeles. It won't be ready until 1948, but already a line of tourists half a block long is standing in front of the vacant lot. I don't know how high they're going to build the hotel, but the plans call for the rooms on the top floor to be equipped with hot and cold running oxygen. And they'll have bars on the windows to keep the eagles out. . . It's going to be built in the typical California style of architecture. They already have the contractors out buying up materials, such as mucilage, chicken wire and cardboard.

And they're going to have real super-service. They're going to have special bellboys to help people who want to sneak out, carry their bags down the fire-escape . . . and the keyholes will all be equipped with little trapdoors, so the peeping toms can stick their hands inside and applaud. It's so fancy, they won't have any house dicks. They'll be referred to as "domicile Richards."

They're trying hard to make it a different sort of hotel. If their plans work out it'll be the only hotel in the world that has a stationary front door and a revolving lobby.

Inflation Can Be Checked By Cautious Action

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the past two weeks the country has seen several developments in the factors which, as a group, determine whether there will be further increases in the prices of foods and further inflation, or whether extreme inflation will be avoided.

About separate factors—government control over prices, government control over wages so far as it existed, possible demands by labor unions for new wage raises, balanced budget—there has been a great outflow of information. From each of the developments separately, deductions have been made. But the answer lies in the sum of all the developments and their effect upon each other.

The basic conditions that produced inflation are two. One is, abnormal quantity of money. The other is, abnormal scarcity of goods. These conditions existed at the end of the war, because during all wars governments create great quantities of money, and at the same time diversion of industry to war purposes causes scarcity of ordinary goods. When these conditions exist, goods go up in price, and the increase in price tends to start a spiral which, unless checked, goes on to inflation.

Balance of Money and Goods

Prevention of inflation lies in bringing quantity of money and quantity of goods into balance. This is taking place, and is furthered by recent developments. At both the money end and the goods end, forces are under way which make toward balance.

At the money end, the government has diminished the creating of more money, in the sense that it has diminished its borrowing in excess of expenses, which is a way in which additional money is created. To say the same thing another way, the government is approaching a balanced budget. The importance of this in the preventing of inflation is expressed in a saying, that there has never been a really violent inflation in a country in which the budget was balanced.

As evidence of reduction of the abnormal quantity of money, the "circulating medium" — that is money in peoples' pockets and merchants' cash drawers—has diminished. There is promise, also, of a check to the creation of another kind of money, credit-money. The check consists of a recent slight rise in interest rates. It costs more to borrow, to create credit money.

At the goods end, there are likewise helpful developments. Increased output of goods, and more goods for sale, is made likely by the ending of government controls over prices. That government controls create scarcity was made vividly evident in the case of meats. Not only control, by government over prices but over the free movement of goods tend to cause scarcity. The policy of the government already largely put in effect, is to remove all controls over all kinds of goods, with some exceptions, such as retention of control over rents for some time.

Way Open To Create Goods

In several basic respects, the way is now open for industry to create goods in such quantity as to meet the needs of the country. This of itself would tend to prevent further increases in prices, perhaps even bring some reductions in prices. Such a condition, if it comes, would arrest rising cost of living and promise prevention of inflation.

In the present condition, this is dependent upon avoidance of further wage demands and strikes. Wage demands, if successful, cause higher prices of goods, and strikes prolong the scarcity of goods. If there is another wave of these the hope created by other factors would be defeated. It would renew the upward spiral which we have had since the war.

Some labor leaders realize this. They realize also that a strong public opinion has arisen that is unsympathetic to wage raises and strikes. In discussions now taking place by labor leaders about policy in the near future with respect to wage demands, there is some caution and restraint.

If a new wave of wage raises is averted for a few months, there should be an immense outflow of goods, accompanied by a levelling-off of prices or even some reduction. This would check the rising cost of living, and this in turn would remove the motive and justification for further wage raises.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Goering Would Have Spent $150,000,000 To Defeat Roosevelt; John L. Lewis Used By Nazis As Political Tool; Miners' Boss Helped Germany Get Mexican Oil

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—Drew Pearson today continues his revelation of important excerpts from the suppressed Rogge report on Nazi activities in the United States early in the war.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — Hermann Goering was depressed and sullen shortly before he cheated the Allied gallows. But when interviewed some time earlier by John Rogge and Justice Department officials on his attempts to sway American public opinion, he was frank and full of braggadocio.

Gladly would he have spent $150,000,000 to defeat Roosevelt in 1940, Goering said. During the same interview he boasted that he once considered having a sign hung in his office reading:

"No business transacted here unless the amount involved is more than $10,000,000."

The only thing Goering quibbled about when he told Justice Department agents of Nazi attempts to defeat Roosevelt through John L. Lewis, was that he would not have paid as little as $3,000,000 to do the job.

It was Lewis's close friend, W. R. Davis, then engaged in selling Mexican oil to the German navy, who went to Berlin after the war started in 1939 and discussed the whole strategy with Goering.

"Davis talked to me about John L. Lewis and that one ought to reach an agreement with him," Goering told Justice Department agents. "He was the one who was seeing me about oil business in Mexico. He told me that Lewis was not tied up with either of the two major parties but was a free lance as far as political decisions were concerned and was one of the few people who understood Germany's position. He presented himself as a very good friend of John L. Lewis. He told me that Lewis was very influential; that he was backed by the trade unions; and that he was very important for a positive attitude towards Germany. Davis told me that by the use of his influence on Lewis, he could influence the elections in such a manner so that the re-election of Roosevelt which, in his opinion, would mean war, would be prevented."

The Rogge report then continues:

"We asked Goering whether in connection with using Lewis to try to defeat Roosevelt in 1940, any sum of money from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 was mentioned. (We had heard that a representative of the Italian Government by the name of Luigi Podesta had taken from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in United States currency to the German Consulate General in New York.)

" 'I am certain,' Goering replied, 'that I did not talk to Davis about influencing the American Presidential election on a basis as that of $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. If a serious representative had approached me and told me that he could influence the Presidential election so that they elected a President who was favorably inclined towards Germany, for such a purpose I would have spent $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.' "

Davis To Be Secretary Of State

Lewis was quite aware of the Davis conversations with Goering, according to the Rogge report, Davis even giving him a telephone report from Berlin.

Altogether Goering had three different talks with Davis.

"Goering thought well of the scheme of having Davis work with Lewis and split up the labor unions in order to prevent the re-election of President Roosevelt," says the Rogge report.

"During the course of the conversations, Davis stated that he was willing to put millions of his own money into the scheme to have Lewis help him defeat President Roosevelt, but added that he would need additional financial support from the Nazis. He further stated that in the event he was successful in having President Roosevelt defeated, he wanted to become Secretary of State.

"At the third session Goering stated that he had taken their discussion up with Hitler and gave Davis an advance copy of the speech which Hitler made on October 6, 1939. In that speech, as Hertslet himself commented, 'Hitler made no real concessions whatever toward peace.' " (It was to negotiate an appeasement peace that John L. Lewis purported to be interested in the Davis mission.)

"During the course of these conferences, Davis, according to Hertslet, telephoned from Berlin to Lewis in the United States and reported to him."

Note—Joachim Hertslet, referred to above, was a director of the German Economic Ministry, who collaborated closely with Davis in buying oil and later came to the United States to confer with both Davis and Lewis.

Lewis Helps Nazi Oil

The United Mine Workers boss, incidentally, played a role in helping his friend Davis get hold of Mexican oil for the Nazi Navy. Describing this, the Rogge report says:

"On March 18, 1938, Mexico expropriated the oil properties of certain American, British and Dutch companies. A month later, on April 18 between 5 and 6 P. M., John L. Lewis telephoned Alejandro Carille at Mexico City (a leader of the Mexican Labor Movement).

"Lewis told Carille that Davis had left New York on the 3 P. M. plane en route to Mexico City, assured Carille that Davis was 'absolutely all right', and told Carille to tell President Cardenas that Germany and Italy were the only countries with which it would be safe for Mexico to deal. Lewis instructed Carille to see President Cardenas that night and tell him these things without fail."

Various other visits between Lewis and the Mexicans are described in the Rogge report. Mexican labor leader Toledano visited Lewis in Washington later that year, following which Lewis paid a return visit to Mexico City.

"With the help and support of Lewis," the Rogge report continues, "Davis did secure control of expropriated Mexican oil." Thus the oil seized from American and British companies was sold to the German Navy through Davis and his friend John L. Lewis.

Pat Hurley Enters

After Davis returned from his conferences with Goering in 1939, Lewis called on Adolf Berle, then Assistant Secretary of State, with an implied threat to turn the CIO (which Lewis then headed) against Roosevelt if he did not appease Hitler. Regarding the Berle-Lewis conference, the Rogge report says:

"Lewis mentioned generally the resolutions passed at the CIO convention in support of the President and pointed out that these resolutions could just as easily have been passed in opposition to the President. Lewis went on to say that the time had come for a general peace."

This was emphatically rejected by Berle.

Davis and Lewis continued with their plans to sell oil to Germany and at this point Patrick J. Hurley,

Byrnes Delicately Phrased Talk Carries Most Profound Meaning

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Few speeches of an international character carry their profound meaning in such delicately phrased terms as are written in the historic address made by Secretary of State Byrnes on his return from Paris.

Had the speech been spelled out in explicit terms it would have been regarded as sensational. As it is the speech probably is too sensational for the Russian government to dare to print it in the Russian papers for its people to read. This address contains the answer to the question that Russia has been asking for several months: Will the United States defend herself if encroached upon by Russia and will the United Nations enforce the charter principles against any nation, Russia included, if some sudden attack or surprise seizure of territory is made, as for instance, at Trieste?

The passages of the Byrnes speech which make history are remarkable for their restrainst and their absence of bluster, and yet they foretell American policy with unmistakable clarity. The secretary of state said, for example:

"There must be no seizure of power in Trieste after this war as there was in Fiume after the last war."

Warning Against Tito Coup D'Etat

That's a warning against a Tito coup d'etat. It means force will be used by the United Nations to overcome such a situation. But the address carefully avoids any specific threats. Only by a significant piece of implicit expression does the secretary come squarely down to the problem of enforcing peace. He tackles it this way:

"If states are to reach agreements they must act in good faith and in the spirit of conciliation. They must not launch false and misleading propaganda against one another. They must not arbitrarily exercise their power of veto, preventing a return to conditions of peace and delaying economic reconstruction . . .

"States must not unilaterally by threats, by pressures, or by force disturb the established rights of other nations. Nor can they arbitrarily resist or refuse to consider changes in the relationships between states and peoples which justice, fair play and the enlightened sentiments of mankind demand."

That's the implicit form at its best. For no single country or state is mentioned and it might, for all anyone knows who reads, be merely a generality or an abstraction defining the ethics of good international behavior. The whole world knows however, that the Russian leaders have been acting "unilaterally" and have been using "pressure" and have been "arbitrarily exercising their power of veto." But it isn't diplomatic to be explicit and mention names. In the very next paragraph, however, Secretary Byrnes gets a little more concrete. He says:

"We must cooperate to build a world order, not to sanctify the status quo, but to preserve peace and freedom, based on justice. And we must be willing to cooperate with one another—veto or no veto—to defend, with force if necessary, the principles and the purposes of the charter of the United Nations."

Going Ahead Without Russia

Could anything be plainer? The United Nations Organization is going ahead with or without Russia to "defend with force if necessary the principles and the purposes." of the charter. That is really no thinly veiling warning. It is a statement of allied policy on which it is to be presumed, all the other democratic nations are agreed.

The Secretary of State wants to make sure his remarks are pot considered bellicose. The words need not be so construed. They can be considered friendly, because Russia too, presumably, will want to defend the United Nations charter to which she has subscribed.

The address was unquestionably an answer to many criticisms voiced by Foreign Minister Molotov and the Russian press which is controlled by the government in Moscow. It was Molotov who insulted the American people and their government the other day by declaring the United States had enriched itself in World War II. At whose expense? Mr. Byrnes says:

"Coming from any state these charges would be regrettable to us. They are particularly regrettable when they are made by the Soviet government to whom we advanced more than $10,000,000,000 of lend-lease during the war and with whom we want to be friendly in time of peace."

There might have been something said about tens of thousands of American lives lost in opening the "second front" which Stalin appealed to us to give him in order to relieve the pressure of the German armies which invaded Russian soil.

Answer Plain Enough

But the answer is plain enough. Though it is not couched in the implicit language of the first part of the address, it is unequivocal and reveals to all who read that the United States government feels that the totalitarian government in Moscow is irresponsible in its actions and its statements and carries on a mischevious propaganda through its controlled press attacking the policies and motives of the United States. Most significant is the final paragraph of the address which doesn't say a word about the Communist government in Moscow at all but extends in behalf of the American people "the hand of friendship to the people of the Soviet union and to all other people in this war-weary world." The emphasis is on peoples—not governments.

Secretary Byrnes has answered pro-Russian critics in the United States as well as anti-American critics in Russia.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I used to live on 69th Street and Madison Avenue. One morning a couple of G-men backed up a wagon and took away a counterfeiter and his hand press from the apartment across the hall. I had been bumping into this non-union printer in the elevator for two years, and didn't even know his name, much less his chosen work. And that, my tinies, is life in the Big City. All you ever get to know about your neighbors is their taste in radio programs.

Billy Rose

Having delivered myself of this prologue, if the stage manager will ring up the curtain, I'll proceed with the libretto. There are three players in this piece: Guthrie McClintic, the distinguished producer and director; his wife, known to theatre marquees as Katharine Cornell; and Little Willie, you cut-rate philosopher.

The setting is the block on which I live, a fancy dead-end on the East River called Beekman Place. Five houses away reside the other two players. For seven years, if there was cabbage cooking in my kitchen, they knew it. But in all that time we've only run into each other on the Drama page—with two exceptions. Each will serve as an act in this pipsqueak playlet.

A few years ago I caught a matinee performance of "No Time for Comedy", in which Miss Cornell was starring. After the show, the company manager asked me if I'd like to go back and say hello to the Great Lady. I told him I'd be delighted, and followed him backstage. Her dressing room was playing to Squeezing Room Only. A score of matinee magpies were chattering, "You were mah-velous! Such depth of feeling! Such authority!"

Sitting there in a wrapper, Miss Cornell smiled on cue, and looked as if she wished we would all get lost. I started to duck, but the company manager pushed through and introduced me.

"How did you like the play?" she asked, for what must have been the fortieth time.

"I didn't pay much attention to it," I said. "I was watching you—the way you walked. You remind me of Dolores, Ziegfeld's greatest showgirl."

Miss Cornell smiled like oh-what-a-beautiful-morning. She turned to her manager. "I'd like to speak to Mr. Rose alone," she said in that milk chocolate voice. When her visitors had gone, she said, "Would you mind repeating that slowly?"

I told her I'd been working with showgirls for twenty years and had never seen anyone walk as beautifully as she. I guess it was the kind of compliment women have wanted to hear ever since Eve was made out of the rib. What's more, I meant it, and she sensed that. She listened to the words as if she had never heard words before. I doubt that a thousand raves about her acting would have pleased her as much. That week she told a dozen people I was the nicest little fellow. Dale Carnegie please copy.

When I left an hour later she said since we were neighbors we should get together some time. "Guthrie would love to meet you," she added. But this happened in New York, and of course I haven't seen her since. Nor did I meet Guthrie, until five years later, in the second act of this small story.

The setting is Paris — not gay Paree, but the Paris of last November, without coal, without food, without heart. I checked in at the Hotel Raphael one shivery midnight. The GI at the desk told me there was a man waiting for me in the lounge off the lobby. It was Guthrie McClintic, up from Biarritz where he had staged an Army show. We fell into each other's arms like Stanley and Livingston. I left my bags at the desk and we headed for Montmartre.

At five that morning, a little drunk from drinking, we were laughing very big at little jokes. We were like corned beef and cabbage, moonlight and roses, Dixie and Mammy. When we parted, dawn was outlining the chimney pots.

"So long, neighbor," said Guthrie. "I'm taking the boat-train this afternoon. See you back at Beekman Place."

Well, I've been home about a year. So has he. I haven't heard from him, and he hasn't heard from me. If they needed a cup of sugar in his house, he'd never think of ringing my doorbell. If we ran short of coffee on a Sunday, I'd never think of ringing his. And that, as O. O. McIntyre said in a couple of thousand columns, is life in the Big City. Curtain.

Freedom Returns To The American People

In deciding to remove, by November 1, price controls on most foods, commodities and services, OPA takes the step which will release almost over night the nation's tremendous powers of production and thus end in short order the sacrifices which have caused so much misery in so many American households. The fact that this obviously is politically inspired does not detract from its desirability.

For a time prices probably will be higher but when industry and business become adjusted to the freedom which has been denied them in the last five years the nation's economy should gradually return to something resembling a normal basis. Had OPA controls been permitted to remain indefinitely, the period of readjustment would have been still more extendd.

It was high time for action of this sort. Price control, however necessary it may have been deemed when the country was at war, long ago lost its standing as an instrument of peace. It could not be enforced with any degree of effectiveness and was an open invitation to black marketeers to ply their nefarious trade. It left producers and manufacturers in such a state of perpetual uncertainty that only the gamblers among them had the termerity to produce goods in large quantity.

The retreat of the Truman Administration from price controls is, of course, hailed as a victory for the free-enterprise system. But the system has won a battle, not a war. The war will be won only if, and when, free enterprise proves to the American people that it can serve them better than governmnt planning and management of the economy.

The opportunity for proof is coming sooner and more fully than seemed possible until the last few weeks, and it should not be muffed. In the next couple of weeks, as we have pointed out, enterprise will be given more freedom than it has had for five years. That prospect is welcomed by all Americans. But freedom also has a price, and an obligation.

Since meat was decontroled we have talked with a good many plain citizens—among them a taxi driver, a bus driver, an elevator man, an apartment janitor, a cook, a restaurant waiter, a telephone operator. Most of them are glad to see the meat industry escape government shackles. The meat famine had confirmed their suspicion that OPA was doing more harm than good. They expected meat prices to rise sharply for a while. They voiced a touching faith that forces of which they had heard or read—competition and the law of supply and demand—soon would bring them down again. They should not lose sight of the fact that they, too, can work wonders in this direction. They can hurry the downward trend by refusing to buy meat cuts, the price for which they consider exhorbitant.

We feel that business, taking cognizance of the faith expressed by those people in the matter of supply and demand, will guard against doing anything to betray such faith. Business faces many trials. Inflationary pressures remain strong. Shortages will continue to ipterfere with normal operation of supply and demand, and tempt chislers and profiteers. Future wages are an uncertain quantity. And industry, business and agriculture have every right and duty to earn fair profits, if they can. The least that any business can do safely and honorably is to seek no unfair profit, to charge no unnecessarily high price, to practice vigorous and honest competition, to take no self advantage of the return of a free economy to the American people.

But in spite of the protestations of the left-wingers, there will be few Americans to mourn the passing of the era of regimentation which was imposed upon them. Peace time price control was a measure contrary to all American concepts and traditions. It has failed so signally that it should never be tried again except in the case of the most dire emergency, if then.

It may be necessary to lay off some of OPA's 36,000 employes, now that they have even less to do, but OPA will try to hold this line until the last possible paycheck.

Short-Term Enlistments

The disadvantages of the Army's policy of permitting short-term enlistments to get volunteers to sign up are demonstrated by reports from the American occupation zone in Germany.

Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, commander of the United States constabulary force, says redeployment will deprive him of 12,000 of his 33,000 men by the end of January. Nearly 75 per cent of the force is composed of Regular Army men, but at least 25 per cent of these are signed up for only one year. General Harmon has had to spend far more time training replacements than he can afford to spend. The steady ebb of trained men and flow of green hands mar the effectiveness of the organization.

The Navy has discontinued short enlistments on the ground that no sooner is a man properly trained than his hitch is up. The Army ought to follow the example.

Static hampered the vote count in Alaska, which may have given the Kansas City Pendergast boys a new idea.

THE UNWELCOME WART

MANY skin blemishes are often a cosmetic problem rather than a menace to health. The wart is in this category. Consequently the cure should be no worse than the disease.

These tiny tumors develop most commonly in children and usually blossom on the hands, fingers, or face. A virus is believed responsible, gaining entrance via areas which have been scratched, injured or damaged thru pressure.

As a rule, they are only temporary, but those which persist may represent merely an overgrowth of tissue in which the infection died out long ago. Their contagious nature can be demonstrated by piercing one with a sterile needle and then scratching it on the normal skin. Within a few weeks a new crop will appear along this line.

There are several varieties, and the most popular—verruca vulgaris—ranges in size from a pinhead to a split pea and is half conical in shape. At first a reddish lesion, scarcely visible above the surface, is exhibited. Later it becomes elevated, hard, dry, and grayish in color. The top is furrowed, rough, and uneven.

When they break out on the eyelids and neck (verruca filiformis), the growths are slender, flexible, and threadlike and are covered with smooth and apparently normal epidermis. The planta type attacks the sole of the foot just behind the base of the toes. Pain is generally present on walking because the pressure points they produce impart the feeling as tho one had a pebble in the shoe.

Warts are fickle, and no one treatment is universally successful. Most physicians are likely to suggest simple remedies for they see no advantage in replacing an innocent blemish with a conspicuous scar. Furthermore, the tumor may vanish at any time without leaving a trace. Altho some have been known to persist for 30 years, the majority fade away within three years. Apparently this occurs after immunity is established.

Warts are frequently amenable to suggestion in children. Some have disappeared by rubbing potato peelings or kernels of corn or painting the area with a harmless solution. As a rule, they have a tendency to heal spontaneously.

A single or solitary sprout can be dissolved thru the application of chemicals. A silver nitrate pencil, fuming nitric acid, trichloracetic acid, and glacial acetic acid are all valuable. But whichever is used, care must be exertised because sometimes the solution finds its way into the surrounding skin and a burn may result in an ugly scar.

Vaccines, mercury, iodines, and certain arsenicals given hypodermically are helpful in destroying the virus. A more reliable method is to have the excrescences removed surgically or burned off with carbon dioxide snow or X-rays. The latter must be employed with great caution and only by experts in this field.

Yes, altho it is far more common when the tension is elevated. Much depends upon the condition of the blood vessels. Those with low pressures are not immune to hardening of the arteries, which encourages apoplexy.

Inflation Can Be Checked By Cautious Action

By MARK SULLIVAN

During the past two weeks the country has seen several developments in the factors which, as a group, determine whether there will be further increases in the prices of foods and further inflation, or whether extreme inflation will be avoided.

About separate factors—government control over prices, government control over wages so far as it existed, possible demands by labor unions for new wage raises, balanced budget—there has been a great outflow of information. From each of the developments separately, deductions have been made. But the answer lies in the sum of all the developments and their effect upon each other.

The basic conditions that produced inflation are two. One is, abnormal quantity of money. The other is, abnormal scarcity of goods. These conditions existed at the end of the war, because during all wars governments create great quantities of money, and at the same time diversion of industry to war purposes causes scarcity of ordinary goods. When these conditions exist, goods go up in price, and the increase in price tends to start a spiral which, unless checked, goes on to inflation.

Balance of Money and Goods

Prevention of inflation lies in bringing quantity of money and quantity of goods into balance. This is taking place, and is furthered by recent developments. At both the money end and the goods end, forces are under way which make toward balance.

At the money end, the government has diminished the creating of more money, in the sense that it has diminished its borrowing in excess of expenses, which is a way in which additional money is created. To say the same thing another way, the government is approaching a balanced budget. The importance of this in the preventing of inflation is expressed in a saying, that there has never been a really violent inflation in a country in which the budget was balanced.

As evidence of reduction of the abnormal quantity of money, the "circulating medium" — that is money in peoples' pockets and merchants' cash drawers—has diminished. There is promise, also, of a check to the creation of another kind of money, credit-money. The check consists of a recent slight rise in interest rates. It costs more to borrow, to create credit money.

At the goods end, there are likewise helpful developments. Increased output of goods, and more goods for sale, is made likely by the ending of government controls over prices. That government controls create scarcity was made vividly evident in the case of meats. Not only control, by government over prices but over the free movement of goods tend to cause scarcity. The policy of the government already largely put in effect, is to remove all controls over all kinds of goods, with some exceptions, such as retention of control over rents for some time.

Way Open To Create Goods

In several basic respects, the way is now open for industry to create goods in such quantity as to meet the needs of the country. This of itself would tend to prevent further increases in prices, perhaps even bring some reductions in prices. Such a condition, if it comes, would arrest rising cost of living and promise prevention of inflation.

In the present condition, this is dependent upon avoidance of further wage demands and strikes. Wage demands, if successful, cause higher prices of goods, and strikes prolong the scarcity of goods. If there is another wave of these the hope created by other factors would be defeated. It would renew the upward spiral which we have had since the war.

Some labor leaders realize this. They realize also that a strong public opinion has arisen that is unsympathetic to wage raises and strikes. In discussions now taking place by labor leaders about policy in the near future with respect to wage demands, there is some caution and restraint.

If a new wave of wage raises is averted for a few months, there should be an immense outflow of goods, accompanied by a levelling-off of prices or even some reduction. This would check the rising cost of living, and this in turn would remove the motive and justification for further wage raises.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Goering Would Have Spent $150,000,000 To Defeat Roosevelt; John L. Lewis Used By Nazis As Political Tool; Miners' Boss Helped Germany Get Mexican Oil

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—Drew Pearson today continues his revelation of important excerpts from the suppressed Rogge report on Nazi activities in the United States early in the war.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — Hermann Goering was depressed and sullen shortly before he cheated the Allied gallows. But when interviewed some time earlier by John Rogge and Justice Department officials on his attempts to sway American public opinion, he was frank and full of braggadocio.

Gladly would he have spent $150,000,000 to defeat Roosevelt in 1940, Goering said. During the same interview he boasted that he once considered having a sign hung in his office reading:

"No business transacted here unless the amount involved is more than $10,000,000."

The only thing Goering quibbled about when he told Justice Department agents of Nazi attempts to defeat Roosevelt through John L. Lewis, was that he would not have paid as little as $3,000,000 to do the job.

It was Lewis's close friend, W. R. Davis, then engaged in selling Mexican oil to the German navy, who went to Berlin after the war started in 1939 and discussed the whole strategy with Goering.

"Davis talked to me about John L. Lewis and that one ought to reach an agreement with him," Goering told Justice Department agents. "He was the one who was seeing me about oil business in Mexico. He told me that Lewis was not tied up with either of the two major parties but was a free lance as far as political decisions were concerned and was one of the few people who understood Germany's position. He presented himself as a very good friend of John L. Lewis. He told me that Lewis was very influential; that he was backed by the trade unions; and that he was very important for a positive attitude towards Germany. Davis told me that by the use of his influence on Lewis, he could influence the elections in such a manner so that the re-election of Roosevelt which, in his opinion, would mean war, would be prevented."

The Rogge report then continues: "We asked Goering whether in connection with using Lewis to try to defeat Roosevelt in 1940, any sum of money from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 was mentioned. (We had heard that a representative of the Italian Government by the name of Luigi Podesta had taken from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in United States currency to the German Consulate General in New York.)

"'I am certain,' Goering replied, 'that I did not talk to Davis about influencing the American Presidential election on a basis as that of $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. If a serious representative had approached me and told me that he could influence the Presidential election so that they elected a President who was favorably inclined towards Germany, for such a purpose I would have spent $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.'"

Davis To Be Secretary Of State

Lewis was quite aware of the Davis conversations with Goering, according to the Rogge report. Davis even giving him a telephone report from Berlin.

Altogether Goering had three different talks with Davis.

"Goering thought well of the scheme of having Davis work with Lewis and split up the labor unions in order to prevent the re-election of President Roosevelt," says the Rogge report.

"During the course of the conversations, Davis stated that he was willing to put millions of his own money into the scheme to have Lewis help him defeat President Roosevelt, but added that he would need additional financial support from the Nazis. He further stated that in the event he was successful in having President Roosevelt defeated, he wanted to become Secretary of State.

"At the third session Goering stated that he had taken their discussion up with Hitler and gave Davis an advance copy of the speech which Hitler made on October 6, 1939. In that speech, as Hertslet himself commented, 'Hitler made no real concessions whatever toward peace.'" (It was to negotiate an appeasement peace that John L. Lewis purported to be interested in the Davis mission.)

"During the course of these conferences, Davis, according to Hertslet, telephoned from Berlin to Lewis in the United States and reported to him."

Note—Joachim Hertslet, referred to above, was a director of the German Economic Ministry, who collaborated closely with Davis in buying oil and later came to the United States to confer with both Davis and Lewis.

Lewis Helps Nazi Oil

The United Mine Workers boss, incidentally, played a role in helping his friend Davis get hold of Mexican oil for the Nazi Navy. Describing this, the Rogge report says:

"On March 18, 1938, Mexico expropriated the oil properties of certain American, British and Dutch companies. A month later, on April 18 between 5 and 6 P. M., John L. Lewis telephoned Alejandro Carille at Mexico City (a leader of the Mexican Labor Movement).

"Lewis told Carille that Davis had left New York on the 3 P. M. plane en route to Mexico City, assured Carille that Davis was 'absolutely all right', and told Carille to tell President Cardenas that Germany and Italy were the only countries with which it would be safe for Mexico to deal. Lewis instructed Carille to see President Cardenas that night and tell him these things without fail."

Various other visits between Lewis and the Mexicans are described in the Rogge report. Mexican labor leader Toledano visited Lewis in Washington later that year, following which Lewis paid a return visit to Mexico City.

"With the help and support of Lewis," the Rogge report continues, "Davis did secure control of expropriated Mexican oil." Thus the oil seized from American and British companies was sold to the German Navy through Davis and his friend John L. Lewis.

Pat Hurley Enters

After Davis returned from his conferences with Goering in 1939, Lewis called on Adolf Berle, then Assistant Secretary of State, with an implied threat to turn the CIO (which Lewis then headed) against Roosevelt if he did not appease Hitler. Regarding the Berle-Lewis conference, the Rogge report says:

"Lewis mentioned generally the resolutions passed at the CIO convention in support of the President and pointed out that these resolutions could just as easily have been passed in opposition to the President. Lewis went on to say that the time had come for a general peace."

This was emphatically rejected by Berle.

Davis and Lewis continued with their plans to sell oil to Germany and at this point Patrick J. Hurley,

Byrnes Delicately Phrased Talk Carries Most Profound Meaning

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Few speeches of an international character carry their profound meaning in such delicately phrased terms as are written in the historic address made by Secretary of State Byrnes on his return from Paris.

Had the speech been spelled out in explicit terms it would have been regarded as sensational. As it is the speech probably is too sensational for the Russian government to dare to print it in the Russian papers for its people to read. This address contains the answer to the question that Russia has been asking for several months: Will the United States defend herself if encroached upon by Russia and will the United Nations enforce the charter principles against any nation, Russia included, if some sudden attack or surprise seizure of territory is made, as for instance, at Trieste?

The passages of the Byrnes speech which make history are remarkable for their restrainst and their absence of bluster, and yet they foretell American policy with unmistakable clarity. The secretary of state said, for example:

"There must be no seizure of power in Trieste after this war as there was in Fiume after the last war."

Warning Against Tito Coup D'Etat

That's a warning against a Tito coup d'etat. It means force will be used by the United Nations to overcome such a situation. But the address carefully avoids any specific threats. Only by a significant piece of implicit expression does the secretary come squarely down to the problem of enforcing peace. He tackles it this way:

"If states are to reach agreements they must act in good faith and in the spirit of conciliation. They must not launch false and misleading propaganda against one another. They must not arbitrarily exercise their power of veto, preventing a return to conditions of peace and delaying economic reconstruction . . .

"States must not unilaterally by threats, by pressures, or by force disturb the established rights of other nations. Nor can they arbitrarily resist or refuse to consider changes in the relationships between states and peoples which justice, fair play and the enlightened sentiments of mankind demand."

That's the implicit form at its best. For no single country or state is mentioned and it might, for all anyone knows who reads, be merely a generality or an abstraction defining the ethics of good international behavior. The whole world knows however, that the Russian leaders have been acting "unilaterally" and have been using "pressure" and have been "arbitrarily exercising their power of veto." But it isn't diplomatic to be explicit and mention names. In the very next paragraph, however, Secretary Byrnes gets a little more concrete. He says:

"We must cooperate to build a world order, not to sanctify the status quo, but to preserve peace and freedom, based on justice. And we must be willing to cooperate with one another—veto or no veto—to defend, with force if necessary, the principles and the purposes of the charter of the United Nations."

Going Ahead Without Russia

Could anything be plainer? The United Nations Organization is going ahead with or without Russia to "defend with force if necessary the principles and the purposes." of the charter. That is really no thinly veiling warning. It is a statement of allied policy on which it is to be presumed, all the other democratic nations are agreed.

The Secretary of State wants to make sure his remarks are not considered bellicose. The words need not be so construed. They can be considered friendly, because Russia too, presumably, will want to defend the United Nations charter to which she has subscribed.

The address was unquestionably an answer to many criticisms voiced by Foreign Minister Molotov and the Russian press which is controlled by the government in Moscow. It was Molotov who insulted the American people and their government the other day by declaring the United States had enriched itself in World War II. At whose expense? Mr. Byrnes says:

"Coming from any state these charges would be regrettable to us. They are particularly regrettable when they are made by the Soviet government to whom we advanced more than $10,000,000,000 of lend-lease during the war and with whom we want to be friendly in time of peace."

There might have been something said about tens of thousands of American lives lost in opening the "second front" which Stalin appealed to us to give him in order to relieve the pressure of the German armies which invaded Russian soil.

Answer Plain Enough

But the answer is plain enough. Though it is not couched in the implicit language of the first part of the address, it is unequivocal and reveals to all who read that the United States government feels that the totalitarian government in Moscow is irresponsible in its actions and its statements and carries on a mischevious propaganda through its controlled press attacking the policies and motives of the United States. Most significant is the final paragraph of the address which doesn't say a word about the Communist government in Moscow at all but extends in behalf of the American people "the hand of friendship to the people of the Soviet union and to all other people in this war-weary world." The emphasis is on peoples—not governments.

Secretary Byrnes has answered pro-Russian critics in the United States as well as anti-American critics in Russia.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I used to live on 69th Street and Madison Avenue. One morning a couple of G-men backed up a wagon and took away a counterfeiter and his hand press from the apartment across the hall. I had been bumping into this non-union printer in the elevator for two years, and didn't even know his name, much less his chosen work. And that, my tinies, is life in the Big City. All you ever get to know about your neighbors is their taste in radio programs.

Billy Rose

Having delivered myself of this prologue, if the stage manager will ring up the curtain, I'll proceed with the libretto. There are three players in this piece: Guthrie McClintic, the distinguished producer and director; his wife, known to theatre marquees as Katharine Cornell; and Little Willie, you cutrate philosopher.

The setting is the block on which I live, a fancy dead-end on the East River called Beekman Place. Five houses away reside the other two players. For seven years, if there was cabbage cooking in my kitchen, they knew it. But in all that time we've only run into each other on the Drama page—with two exceptions. Each will serve as an act in this pipsqueak playlet.

A few years ago I caught a matinee performance of "No Time for Comedy", in which Miss Cornell was starring. After the show, the company manager asked me if I'd like to go back and say hello to the Great Lady. I told him I'd be delighted, and followed him backstage. Her dressing room was playing to Squeezing Room Only. A score of matinee magpies were chattering, "You were mah-velous! Such depth of feeling! Such authority!"

Sitting there in a wrapper, Miss Cornell smiled on cue, and looked as if she wished we would all get lost. I started to duck, but the company manager pushed through and introduced me.

"How did you like the play?" she asked, for what must have been the fortieth time.

"I didn't pay much attention to it," I said. "I was watching you—the way you walked. You remind me of Dolores, Ziegfeld's greatest showgirl."

Miss Cornell smiled like oh-what-a-beautiful-morning. She turned to her manager. "I'd like to speak to Mr. Rose alone," she said in that milk chocolate voice. When her visitors had gone, she said, "Would you mind repeating that slowly?"

I told her I'd been working with showgirls for twenty years and had never seen anyone walk as beautifully as she. I guess it was the kind of compliment women have wanted to hear ever since Eve was made out of the rib. What's more, I meant it, and she sensed that. She listened to the words as if she had never heard words before. I doubt that a thousand raves about her acting would have pleased her as much. That week she told a dozen people I was the nicest little fellow. Dale Carnegie please copy.

When I left an hour later she said since we were neighbors we should get together some time. "Guthrie would love to meet you," she added. But this happened in New York, and of course I haven't seen her since. Nor did I meet Guthrie, until five years later, in the second act of this small story.

The setting is Paris — not gay Paree, but the Paris of last November, without coal, without food, without heart. I checked in at the Hotel Raphael one shivery midnight. The GI at the desk told me there was a man waiting for me in the lounge off the lobby. It was Guthrie McClintic, up from Biarritz where he had staged an Army show. We fell into each other's arms like Stanley and Livingston. I left my bags at the desk and we headed for Montmartre.

At five that morning, a little drunk from drinking, we were laughing very big at little jokes. We were like corned beef and cabbage, moonlight and roses, Dixie and Mammy. When we parted, dawn was outlining the chimney pots.

"So long, neighbor," said Guthrie. "I'm taking the boat-train this afternoon. See you back at Beekman Place."

Well, I've been home about a year. So has he. I haven't heard from him, and he hasn't heard from me. If they needed a cup of sugar in his house, he'd never think of ringing my doorbell. If we ran short of coffee on a Sunday, I'd never think of ringing his. And that, as O. O. McIntyre said in a couple of thousand columns, is life in the Big City. Curtain.

Colds Should Be Avoided, Health Officer Asserts

Dr. H. H. Riley Says That Prevention Is More Desireable Than Cure

The best thing to do about those all too prevalent between-season colds is to avoid them, according to Dr. H. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health.

Dr. Riley advises all Marylanders that prevention is more desirable than cure, because a cold or a series of colds can undermine the general health and clear the way for other, more serious diseases. Moreover, even if the common cold were not a real threat to health, it would certainly be wise to try to escape the inconvenience, discomfort and loss of time from work and other activities.

According to Dr. Riley physical fitness is desirable and probably may offer some protection against colds and influenza, which reach a seasonal peak during the fall and winter months. Adequate sleep, well-balance meals at regular hours, suitable outdoor exercise and good ventilation can contribute much to the vigor and well-being of the average person, he says. Clothing should be adapted to the weather to prevent overheating or excessive chilling. Such measures will help.

When colds are prevalent in a community it is wise to avoid crowds whenever possible, Dr. Riley advises. It is, of course, he adds, particularly important to keep away from persons who are coughing, sneezing or showing other signs of a cold. It should be remembered, Dr. Riley stated, that a cold is a communicable disease usually passed from an infected person to a healthy person through direct contact.

"If, in spite of reasonable precautions, a cold does develop the victim should look upon the disease as more than just a nuisance," Dr. Riley asserted. "Whenever possible it is wise to go to bed and drink fruit juices and water in large quantities. If there is no improvement after 24 hours a physician should be consulted — particularly if it is a second cold caught on top of a cold or if fever is present. The patient should also make every effort to keep the infection to himself. Coughs and sneezes should be covered with a hand or handkerchief, preferably a disposable paper one. Special effort should be made to keep away from young children, old people and those in poor physical condition."

Civic Orchestra To Meet Tonight

According to S. Lua Syckes, conductor, prospects are bright for Cumberland's proposed community orchestra. Twenty-six musicians attended the first meeting last Tuesday night at Fort Hill High School and Syckes said that a dozen or more persons have contacted him in the last few days and said they would be present tonight at the second meeting in Room 300 at Fort Hill. Syckes hopes to have a 60 piece orchestra.

Last Tuesday there were eight violins, two each of flutes, horns, clarinets, trumpets, trombones and saxaphones, one drum, one cello, one bass viol and a pianist. Conductor Syckes would like to have 17 more violins, four violas, three more bass viols, three more cellos, four more horns, a bassoon and an oboe, and duplicates will be welcomed.

The response last week was so varied that Mr. Syckes decided to begin rehearsal tryouts immediately, and conducted the group in Wagner's "Procession of the Mastersingers," Bizets "L'Ariesienne Suite No. 1", Tschaikowski's "Andante" movement from his "Sixth Symphony" and a popular "Theme and Variations on Chop Sticks."

Regular rehearsals will begin tonight and a public concert will be given before Christmas if this weeks turnout numbers over 40. Those who attend are to bring their own instruments.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I know the moment I read a book, or look upon an inspired work of art, or listen to the talk of a person, whether or not feeling has been put into each. Feeling does something to you at once. It is the child of genuineness.

Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, was first of all a farmer. He loved his acres and loved the very dirt that he turned up—but he couldn't help being a poet, for he was a man of feeling. He put this feeling into everything that he wrote, and he was — in spite of all his faults —one of the most beloved human beings of his time. People knew that he felt what he wrote.

No one is ever effective without this feeling. You sense it in the speaker, the writer, the artist; in fact, you sense it in any worker, or creator. It is the honesty of a person expressing itself. When Patrick Henry cried out, "Give me Liberty, or give me death," he meant it. Liberty was that dear to him.

There is a painted oil portrait of a peasant woman, hanging in my office, that daily inspires me. It is by that master, Alphonse Legros. There is feeling in it. I see not only the story of that woman's life depicted, but also the life of the artist as well. He was a teacher of art, and he imbued every student with that sincerity of feeling that was, of him, his whole asset. That is why his art will live, as all art with feeling lives.

There was feeling in that brief address of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg. There was feeling in that famous editorial that appeared in the New York Sun, about half a century ago, to "Virginia," telling her that there was, and always would be, a Santa Claus. And there was feeling in George Washington's Farewell Address. Such things live forever!

When Emerson made that statement, "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say," he meant that the feeling of character stood out far and above all words. The immortal saying and deeds are always backed up with feeling that inspired them. Put feeling into what you say, write, or do, and you do not have to worry about its resulting good, or its influence.

former Secretary of War, entered the secret negotiations.

"Davis and Lewis continued with their scheming," says the Rogge report. "In January 1940, the Mexican Minister of Finance, Suarez, came to the United States. . . . He spent two days in New York conferring secretly with Harry Sinclair and his attorney, Patrick Hurley. At these conferences, not only had Lewis been present, but also Davis. Davis had been present at these conferences at the specific request of Lewis.

"A subsequent conference between Suarez, Harry Sinclair, and Patrick Hurley took place in Washington, D. C. At this conference, Lewis was again present. At the subsequent conference, Lewis falsely asserted that by protesting to President Roosevelt he had kept our government from sending a stiff note to Mexico in 1938 with reference to expropriation."

Later the big mine boss actually sat down with Hertslet of the German Economic Ministry and promised to swing the coal miners away from Roosevelt. Describing these conversations, the Rogge report says:

"Towards the end of March 1940, according to Hertslet's recollection, he, Davis, and Lewis had an evening conference at Davis's home in Scarsdale, N. Y. . . . They discussed the conference which Davis had had with Goering. Davis told Lewis that he had said to Goering that Lewis could count on the support of 10,000,000 workers and could use this support against Roosevelt. Lewis agreed. They discussed the coming elections, and Lewis said that he would come out against the re-election of Roosevelt.

"Thereafter, Hertslet took up the subject matter of this evening meeting with the German Embassy in Washingon.

Thus, John L. Lewis pledged the votes of his miners against Roosevelt six months before the miners themselves knew anything about it. So it was a complete surprise to them when he carried out his pledge and came out for Willkie in October.

What his miners did not know, however, was that the $55,000 for Lewis's coast-to-coast broadcast was paid by W. R. Davis, the man who had plotted this very thing in Berlin with Hermann Goering one year before.

National Apple Week Will Be Observed

The apple regions of Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia will be much in the public eye during National Apple Week, Oct. 24-31.

Maryland's 1946 apple crop, estimated at 1,950,000 bushels, slightly betters the ten year average Pennsylvania production is indicated as approximately nine million bushels, also above the average. New York tops the northeastern production total with 14,580,000 bushels, but this is below the 1935-1945 average.

The apple crop in the North Atlantic States, although over four times the very short crop of last year, is still 11 percent below average. The total U. S. apple crop, however, practically matches the average of 120,962,000 bushels.

Most heavily produced variety in the Appalachian region (which includes the Cumberland area) are the York Imperial and Stayman. Other leading varieties are Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Winesap, Rome Beauty, Ben Davis and Delicious.

FAMILY MESSAGE NO. 4

Your small fry ...and money

A child's first experiences with money are important for the formation of good financial habits in later life. Here are some useful suggestions from Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, Executive Secretary of the National Conference on Family Relations.

1 When should the child get his first spending money?

"Children and situations vary so much! In general we can begin an allowance soon after a child understands money as a means of buying things he wants.

"When you give a child an allowance it should be really his to do with as he wishes. Only by experiences, some of them sad, can he learn some things.

"Sometimes unusual situations may justify some 'extras,' but do not make a habit of 'bailing him out' when he is 'broke'.

"If the allowance does not seem to work out satisfactorily, let the family talk it over. Smaller amounts given at more frequent intervals may help."

2 How much should his first allowance be?

"How much can the family afford? How much do his playmates get? Rich or poor, the amount should be enough to meet his real needs, but not enough to enable a child to 'buy' his way to 'importance' among his friends.

"At first his allowance will be expected to cover only small personal items, such as candy and ice cream. As he becomes experienced in handling money the amount may be increased to cover additional items such as school supplies; and still later, clothing and similar expenses.

"When the allowance has been increased to cover necessities, parents have a right to check up and see that the necessities are not neglected."

3 Should a child be paid for work at home?

"As soon as he is able, each child should have some home responsibility which he performs because he is a member of the family, and for which he is not paid.

"If there are other jobs which the family would pay to have done, such as raking leaves, washing windows, or the car, there is no reason why children who want to earn extra money should not be allowed this little 'contract.'

"In some instances money problems are really problems of personality adjustment. The child who is unusually extravagant, may feel insecure or rejected.

"Such problems are solved only by loving, and by sympathetic, intelligent guidance."

A simple, easy way to manage the family money

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer family worries by carefully planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank the small amounts each payday that will add up to the larger amounts when due.

Second: deposit something extra in the savings account until you have built up a fund for emergencies.

Then you know just what you have to spend on the everyday family needs such as food and clothing, and for recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

"FAMILY HAPPINESS HAS TO BE PLANNED"

Colds Should Be Avoided, Health Officer Asserts

Dr. H. H. Riley Says That Prevention Is More Desireable Than Cure

The best thing to do about those all too prevalent between-season colds is to avoid them, according to Dr. H. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health.

Dr. Riley advises all Marylanders that prevention is more desirable than cure, because a cold or a series of colds can undermine the general health and clear the way for other, more serious diseases. Moreover, even if the common cold were not a real threat to health, it would certainly be wise to try to escape the inconvenience, discomfort and loss of time from work and other activities.

According to Dr. Riley physical fitness is desirable and probably may offer some protection against colds and influenza, which reach a seasonal peak during the fall and winter months. Adequate sleep, well-balance meals at regular hours, suitable outdoor exercise and good ventilation can contribute much to the vigor and well-being of the average person, he says. Clothing should be adapted to the weather to prevent overheating or excessive chilling. Such measures will help.

When colds are prevalent in a community it is wise to avoid crowds whenever possible, Dr. Riley advises. It is, of course, he adds, particularly important to keep away from persons who are coughing, sneezing or showing other signs of a cold. It should be remembered, Dr. Riley stated, that a cold is a communicable disease usually passed from an infected person to a healthy person through direct contact.

"If, in spite of reasonable precautions, a cold does develop the victim should look upon the disease as more than just a nuisance," Dr. Riley asserted. "Whenever possible it is wise to go to bed and drink fruit juices and water in large quantities. If there is no improvement after 24 hours a physician should be consulted — particularly if it is a second cold caught on top of a cold or if fever is present. The patient should also make every effort to keep the infection to himself. Coughs and sneezes should be covered with a hand or handkerchief, preferably a disposable paper one. Special effort should be made to keep away from young children, old people and those in poor physical condition."

Civic Orchestra To Meet Tonight

According to S. Lua Sykes, conductor, prospects are bright for Cumberland's proposed community orchestra. Twenty-six musicians attended the first meeting last Tuesday night at Fort Hill High School and Sykes said that a dozen or more persons have contacted him in the last few days and said they would be present tonight at the second meeting in Room 300 at Fort Hill. Sykes hopes to have a 60 piece orchestra.

Last Tuesday there were eight violins, two each of flutes, horns, clarinets, trumpets, trombones and saxaphones, one drum, one cello, one bass viol and a pianist. Conductor Sykes would like to have 17 more violins, four violas, three more bass viols, three more cellos, four more horns, a bassoon and an oboe, and duplicates will be welcomed.

The response last week was so varied that Mr. Sykes decided to begin rehearsal tryouts immediately, and conducted the group in Wagner's "Procession of the Mastersingers," Bizets "L'Arlesienne Suite No. 1", Tschaikowski's "Andante" movement from his "Sixth Symphony" and a popular "Theme and Variations on Chop Sticks."

Regular rehearsals will begin tonight and a public concert will be given before Christmas if this weeks turnout numbers over 40. Those who attend are to bring their own instruments.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I know the moment I read a book, or look upon an inspired work of art, or listen to the talk of a person, whether or not feeling has been put into each. Feeling does something to you at once. It is the child of genuineness.

Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, was first of all a farmer. He loved his acres and loved the very dirt that he turned up—but he couldn't help being a poet, for he was a man of feeling. He put this feeling into everything that he wrote, and he was — in spite of all his faults —one of the most beloved human beings of his time. People knew that he felt what he wrote.

No one is ever effective without this feeling. You sense it in the speaker, the writer, the artist; in fact, you sense it in any worker, or creator. It is the honesty of a person expressing itself. When Patrick Henry cried out, "Give me Liberty, or give me death," he meant it. Liberty was that dear to him.

There is a painted oil portrait of a peasant woman, hanging in my office, that daily inspires me. It is by that master, Alphonse Legros. There is feeling in it. I see not only the story of that woman's life depicted, but also the life of the artist as well. He was a teacher of art, and he imbued every student with that sincerity of feeling that was, of him, his whole asset. That is why his art will live, as all art with feeling lives.

There was feeling in that brief address of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg. There was feeling in that famous editorial that appeared in the New York Sun, about half a century ago, to "Virginia," telling her that there was, and always would be, a Santa Claus. And there was feeling in George Washington's Farewell Address. Such things live forever!

When Emerson made that statement, "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear what you say," he meant that the feeling of character stood out far and above all words. The immortal saying and deeds are always backed up with feeling that inspired them. Put feeling into what you say, write, or do, and you do not have to worry about its resulting good, or its influence.

former Secretary of War, entered the secret negotiations.

Later the big mine boss actually sat down with Hertslet of the German Economic Ministry and promised to swing the coal miners away from Roosevelt. Describing these conversations, the Rogge report says:

"Towards the end of March 1940, according to Hertslet's recollection, he, Davis, and Lewis had an evening conference at Davis's home in Scarsdale, N. Y. . . . They discussed the conference which Davis had had with Goering. Davis told Lewis that he had said to Goering that Lewis could count on the support of 10,000,000 workers and could use this support against Roosevelt. Lewis agreed. They discussed the coming elections, and Lewis said that he would come out against the re-election of Roosevelt.

"Thereafter, Hertslet took up the subject matter of this evening meeting with the German Embassy in Washington.

Thus, John L. Lewis pledged the votes of his miners against Roosevelt six months before the miners themselves knew anything about it. So it was a complete surprise to them when he carried out his pledge and came out for Willkie in October.

What his miners did not know, however, was that the $55,000 for Lewis's coast-to-coast broadcast was paid by W. R. Davis, the man who had plotted this very thing in Berlin with Hermann Goering one year before.

The apple regions of Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia will be much in the public eye during National Apple Week, Oct. 24-31.

The apple crop in the North Atlantic States, although over four times the very short crop of last year, is still 11 percent below average. The total U. S. apple crop, however, practically matches the average of 120,962,000 bushels.

Most heavily produced variety in the Appalachian region (which includes the Cumberland area) are the York Imperial and Stayman. Other leading varieties are Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Winesap, Rome Beauty, Ben Davis and Delicious.

FAMILY MESSAGE NO. 4

Your small fry ...and money

A child's first experiences with money are important for the formation of good financial habits in later life. Here are some useful suggestions from Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, Executive Secretary of the National Conference on Family Relations.

1 When should the child get his first spending money?

"Children and situations vary so much! In general we can begin an allowance soon after a child understands money as a means of buying things he wants.

"When you give a child an allowance it should be really his to do with as he wishes. Only by experiences, some of them sad, can he learn some things.

"Sometimes unusual situations may justify some 'extras,' but do not make a habit of 'bailing him out' when he is 'broke'.

"If the allowance does not seem to work out satisfactorily, let the family talk it over. Smaller amounts given at more frequent intervals may help."

2 How much should his first allowance be?

"How much can the family afford? How much do his playmates get? Rich or poor, the amount should be enough to meet his real needs, but not enough to enable a child to 'buy' his way to 'importance' among his friends.

"At first his allowance will be expected to cover only small personal items, such as candy and ice cream. As he becomes experienced in handling money the amount may be increased to cover additional items such as school supplies; and still later, clothing and similar expenses.

"When the allowance has been increased to cover necessities, parents have a right to check up and see that the necessities are not neglected."

3 Should a child be paid for work at home?

"As soon as he is able, each child should have some home responsibility which he performs because he is a member of the family, and for which he is not paid.

"If there are other jobs which the family would pay to have done, such as raking leaves, washing windows, or the car, there is no reason why children who want to earn extra money should not be allowed this little 'contract.'

"In some instances money problems are really problems of personality adjustment. The child who is unusually extravagant, may feel insecure or rejected.

"Such problems are solved only by loving, and by sympathetic, intelligent guidance."

A simple, easy way to manage the family money

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer family worries by carefully planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank the small amounts each payday that will add up to the larger amounts when due.

Second: deposit something extra in the savings account until you have built up a fund for emergencies.

Then you know just what you have to spend on the everyday family needs such as food and clothing, and for recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 71,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

Mild Demand For Steels Assists Market Although Dealings Slow

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Mild demand for steels, reflecting forecasts of growing production, helped the stock market selectively today although dealings were the slowest in almost two months and numerous leaders failed to emerge from the minus column.

The direction was cloudy from the start with the ticker tape frequently halting. Support for the metals appeared in the final hour but without much expansion of activity this group failed to follow through and finished well under the best. Transfers dwindled to 830,000 shares compared with 920,000 Friday and were the smallest for a full session since August 26.

Pleasing earnings statements lifted Sharon Steel 1¾ to 28¾ and Continental Baking one to 18. Union Carbide was up 2¾ at 95, Douglas Aircraft 1¾ at 77½, Great Northern 1¾ at 46⅝, Union Pacific 1¼ at 119½, Santa Fe 1¼ at 87 and United States Rubber one at 58¾.

Improved were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, New York Central, Southern Railway, International Telephone, American Telephone, Kennecott, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, du Pont, Eastern Kodak, International Harvester and Philip Morris.

Transcontinental and Western and dipped a point or more in the morning following a strike of the company's pilots but came back to finish up one-fourth at 29½.

Casualties included Youngstown Sheet, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting, American Can, Allied Chemical, United States Gypsum, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Coro Inc., in the Curb, benefitted from a raised dividend. Ahead also were American Cynamid, New Jersey Zinc, Cities Service and Aluminum Ltd. Turnover here was 210,000 shares versus 260,000 Friday.

A sharp break in obligations of Western Union took the trading spotlight in an irregular bond market.

Volume of $2,856,000 compared with $3,791,000 Friday.

United States governments held unchanged in slim business in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-'72 at 102 7-32 bid.

National Guard Plans Progress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, (AP) — Postwar National Guard now is ready to take shape, the War Department disclosed yesterday after difficulties which have taxed schedules for setting up the reorganized "minute man" force.

As initial steps toward creating a first line force of 682,000, largely World War II veterans, the War Department has:

1. Granted federal recognition after military inspections to nearly 100 units. Included are headquarters of several infantry divisions and of a dozen fighter squadrons of the Air National Guard.

2. Approved the appointments by the states of a number of division commanders and other major and brigadier generals, all combat veterans.

About 7,000 units altogether are to be formed when the National Guard reaches its full statute of two and one-half times its pre-Pearl Harbor size.

Mild Demand For Steels Assists Market Although Dealings Slow

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Mild demand for steels, reflecting forecasts of growing production, helped the stock market selectively today although dealings were the slowest in almost two months and numerous leaders failed to emerge from the minus column.

The direction was cloudy from the start with the ticker tape frequently halting. Support for the metals appeared in the final hour but without much expansion of activity this group failed to follow through and finished well under the best. Transfers dwindled to 930,000 shares compared with 920,000 Friday and were the smallest for a full session since August 26.

Pleasing earnings statements lifted Sharon Steel 1⅝ to 28⅛ and Continental Baking one to 18. Union Carbide was up 2⅝ at 95, Douglas Aircraft 1⅜ at 77½, Great Northern 1⅛ at 46⅝, Union Pacific 1¼ at 119½, Santa Fe 1¼ at 87 and United States Rubber one at 58⅝.

Improved were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, New York Central, Southern Railway, International Telephone, American Telephone, Kennecott, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, du Pont, Eastern Kodak, International Harvester and Philip Morris.

Transcontinental and Western and dipped a point or more in the morning following a strike of the company's pilots but came back to finish up one-fourth at 39½.

Casualties included Youngstown Sheet, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, American Sweltzing, American Can, Allied Chemical, United States Gypsum, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Coro Inc., in the Curb, benefitted from a raised dividend. Ahead also were American Cynamid, New Jersey Zinc, Cities Service and Aluminum Ltd. Turnover here was 210,000 shares versus 260,000 Friday.

A sharp break in obligations of Western Union took the trading spotlight in an irregular bond market.

Volume of $2,850,000 compared with $3,791,000 Friday.

United States governments held unchanged in slim business in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan December 2½s of '67-72 at 102 7-32 bid.

Robbery Wave Hits Bedford Women's Shop

The management of the Barton Shop in Bedford, Pa., dealers in furs and women's apparel, revealed Monday that burglars robbed the store of furs, gowns and jewelry valued between $13,000 to $14,000 late Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Meanwhile, two local firms reported on robbery and an attempted robbery over the weekend with the Centre Street Market, 28 North Centre street, reporting the loss of produce and money taken by burglars who broke the lock on the door of the establishment between 10 and 11 p. m. yesterday.

An attempted robbery was reported Monday by the Armour Company, 326 Commerce street, where a person or persons unidentified endeavored to gain entry through a rear door around 1 a. m. The heavily bolted door proved to be too difficult for the burglar or burglars and the attempt was abandoned. Police found evidence of the attempt having been made.

Use Ladder To Reach Window

Taking advantage of a heavy fog to slip in and out of town, the burglars who drove into Bedford late Saturday night broke into the Barton Shop through a rear window 12-feet above the ground, using a ladder to reach the window which was jimmied.

Selecting only the best materials, the discerning burglars took 22 fur coats including mink, muskrat, squirrel and other fur varieties, 25 evening gowns, 35 suits including several Duffy model fur-trimmed designs, 115 ladies blouses valued at $15 and a quantity of costume jewelry.

One fur coat on display in the window of the shop was not taken.

Got in Wrong Place

Bruce Ramsey, Mrs. Ramsey's husband who is also affiliated with the business, said this morning that the robbery was discovered around 11:45 a. m. Sunday when he and his wife stopped by the shop after going to church. They found the rear window jimmied and the selves and showcases looted, with hangars and wrappings lying about.

"Whoever cased the job didn't do so well at first, however," Ramsey said. "In breaking in, they miscalculated and entered the rear window of the Penn Electric Company next door. After getting in there they endeavored to break through the wall, a fiber board partition, and when it proved too difficult for them they abandoned the project and moved the ladder over to our rear window. We assume they threw the merchandise out the window and packed it in a car or truck waiting beneath."

Fingerprint experts called in from Harrisburg, Pa., were unable to find a single finger mark in the shop after taking three hours to go over the shop causing the officers to remark that the burglars unquestionably wore gloves. The only print found was one overshoe mark on the sill of the window through which the burglars entered.

Police had nothing new to report today in regard to the robbery. The case was investigated by Bedford Police Chief H. A. Clark and experts from Harrisburg. Area state police and also city police have been given details in regard to the robbery.

While the shop sustained a heavy loss, the establishment was open for business today as usual, the management announced.

Cider in Loot Here

In Cumberland, thieves who broke into the Centre Street Market took five chickens, 11 gallons of cidar, a bushel of pears and rifled the cash register of a small amount of cash, according to George Butts and John Hott, managers of the business.

The owners said they were at a loss to explain how any thief or thieves could break into and rob a business establishment in a downtown section on a well-lighted street between 10 and 11 in the evening and cart out bulky produce which they obviously loaded into a vehicle waiting on the street.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

I thought I'd heard everything. But this wins the rubber doughnut. The following masterpiece was composed by two young people in New York, Murray and Sylvia Winant, who have no children of their own but have gotten a great kick out of watching their neighbors' struggles with their offspring.

If you know anything about children you know that all children struggle against food and other essential activities. So the Winants had a bright idea. Let's put it to music, they said. So they did. And here's how one side of the main record goes.

We like the food that Mommy bakes.
The meat and vegetables that she makes;
We don't eat fast, we don't eat slow,
We eat the food that makes us grow. . . .
We try to make our manners good,
Just like our Mommy says we should.

Which, I repeat, is the ultimate in something.

I'd have liked trying that on my old man. He would have knocked me for a loop and no funning. Kids ate what was set before them—or else, in my childhood.

So now, with the whole world starving these bright young minds have thought up records with titles "It's fun to eat." On the other side of each record there is one of those bright chirpy characters, Doc Clark, Happity-Yappity Appetite and Sip-Sip Supper, guaranteed to lure the little beasts to their highchairs. All done to rumba rhythms.

So far it has only lured me to murder. If young Amercians have to be coaxed along like that, I'm for mass murder. You ate what was set before you when I was a kid or you got the works.

I personally remember an acute distaste for turnips. Did I eat turnips? You can bet your new fall bonnet that I did. My father and mother were there to see to that. They were not fooling about the responsibilities of parenthood. They knew it was always a tiresome and often a disgusting job and they intended to bring their kids up in the way those kids would have to go when they themselves were parents.

There is a popular notion that food was easy to get and plentiful in early America. To the contrary it was hard to get and you either ate it or got your ears slapped back. And if any little lamby pie had come yodeling back — "I like the food that Mommy bakes, the meat and vegetables that she makes," etc., etc., he would have been met by a delegation of the town's toughs and had his pants kicked off.

I am a mother. I raised a son and several others. But this kind of blather is just all I can stand. If healthy, overfed young Americans have to be coaxed to their victuals by twaddle like that, I am, I repeat, for mass massacres. They aren't worth the raising.

Just sit down and read those Tips for Tots and then read the Constitution. It should do something to you. But it probably won't.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Forget About "Love" and Be Friendly With Both Boys, Teen-Age Girl Is Advised

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 years old and deeply in love with a boy now in the service. I went steady with him for a year and nine months. I know he loved me, but now that he is in the service I don't know if he still loves me. He has been in service seven months and last month he wrote saying that it was better to break up. The reason he said it was because he had been told I had been stepping out on him. Well, I did go out on a date once with a friend of mine, on friendly terms of course, but I still love the other one and wish he'd take me back. We still write to each other on friendly terms.

There is a sailor who loves me very much. He came on a furlough not long ago and I went out with him. He asked me to be his girl, but I don't love him. Should I try to forget the one I love and try to learn to love the sailor?

PERPLEXED.

Don't try to "learn to love" anybody right now, "Perplexed." You're only confusing yourself more with so much talk about "love." You'll get along much better if you just make up your mind you'll stick to the "friendly terms" basis with all the boys for awhile, without worrying about whether you "love" any of them or not

Your boy friend in the service ought to realize that it's fair for you to go out and have a good time with other boys while he's away. Perhaps he felt bad because he heard about your going out from somebody else. Tell him frankly in your letters about what you're doing and he'll probably feel all right about it.

Sailor Advised Not To Elope

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About three weeks ago I met a very nice young lady. After a few dances and dates we fell extremely in love with each other. I asked her to marry me and she said yes, but because of my being a sailor, her Dad wouldn't let her marry me.

She is willing to elope, but I'm afraid to, as her father would probably make her leave home. I ship out in a month and wish you would let me know what to do.

C.E.A.

The only sensible thing for you to do, Sailor, is to let things ride until you've known this girl much longer. I certainly don't blame her Dad for not wanting her to marry a man she's only known about three weeks. I rather doubt whether his objections are based solely on the fact that you're a sailor. It's much more likely that he feels a marriage based on nothing more substantial than "a few dances and dates" would be risky business. I certainly think so myself. I think you'd be a sorry couple in a short time if you did anything as foolish as eloping.

I'm sure this girl's father won't object to your corresponding with her while you're away, and coming to see her when you get back. And if, after a reasonable length of time, you both still think you want to get married, and you have solid and substantial plans for taking care of a wife, he would doubtless be quite willing to take the thing seriously. As things stand now, he is only showing good sound sense in opposing any such get-married-quick scheme as you two impulsive young people have in mind.

Robbery Wave Hits Bedford Women's Shop

The management of the Barton Shop in Bedford, Pa., dealers in furs and women's apparel, revealed Monday that burglars robbed the store of furs, gowns and jewelry valued between $13,500 to $14,000 late Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Meanwhile, two local firms reported on robbery and an attempted robbery over the weekend with the Centre Street Market, 28 North Centre street, reporting the loss of produce and money taken by burglars who broke the lock on the door of the establishment between 10 and 11 p. m. yesterday.

An attempted robbery was reported Monday by the Armour Company, 326 Commerce street, where a person or persons unidentified endeavored to gain entry through a rear door around 1 a. m. The heavily bolted door proved to be too difficult for the burglar or burglars and the attempt was abandoned. Police found evidence of the attempt having been made.

Use Ladder To Reach Window

Taking advantage of a heavy fog to slip in and out of town, the burglars who drove into Bedford late Saturday night broke into the Barton Shop through a rear window 12-feet above the ground, using a ladder to reach the window which was jimmied.

Selecting only the best materials, the discerning burglars took 22 fur coats including mink, muskrat, squirrel and other fur varieties, 25 evening gowns, 35 suits including several Duffy model fur-trimmed designs, 115 ladies blouses valued at $15 and a quantity of costume jewelry.

One fur coat on display in the window of the shop was not taken.

Got in Wrong Place

Bruce Ramsey, Mrs. Ramsey's husband who is also affiliated with the business, said this morning that the robbery was discovered around 11:45 a. m. Sunday when he and his wife stopped by the shop after going to church. They found the rear window jimmied and the selves and showcases looted, with hangars and wrappings lying about.

"Whoever cased the job didn't do so well at first, however," Ramsey said. "In breaking in, they miscalculated and entered the rear window of the Penn Electric Company next door. After getting in there they endeavored to break through the wall, a fiber board partition, and when it proved too difficult for them they abandoned the project and moved the ladder over to our rear window. We assume they threw the merchandise out the window and packed it in a car or truck waiting beneath."

Fingerprint experts called in from Harrisburg, Pa., were unable to find a single finger mark in the shop after taking three hours to go over the shop causing the officers to remark that the burglars unquestionably wore gloves. The only print found was one overshoe mark on the sill of the window through which the burglars entered.

Police had nothing new to report today in regard to the robbery. The case was investigated by Bedford Police Chief H. A. Clark and experts from Harrisburg. Area state police and also city police have been given details in regard to the robbery.

While the shop sustained a heavy loss, the establishment was open for business today as usual, the management announced.

Cider in Loot Here

In Cumberland, thieves who broke into the Centre Street Market took five chickens, 11 gallons of cidar, a bushel of pears and rifled the cash register of a small amount of cash, according to George Butts and John Hott, managers of the business.

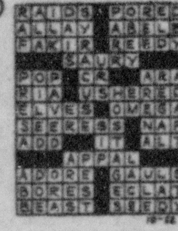

The owners said they were at a loss to explain how any thief or thieves could break into and rob a business establishment in a downtown section on a well-lighted street between 10 and 11 in the evening and cart out bulky produce which they obviously loaded into a vehicle waiting on the street.

Smoke Causes Alarm

West Side Company No. 3 was called at 8:40 a. m. yesterday to the home of Marion T. Powers, 819 Windsor Road, when the rooms were filled with smoke from a fireplace.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

I thought I'd heard everything. But this wins the rubber doughnut. The following masterpiece was composed by two young people in New York, Murray and Sylvia Winant, who have no children of their own but have gotten a great kick out of watching their neighbors' struggles with their offspring.

If you know anything about children you know that all children struggle against food and other essential activities. So the Winants had a bright idea. Let's put it to music, they said. So they did. And here's how one side of the main record goes.

We like the food that Mommy bakes.
The meat and vegetables that she makes;
We don't eat fast, we don't eat slow,
We eat the food that makes us grow. . . .
We try to make our manners good,
Just like our Mommy says we should.

Which, I repeat, is the ultimate in something.

I'd have liked trying that on my old man. He would have knocked me for a loop and no funning. Kids ate what was set before them—or else, in my childhood.

So now, with the whole world starving these bright young minds have thought up records with titles "It's fun to eat." On the other side of each record there is one of those bright chirpy characters, Doc Clark, Happity-Yappity Appetite and Sip-Sip Supper, guaranteed to lure the little beasts to their highchairs. All done to rumba rhythms.

So far it has only lured me to murder. If young Amercians have to be coaxed along like that, I'm for mass murder. You ate what was set before you when I was a kid or you got the works.

I personally remember an acute distaste for turnips. Did I eat turnips? You can bet your new fall bonnet that I did. My father and mother were there to see to that. They were not fooling about the responsibilities of parenthood. They knew it was always a tiresome and often a disgusting job and they intended to bring their kids up in the way those kids would have to go when they themselves were parents.

There is a popular notion that food was easy to get and plentiful in early America. To the contrary it was hard to get and you either ate it or got your ears slapped back. And if any little lamby pie had come yodeling back — "I like the food that Mommy bakes, the meat and vegetables that she makes," etc., etc., he would have been met by a delegation of the town's toughs and had his pants kicked off.

I am a mother. I raised a son and several others. But this kind of blather is just all I can stand. If healthy, overfed young Americans have to be coaxed to their victuals by twaddle like that, I am, I repeat, for mass massacres. They aren't worth the raising.

Just sit down and read those Tips for Tots and then read the Constitution. It should do something to you. But it probably won't.

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It works this way:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the S.S.S Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21—What an exciting purchase! Right from under the nose of four companies Jesse Lasky has bought the movie rights to Russell Janney's great book, "The Miracle of the Bells" for $100,000. I admit I sound exactly like a press agent, but I do believe such a motion picture at this time will help a troubled, weary world. It doesn't belong to any one religion, although most of the principals are Catholics. Rabbi Magnin thought well enough of the book to discuss it from his pulpit.

Marie McDonald

One of those most eager to buy "The Miracle of the Bells" was William Cagney, who wanted it for his brother James. Now Jesse Lasky and his partner, Walter McEwen, have made a percentage offer for Jimmie to play the high powered press agent. The author, who is 60 and took three years to write his book, will do the adaptation, and will soon arrive at the RKO studio.

Danielle Darrieux is being paged in France by William Goetz to come here to co-star with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Exile". I'm not sure she fits the description that young Doug gave me of Lorraine. He says, "Lorraine is a woman—ripe for love, for the excitement of life. She should be nineteen, five feet six inches, with the wisdom of Eve in her eyes." Danielle certainly isn't nineteen, but she can act, and maybe she can look like Eve in clothes. Anyway, it seems likely the French actress will accept. She owes Universal-International a picture.

With stars demanding — and getting—$300,000 a picture, it's tough enough trying to assemble a glittering cast for one production. So it's quite a job Walter Wanger and William Goetz have given themselves with their ambitious plans to cast a trilogy. Walter has just brought the first of the three novels, by James Street, "Tap Roots" and is negotiating for the other two, "Oh, Promised Land" and "By Valor and Arms", with Street now writing a fourth one, as yet untitled. The big idea is to put the stars signed for "Tap Roots" under contract for all three pictures, since the same characters are in all the books, which tell a saga of America at the time of the Civil War.

There's no use talking—things are not going right with Gene Tierney and Oleg Cassini, try as both of them have to hide the tension under which they are living. Their marital unhappiness is self-evident. I saw Oleg the other night dining with an all-male group at the McCambo. He was very frank when I talked with him at the McCambo and said, "Gene is the only woman I love. She's a wonderful wife, and I've tried to be a good husband. But there's no use telling you that things are as they used to be. We have been quarreling bitterly. We've been married six years, and I'm hoping we can work things out for the sake of our little daughter, and because we really love each other."

Chatter in Hollwood: Love had a lot to do with Cornel Wilde's walkout on "Forever Amber" and it wasn't for the amorous "Amber" but for his beautiful blonde, wife, Patricia Knight. Cornell wanted a clause in his contract saying that his wife must be starred. I've never seen a boy work harder than Cornel does to put his luscious bride across—and I'm sentimental enough to admire him for this. But I don't think he should have held up the picture for more money. His revolt cost him $1,000 a week in salary raise, but that will probably be ironed out if he is good in the picture.

The sensational Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox is about to bat himself out a tidy $50,000 in movies. He's signed a one-picture deal with Jules Levey and will arrive in Hollywood any day now to discuss details. 'Im told the batting champ blows a hot saxaphone and has aspirations to join his friend, Woody Hernian's band.

Over the weekend Lyle Talbot revealed that he has been a bridegroom for nearly two and a half months. His pretty new wife is Kevin McClure and they were quietly wed in Mexico in August. You'll probably remember Kevin as the girl who played opposite Lyle in a stage revival of "The Doll's House" nearly two years ago. At that time her husband, John Emmett Carr, registered his jealousy of Lyle by getting into a brawl with him that made all the papers. I must say Lyle and Kevin looked mighty happy together the night I saw them.

Hollywood has a new real life hero today in Ted Donaldson, 13-year-old star of PRC's "Stallion Road". The young actor, by fast thinking and acting prevented a forest fire that might have burned literally thousands of acres of virgin forest at the foot of Mt. Shasta where the company is on location. Ted's sharp eyes noticed a small blaze on the mountain and his fast report to the rangers enabled them to put out the fire with very little trouble. For his role in discovering and halting the blaze, Ted has been awarded a certificate "for meritorious service" by the Siskiyou county forest rangers.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: There'll be no reconciliation for Marie McDonald and agent Vic Orsatti. She goes to Las Vegas to get a divorce. . . . Claire Windsor's big moment is Arthur Letts, grocery magnate. Claire looks beautiful these days and so young . . . .Here's a story about one landlady who has a heart. She evicted Celeste Holm, but when she learned Celeste was expecting a baby, not only did she reverse her decision, but offered to furnish a nursery. . . . Estelle Taylor's most ardent admirer next to her ex-husband, Jack Dempsey, is Elliot Morris, chief pilot for Sky Lanes Service. . . . Michael Chekhov, who has been so gravely ill, is improving but he will have to stay in bed for sometime. . . .The Henry Koster baby is a month overdue. . . .A twosome that attracted lots of attention at the Santa Monica Mayfair was Marjorie Main and Bill Stone, her current romance. . . They make no secret of their feelings now . . . .Jack Duetel needn't worry whether he works or not. Howard Hughes pays him for every movie he loses, but I bet he would rather make a few. . . . Betty Hutton has been in bed with a very severe cold. Her baby is expected in two weeks. . . . .It's my guess that if things go on as they are with Joan Crawford, she'll marry Greg Bautzer in late April after her divorce is final. . . .Tela Loring, Gilbert Roland's leading lady in the "Cisco Kid" movies at Monogram, is expecting her first baby in May. In private life she is Mrs. Dick Wiley. . . . .Phil Baker and his pretty wife are back here for his broadcasts—and nice it is to have them. That's all today.

Local Boxers Sweep Bouts With Lewistown

Murphy Kayoes Junior Boreman In 44 Seconds

Jim Klosterman, Catanese, Niland Cop Inter-City Bouts In PBC Show

Cumberland amateur boxers made a clean sweep of four matches with representatives of the Lewistown, Athletic Club in the initial show of the Police Boys' Club last night in SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium before a gathering of approximately 450 persons.

The inter-city contests topped a nine-bout card arranged by Matchmaker John Henry Stitcher, of the Cumberland Police Department, and the show was well received by an enthusiastic gallery.

Murphy Scores Quick K. O.

On of the quickest knockouts ever recorded in an amateur match here came in the second bout on the card when Pat Murphy, featherweight ace of the South Cumberland Athletic Club, flattened Junior Boreman, of Lewistown, in 44 seconds, with a terrific right to the jaw. The Pennsylvanian landed on his back and his head struck the floor with a resounding crash. As Referee Becker counted over him, Boreman was in a sitting position at "five" and he managed to stagger to his feet after "ten" as the arbiter embraced him to keep him from taking a tumble.

In the second of the series of inter-city scraps, Joe Niland was returned the winner over Elmer Rothrock, Lewistown welterweight, in 1:06 of the third round. Referee Jim Kelley awarding the local 150-pounder the bout on a technical knockout after Rothrock had hit the deck several times and was in a bad way. Rothrock was floored once in the first, second and third rounds.

Catanese Whips Klinger

Jimmie Catanese, the South Cumberland A.C.'s busy fighter, pounded out a decision over Arky "Tarzan" Klinger, of Lewistown, in the eighth match on the card. Catanese proved too smart for the hairy-chested Klinger and piled up a big lead in points through a nice left jab and hard rights to the head. A southpaw, Klinger found trouble connecting due to Catanese's weaving style of milling. It was Catanese all the way although Jimmie took the nod on a split decision.

In the final bout on the card, Jim Klosterman, lanky 155-pounder of the Police Boys' Club, won on a technical knockout over Bill Klinger, of Lewistown, in 25 seconds of the second round when the latter suffered a bad cut above the right eye and was bleeding profusely when Referee Kelley halted proceedings. Klosterman belted the game Klinger from pillar to post in the first round and the bombardment was so terrific that the Lewistown boxer hung over the ropes on one occasion to escape punishment. The local southpaw carried "too many guns" and it is doubted if Klinger would have lasted the three-round limit.

The South Cumberland Athletic Club boxers, in charge of Presley "Red" Mauk, had a perfect record for the evening, winning four straight matches. In addition to the wins scored by Murphy and Catanese, Tommy Dunn, 132-pounder, made his local debut, by gaining a split decision over Bobby Porter in a hard fight and Bobby Goss, 108-pound star, won every round from Al Hunt, a newcomer, representing the Police Boys' Club.

Bill "Muscles" Jones, 170-pounder, dropped a decision to Bill Frazier, 165-pound colored lad in an interesting scrap between big fellows. Jones, a muscular fellow, got the worst of the argument with the sharp punching Frazier, whose hard rights to the head jolted Bill quite often in every round. The decision was unanimous in favor of Frazier.

Jake Taylor, 108, colored, unattached, decisioned Jimmy "Bangs" Deetz over the three-round route. Deetz was badly in need of a haircut and his bangs were in his eyes all through the match. Taylor was given a 3-0 vote at the finish.

In the curtain raiser Jake Koelker scored the Legion's lone victory of the evening in three starts by decisioning Bill Brady, unattached colored bantamweight. Porter and Deetz were the Legion team's losers.

The Police Boys Club won two out of three matches. Niland and Klosterman were the winners and Hunt the loser.

Gilbert Becker refereed the first four bouts and Jim Kelley officiated in the last five. John H. Doud and Ross W. Prysock were the judges, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

The show lasted one hour and 30 minutes starting at 8:05 and ending at 9:35.

SOUTH CUMBERLAND A. C. GETS SANCTION TO HOLD BOXING SHOW OCT. 28

The South Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, Baltimore, through its registration chairman, Harry G. Stark, has issued a sanction to the South Cumberland Athletic Club to stage an amateur boxing show at SS. Peter and Paul gym, Monday, October 28, at 8 p. m.

The SCAC, which has been furnishing boxers for other local shows for the past year, is headed by Presley W. "Red" Mauk, of the Royale Dairy. This organization was the only active local group during the past summer, having appeared in six out-of-town shows in Pennsylvania and West Virginia towns.

Leading performers of the South Cumberland Athletic Club include Pat Murphy, Don Miller, Bobby Goss, and Jimmie Catanese.

Billy Light will act as matchmaker for all shows presented by the SCAC.

FIGHT RESULTS

Jake Koelker, 118, American Legion, won decision over Bill Brady, 116, colored, unattached.

Pat Murphy, 124, South Cumberland Athletic Club, knocked out Junior Boreman, 120, of Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club, in 44 seconds of opening round.

"Jake" Taylor, 108, colored, unattached, won decision over Jimmy "Bangs" Deetz, 108, American Legion.

Tommy Dunn, 132, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Bobby Porter, 133, American Legion.

Bobby Goss, 108, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Al Hunt, 110, Police Boys' Club.

Joe Niland, 150, Police Boys' Club, won on technical knockout over Elmer Rothrock, 148, Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club, in 1:05 of third round. Referee Kelley stopped bout with Rothrock practically out on his feet.

Bill Frazier, 165, unattached, won decision over Bill "Muscles" Jones, 170, unattached.

Jimmy Catanese, 133, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Arky "Tarzan" Klinger, 140, Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club.

Pro Cage Circuit Will Pay Major League Salaries

Eleven Teams Will Play 60-Game Schedule, Starting Nov. 1

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Having taken some unhappy ganders at the long lines of basketball fans who couldn't get into the big arenas to see the hot-shot collegians in action, the hard-headed gents who run some of the larger indoor sports palaces of the nation have welded together the Basketball Association of America, a new pro loop, in order to take care of overflow customers and the cash.

Having succeeded in reaping many a buck from hockey, ice shows, boxing as well as college basketball, the backers of the B.A.B. believe they can make the pros pay off once they have established the calibre of the loop.

Eleven Franchises Granted

The owners of the teams in the 11 cities of the association for most part are the corporations which own the big arenas in which the other sports prosper. They have plenty of money behind them and are willing, and in many cases, to lose this year in order to put the league on a firm footing.

The loop begins operations Nov. 1 and each team will play a 60-game schedule, 30 at home and 30 away. Split into two sections, the circuit will have six teams in the east and five in the west. The eastern group is made up of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Providence, Boston and Toronto. The western five are Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

A playoff will be held at the end of the season, and Ned Irish, executive director of Madison Square Garden as well as basketball boss of the arena, says a $75,000 to $90,000 jackpot will be divided among the top teams.

This is big money for pro basketball but the balding promoter who made the college cage game a big time sport by bringing it into the Garden, says it is only the beginning.

"We're paying major league salaries to attract the best players in the game and to give the customers a real show. Our payrolls compare favorably with the National Hockey League and even with big league baseball.

To Play For One Team

"The players will play for one team only in contrast to other leagues in the past which had their athletes jumping all over the country. The players, too," Irish added, "are convinced that they have a golden opportunity to share in the booming sport and are going all out to make the league succeed.

"Another important change from other pro loops we are making is that the game will be played under collegiate rules," he continued. "The collegiate game is faster and more interesting. The only way we will differ from college rules is that the game will be played in 12 minute quarters instead of the 20 minute halves of the school contests."

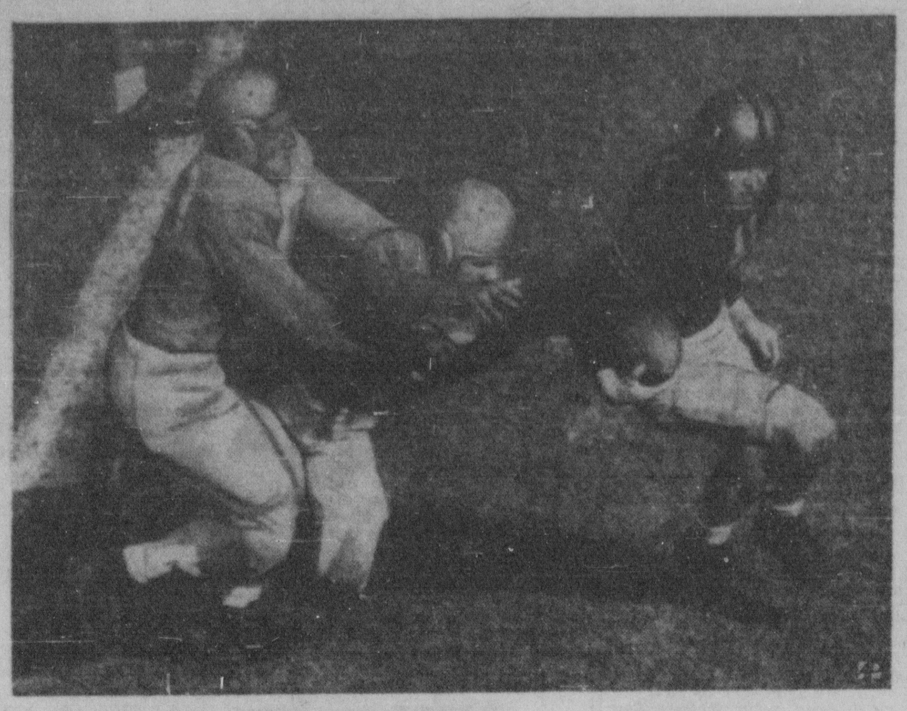

Lucky Draw Assigned Top Weight For Race

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y. Oct. 21 (AP)—G. D. Widener's Lucky Draw has drawn topweight of 129 pounds for Saturday's $75,000 added, mile and five-furlong Gallant Fox Handicap, J. B. Campbell handicapper for the New York tracks, issued his weights late this afternoon. He puts Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie second at 126, then W. M. Jeffords' Pavot at 125, with W. L. Brann's Filly, Gallorette, following at 119 and Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian at 116. Weights scale down to 92 pounds.

Joe Baksi Arrives

SHANNON AIRPORT, Eire, Oct. 21 (AP)—Joe Baksi, American heavyweight boxer, from Kulpmont, Pa., arrived here late today on his way to London where he will fight Freddie Mills November 5. He was accompanied by his manager, Nate Wolfsen, and trainer, Whitey Bimstein.

"I'm putting in the first of my training right here at Shannon," Baksi grinned over a double portion of steak. "Even in New York you don't get grub like this, and I'm pretty sure I won't get it in London."

Maryland Names Sheppard As No. 1 Title Contender

Boxing Commission Is Urged To Get Match Between "Hatchetman" And Joe Louis

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21, (AP) — The Maryland Boxing Commission today named Curtis (The Hatchetman) Sheppard of Philadelphia the No. 1 heavyweight boxing championship contender, and his manager, Max Waxman, urged the commission to use its powers to arrange a match with Champion Joe Louis here next summer.

Commission Chairman Tom McDonagh, Dr. Tony Buchness and Mike Freedman said their decision was made because Sheppard's record is at least as impressive as those of other contenders named in New York as title contenders.

The Maryland body recalled that Elmer (The Violent) Ray, often called a logical contender, was scheduled for a match against Sheppard here, and that the match was called off through no fault of Sheppard's.

Sheppard told the commission that if he were granted a title shot he would fight aggressively instead of adopting the defensive tactics favored by many of Louis's recent opponents.

"I know all about Joe Louis," he said. "I was in his training camp several years ago and traded punches with him. I landed one high on Louis's head and dropped him.

"They rang the bell and called time. I didn't get another chance to work out with Joe.

"I don't say I would knock out Louis if given a bout with him, but I will say I'll punch him until something happens. If I connect with my right, you can bet something will happen."

The commission said it would sanction such a fight and would do what it could to bring it about.

Not counting his fights this year, Sheppard's record since 1938, according to Nat Fleischer's Ring Record Book, boxing's "bible", is 34 victories and 23 defeats. Four of the losses were via the knockout route, two of them coming in 1945 — to Perk Daniels, Louis' sparring partner, and to Jersey Joe Walcott.

Washington-Lee Loses But Hangs Up Record

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 21 (AP) — The Washington and Lee Generals lost Saturday's football game in Victory stadium to William and Mary, 34-18, but they figure they set a record in doing so.

The generals kicked off at the start of the second half from their own five-yard line. The officials penalized them five yards because they didn't line up for the second half quickly enough, and when a player protested this action—apparently in rather strong language—the ball was moved back to the five.

Officials said the second penalty was made because of "unsportsmanlike conduct."

Syracuse Preparing For West Virginia

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Head Coach Clarence (Biggie) Munn today allowed his Syracuse varsity only a brief workout but sent the second and third stringers through an hour scrimmage with the junior varsity.

Opening preparations for this week's game with West Virginia, the scrimmage was marked by the hard-running of Capt. Dick Whitesell, of Poughkeepsie, who has not seen any game duty thus far this year due to a pre-season injury.

Football Giants Send Niles To Jersey City

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Jerry Niles, former University of Iowa halfback has been sent to the Jersey City Giants of the American League, Coach Steve Owen said today.

Niles' spot on the New York roster will be filled by the return of Frank Reagan, formerly of Penn, who has been out because of injuries.

A great increase in the number of muskrats in the regular highway kill in central Michigan is attributed to migration from drying marshes and sloughs.

Allen Is Ineligible To Play Basketball

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 21 (AP)—There has been some conjecture here whether Ermal Allen, University of Kentucky back who was declared ineligible for Southeastern Conference football, might possibly be available for basketball at which he has been something of a whiz.

Now the word comes that he is definitely out as far as the hardwood sport is concerned, but for a different reason.

Allen didn't play freshman football, so there was some hope he might squeak through on the wartime four-year rule, despite the fact that he is a graduate student this year. Then the records were consulted and it was found Allen did play basketball his freshman year.

Montgomery-Mouzon Fight Is Postponed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Promoter Herman Taylor announced today that next Monday's scheduled 15-round bout between Bob Montgomery, holder of the New York-Pennsylvania version of the lightweight title, and challenger Wesley Mouzon, has been postponed until Nov. 26.

The postponement was made because Montgomery cut his lip while sparring yesterday, Taylor said.

Boston Bull Was Willing

An Exciting 4th Quarter

Adopt Name "Marauders"

Is Johnstown Date O.K.?

By C. V. BURNS

Believe it, or not, but dogs do the funniest things at the right time.

During the dull first round in the opening bout on last night's PBC card at SS. Peter and Paul gym, several fans yelled: "Let's have some action."

Just then somebody's pet Boston bulldog came down the stairs, jumped into the ring and walked to a neutral corner.

This caused the audience to chuckle and the spectators got the giggles when some wag yelled: "Now you'll see a fight."

Referee Gilbert Becker ordered the bulldog out of the ring and you should have seen the nasty look Mr. Boston gave the arbiter before he jumped out of the ring and made his exit.

It was a most embarrassing moment for man's best friend.

There was more excitement in the last quarter of the Keyser-Allegany game last Friday night than in the three previous periods.

Allegany was trailing 19-13 after Powers' 24-yard touchdown run and only one touchdown was needed to knot the count. Seven points would have sent Allegany ahead.

The Campers gained 21 yards in three plays and carried the ball to the Keyser 32 but there a 15-yard clipping penalty was plastered on the Blue and White and the locals were unable to overcome that handicap.

Keyser was really going to town in the closing minutes of play but time ran out, halting Coach Clark's team on the AHS 11 after a 70-yard drive. Allegany was helpless before this onslaught which saw Keyser gain possession of the ball on its own 19 and reel off five first downs, gaining from one to 12 yards on each play. It was second down for Keyser and six yards to go for another first when the whistle ended the game.

Lock your windows and latch the door when Altoona Catholic High School makes its next visit here.

The football team of the Altoona school voted the other day to drop the name Altoona Parochials and will be known as "Marauders" in the future.

Noah Webster defines marauder as a rover in quest of booty and plunder; a pillager. Omigosh.

The principal of Redstone (Pa.) High School suspended John Leon, 210 pound tackle because he took a punch at Referee John Graham at a game in Connellsville last week. The punch came at the end of the game as the official was picking up the ball.

Monessen, Pa., is indignant over the reported snabby treatment its fans got at Johnstown recently. Four rooters were hauled out of the stands and plastered $60 in forfeits before they were released. Somebody pulled a light switch and the team had to dress by match light. The Monessen truck which hauled equipment had the gas tank filled with grass, dirt and sand.

The Gaines Dog Research Center thinks it has found the oldest dog in America. He's nearly 26 years old and is at Rocky Mount, N. C. Mrs. E. C. Baynard is the owner. The dog is the offspring of a pure-bred Pekingese and an unknown sire.

According to the Fort Hill High School football schedule we have, the Sentinels have a game pending with Johnstown Catholic High School here November 15. But a Johnstown Catholic schedule received by LaSalle High School shows J. C. H. S. scheduled to play St. George, of Pittsburgh, in Johnstown on November 16. If the latter schedule is correct Fort Hill will have open dates November 15 and 22, two successive weekends before the Turkey Day game with A. H. S.

W. Arnold Gunther demands a retraction of our statement in this column the other day to the effect that Carl "Jerry" Joyce was the Caseys' No. 1 rooter in the days when the local basketball team was stepping high, wide and handsome.

"You should know better," the state health department bacteriologist says, "that George McDermott and Vincent Ingram rate one-two as the all-time Casey rooters and Joyce is third on the list.

"Ingram doesn't care but George feels he has been slighted and a correction of the ratings would make him feel better."

So sorry, George.

Joe Testa, the Morgantown slugger, who scored a knockout in his last outing here in "Vic" Ricker's show, is slated to fight Henry Jackson, of Morgantown, on Fairmont's first professional card in almost five years. Testa took a leathering from Johnny Pope of Johnstown, for three rounds in the last show here September 30, and then threw a crushing right to the jaw to flatten the Negro in 2:47 of the fourth round.

POTOMAC STATE HAS BEST YEAR SINCE DAYS OF COACH PARRISH

Cats Need Two More Wins To Equal Record Set In 1929

KEYSER, Oct. 21—Potomac State is enjoying its greatest football season since the days of Coach George Parrish in 1929 when the Catamounts won seven and lost two to chalk up a record that has stood through the years.

The current edition of State teams, coached by Dana "Horse" Lough, has won its first five games of the season and has yet to play one game away from home with Salem, which will be staged at Grafton Saturday night, and three home contests with Glenville, California, Pa., Teachers and West Liberty College.

Parrish, one-time VPI grid and basketball ace, coached Potomac State teams from 1921 through 1932 and he turned out many topnotch teams in football and basketball. Harley Staggers was State mentor in 1933 and 1934 and Lough, who starred in football under Parrish before going to West Virginia University, where he excelled in wrestling and on the gridiron, took over the coaching reins here in 1935. He recalls that the best season he ever had in football was when the Catamounts won four and lost three. "Horse" said his worst season was 1940 when the Cats won one and lost eight, scoring their only victory over Shepherd College, 41-0.

"Every game from now on will be hard," Lough remarked today. He is hopeful that his team will not become over-confident now that it is within two wins of all-time Potomac State record for victories in one year.

Lough stated that he will use a pass offensive in future games only if opposing elevens employed the aerial game. Potomac State won its fifth game from D. & E. on a last minute passing attack.

Potomac State emerged from the Davis-Elkins game in good physical shape. Keith Allen, the only boy on the injured list last week, saw action against the Senators on Saturday.

The Cats' mentor said that several boys have improved in their play since the start of the season. Those mentioned were John Dorsey, Bill McProuty, Don Rogers, Keith Allen and Phil Yanoschick. Dorsey has been a headache to opposing backfield men in the last few games when the Cats took to the air.

HE'S A HEADACHE—Now don't let this catch line give the wrong impression but Coach Dana "Horse" Lough, of Potomac State's undefeated football team, says that John Dorsey, above, has been a headache to opposing backfield men in the last few games when the Cats took to the air. "Jack" is a product of Keyser High and in 1944 was chosen to play in the North-South all-star classic, an honor looked forward to by all West Virginia high school gridders. He's also a whiz at basketball. Dorsey is majoring in engineering.

The team was given today off from practice because of their victory but starting Tuesday the Catamounts will be put through heavy work in preparation for the Salem battle.

Local Boxers Sweep Bouts With Lewistown

Murphy Kayoes Junior Boreman In 44 Seconds

Jim Klosterman, Catanese, Niland Cop Inter-City Bouts In PBC Show

Cumberland amateur boxers made a clean sweep of four matches with representatives of the Lewistown, Athletic Club in the initial show of the Police Boys' Club last night in SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium before a gathering of approximately 450 persons.

The inter-city contests topped a nine-bout card arranged by Matchmaker John Henry Stitcher, of the Cumberland Police Department, and the show was well received by an enthusiastic gallery.

Murphy Scores Quick K. O.

On of the quickest knockouts ever recorded in an amateur match here came in the second bout on the card when Pat Murphy, featherweight ace of the South Cumberland Athletic Club, flattened Junior Boreman, of Lewistown, in 44 seconds, with a terrific right to the jaw. The Pennsylvanian landed on his back and his head struck the floor with a resounding crash. As Referee Becker counted over him, Boreman was in a sitting position at "five" and he managed to stagger to his feet after "ten" as the arbiter embraced him to keep him from taking a tumble.

In the second of the series of inter-city scraps, Joe Niland was returned the winner over Elmer Rothrock, Lewistown welterweight, in 1:06 of the third round, Referee Jim Kelley awarding the local 150-pounder the bout on a technical knockout after Rothrock had hit the deck several times and was in a bad way. Rothrock was floored once in the first, second and third rounds.

Catanese Whips Klinger

Jimmie Catanese, the South Cumberland A.C.'s busy fighter, pounded out a decision over Arky "Tarzan" Klinger, of Lewistown, in the eighth match on the card. Catanese proved too smart for the hairy-chested Klinger and piled up a big lead in points through a nice left jab and hard rights to the head. A southpaw, Klinger found trouble connecting due to Catanese's weaving style of milling. It was Catanese all the way although Jimmie took the nod on a split decision.

In the final bout on the card, Jim Klosterman, lanky 155-pounder of the Police Boys' Club, won on a technical knockout over Bill Klinger, of Lewistown, in 25 seconds of the second round when the latter suffered a bad cut above the right eye and was bleeding profusely when Referee Kelley halted proceedings. Klosterman belted the game Klinger from pillar to post in the first round and the bombardment was so terrific that the Lewistown boxer hung over the ropes on one occasion to escape punishment. The local southpaw carried "too many guns" and it is doubted if Klinger would have lasted the three-round limit.

The South Cumberland Athletic Club boxers, in charge of Presley "Red" Mauk, had a perfect record for the evening, winning four straight matches. In addition to the wins scored by Murphy and Catanese, Tommy Dunn, 132-pounder, made his local debut, by gaining a split decision over Bobby Porter in a hard fight and Bobby Goss, 108-pound star, won every round from Al Hunt, a newcomer, representing the Police Boys' Club.

Bill "Muscles" Jones, 170-pounder, dropped a decision to Bill Frazier, 165-pound colored lad in an interesting scrap between big fellows. Jones, a muscular fellow, got the worst of the argument with the sharp punching Frazier, whose hard rights to the head jolted Bill quite often in every round. The decision was unanimous in favor of Frazier.

Jake Taylor, 108, colored, unattached, decisioned Jimmy "Bangs" Deetz over the three-round route. Deetz was badly in need of a haircut and his bangs were in his eyes all through the match. Taylor was given a 3-0 vote at the finish.

In the curtain raiser Jake Koelker scored the Legion's lone victory of the evening in three starts by decisioning Bill Brady, unattached colored bantamweight. Porter and Deetz were the Legion team's losers.

The Police Boys Club won two out of three matches. Niland and Klosterman were the winners and Hunt the loser.

Gilbert Becker refereed the first four bouts and Jim Kelley officiated in the last five. John H. Doud and Ross W. Prysock were the judges, John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

The show lasted one hour and 30 minutes starting at 8:05 and ending at 9:35.

SOUTH CUMBERLAND A. C. GETS SANCTION TO HOLD BOXING SHOW OCT. 28

The South Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, Baltimore, through its registration chairman, Harry G. Stark, has issued a sanction to the South Cumberland Athletic Club to stage an amateur boxing show at SS. Peter and Paul gym, Monday, October 28, at 8 p. m.

The SCAC, which has been furnishing boxers for other local shows for the past year, is headed by Presley W. "Red" Mauk, of the Royale Dairy. This organization was the only active local group during the past summer, having appeared in six out-of-town shows in Pennsylvania and West Virginia towns.

Leading performers of the South Cumberland Athletic Club include Pat Murphy, Don Miller, Bobby Goss, and Jimmie Catanese.

Billy Light will act as matchmaker for all shows presented by the SCAC.

FIGHT RESULTS

Jake Koelker, 118, American Legion, won decision over Bill Brady, 116, colored, unattached.

Pat Murphy, 124, South Cumberland Athletic Club, knocked out Junior Boreman, 120, of Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club, in 44 seconds of opening round.

"Jake" Taylor, 106, colored, unattached, won decision over Jimmy "Bangs" Deetz, 108, American Legion.

Tommy Dunn, 132, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Bobby Porter, 133, American Legion.

Bobby Goss, 108, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Al Hunt, 110, Police Boys' Club.

Joe Niland, 150, Police Boys' Club, won on technical knockout over Elmer Rothrock, 148, Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club, in 1:05 of third round. Referee Kelley stopped bout with Rothrock practically out on his feet.

Bill Frazier, 165, unattached, won decision over Bill "Muscles" Jones, 170, unattached.

Jimmy Catanese, 133, South Cumberland Athletic Club, won decision over Arky "Tarzan" Klinger, 140, Lewistown, Pa., Athletic Club.

Pro Cage Circuit Will Pay Major League Salaries

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Having taken some unhappy ganders at the long lines of basketball fans who couldn't get into the big arenas to see the hot-shot collegians in action, the hard-headed gents who run some of the larger indoor sports palaces of the nation have welded together the Basketball Association of America, a new pro loop, in order to take care of overflow customers and the cash.

Having succeeded in reaping many a buck from hockey, ice shows, boxing as well as college basketball, the backers of the B.A.B. believe they can make the pros pay off once they have established the calibre of the loop.

Eleven Franchises Granted

The owners of the teams in the 11 cities of the association for most part are the corporations which own the big arenas in which the other sports prosper. They have plenty of money behind them and are willing, and in many cases, to lose this year in order to put the league on a firm footing.

The loop begins operations Nov. 1 and each team will play a 60-game schedule, 30 at home and 30 away. Split into two sections, the circuit will have six teams in the east and five in the west. The eastern group is made up of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Providence, Boston and Toronto. The western five are Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Pittsburgh.

A playoff will be held at the end of the season, and Ned Irish, executive director of Madison Square Garden as well as basketball boss of the arena, says a $75,000 to $90,000 jackpot will be divided among the top teams.

This is big money for pro basketball but the balding promoter who made the college cage game a big time sport by bringing it into the Garden, says it is only the beginning.

"We're paying major league salaries to attract the best players in the game and to give the customers a real show. Our payrolls compare favorably with the National Hockey League and even with big league baseball.

To Play For One Team

"The players will play for one team only in contrast to other leagues in the past which had their athletes jumping all over the country. The players, too," Irish added, "are convinced that they have a golden opportunity to share in the booming sport and are going all out to make the league succeed.

"Another important change from other pro loops we are making is that the game will be played under collegiate rules," he continued. "The collegiate game is faster and more interesting. The only way we will differ from college rules is that the game will be played in 12 minute quarters instead of the 20 minute halves of the school contests."

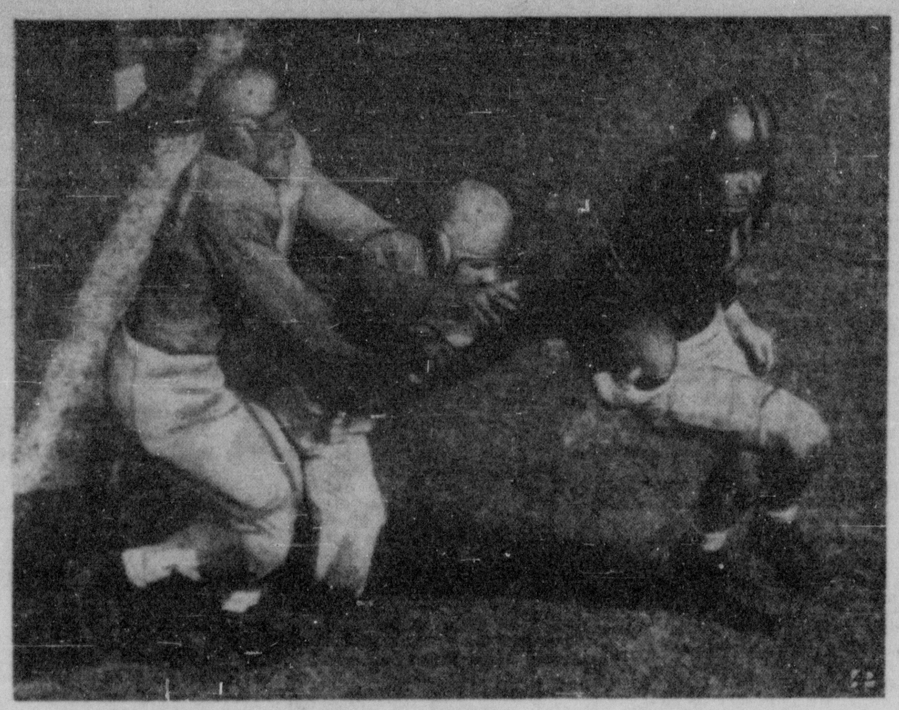

Lucky Draw Assigned Top Weight For Race

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y. Oct. 21 (AP)—G. D. Widener's Lucky Draw has drawn topweight of 129 pounds for Saturday's $75,000 added, mile and five-furlong Gallant Fox Handicap. J. B. Campbell handicapper for the New York tracks, issued his weights late this afternoon. He puts Mrs. Ethel D Jacobs' Stymie second at 126, then W. M. Jeffords' Pavot at 125, with W. L. Brann's Pilly, Gallorette, following at 119 and Mrs. P. A. B Widener's Polynesian at 116. Weights scale down to 92 pounds.

Joe Baksi Arrives

SHANNON AIRPORT, Eire, Oct. 21 (AP)—Joe Baksi, American heavyweight boxer, from Kulpmont, Pa., arrived here late today on his way to London where he will fight Freddie Mills November 5. He was accompanied by his manager, Nate Wolfsen, and trainer, Whitey Bimstein.

"I'm putting in the first of my training right here at Shannon," Baksi grinned over a double portion of steak. "Even in New York you don't get grub like this, and I'm pretty sure I won't get it in London."

Maryland Names Sheppard As No. 1 Title Contender

Boxing Commission Is Urged To Get Match Between "Hatchetman" And Joe Louis

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21, (AP) — The Maryland Boxing Commission today named Curtis (The Hatchetman) Sheppard of Philadelphia the No. 1 heavyweight boxing championship contender, and his manager, Max Waxman, urged the commission to use its powers to arrange a match with Champion Joe Louis here next summer.

Commission Chairman Tom McDonagh, Dr. Tony Buchness and Mike Freedman said their decision was made because Sheppard's record is at least as impressive as those of other contenders named in New York as title contenders.

The Maryland body recalled that Elmer (The Violent) Ray, often called a logical contender, was scheduled for a match against Sheppard here, and that the match was called off through no fault of Sheppard's.

Sheppard told the commission that if he were granted a title shot he would fight aggressively instead of adopting the defensive tactics favored by many of Louis's recent opponents.

"I know all about Joe Louis," he said. "I was in his training camp several years ago and traded punches with him. I landed one high on Louis's head and dropped him.

"They rang the bell and called time. I didn't get another chance to work out with Joe.

"I don't say I would knock out Louis if given a bout with him, but I will say I'll punch him until something happens. If I connect with my right, you can bet something will happen."

The commission said it would sanction such a fight and would do what it could to bring it about.

Not counting his fights this year, Sheppard's record since 1938, according to Nat Fleischer's Ring Record Book, boxing's "bible", is 34 victories and 23 defeats. Four of the losses were via the knockout route, two of them coming in 1945 — to Perk Daniels, Louis' sparring partner, and to Jersey Joe Walcott.

Washington-Lee Loses But Hangs Up Record

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 21 (AP) — The Washington and Lee Generals lost Saturday's football game in Victory stadium to William and Mary, 34-18, but they figure they set a record in doing so.

The generals kicked off at the start of the second half from their own five-yard line. The officials penalized them five yards because they didn't line up for the second half quickly enough, and when a player protested this action—apparently in rather strong language—the ball was moved back to the five.

Officials said the second penalty was made because of "unsportsmanlike conduct."

Syracuse Preparing For West Virginia

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Head Coach Clarence (Biggie) Munn today allowed his Syracuse varsity only a brief workout but sent the second and third stringers through an hour scrimmage with the junior varsity.

Opening preparations for this week's game with West Virginia, the scrimmage was marked by the hard-running of Capt. Dick Whitesell, of Poughkeepsie, who has not seen any game duty thus far this year due to a pre-season injury.

Football Giants Send Niles To Jersey City

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Jerry Niles, former University of Iowa halfback has been sent to the Jersey City Giants of the American League, Coach Steve Owen said today.

Niles' spot on the New York roster will be filled by the return of Frank Reagan, formerly of Penn, who has been out because of injuries.

Allen Is Ineligible To Play Basketball

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 21 (AP)—There has been some conjecture here whether Ermal Allen, University of Kentucky back who was declared ineligible for Southeastern Conference football, might possibly be available for basketball at which he has been something of a whiz.

Now the word comes that he is definitely out as far as the hardwood sport is concerned, but for a different reason.

Allen didn't play freshman football, so there was some hope he might squeak through on the wartime four-year rule, despite the fact that he is a graduate student this year. Then the records were consulted and it was found Allen did play basketball his freshman year.

Montgomery-Mouzon Fight Is Postponed

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Promoter Herman Taylor announced today that next Monday's scheduled 15-round bout between Bob Montgomery, holder of the New York-Pennsylvania version of the lightweight title, and challenger Wesley Mouzon, has been postponed until Nov. 26.

The postponement was made because Montgomery cut his lip while sparring yesterday, Taylor said.

Boston Bull Was Willing

Is Johnstown Date O.K.?

By C. V. BURNS

Believe it, or not, but dogs do the funniest things at the right time.

During the dull first round in the opening bout on last night's PBC card at SS. Peter and Paul gym, several fans yelled: "Let's have some action."

Just then somebody's pet Boston bulldog came down the stairs, jumped into the ring and walked to a neutral corner.

This caused the audience to chuckle and the spectators got the giggles when some wag yelled: "Now you'll see a fight."

Referee Gilbert Becker ordered the bulldog out of the ring and you should have seen the nasty look Mr. Boston gave the arbiter before he jumped out of the ring and made his exit.

It was a most embarrassing moment for man's best friend.

There was more excitement in the last quarter of the Keyser-Allegany game last Friday night than in the three previous periods.

Allegany was trailing 19-13 after Powers' 24-yard touchdown run and only one touchdown was needed to knot the count. Seven points would have sent Allegany ahead.

The Campers gained 21 yards in three plays and carried the ball to the Keyser 32 but there a 15-yard clipping penalty was plastered on the Blue and White and the locals were unable to overcome that handicap.

Keyser was really going to town in the closing minutes of play but time ran out, halting Coach Clark's team on the AHS 11 after a 70-yard drive. Allegany was helpless before this onslaught which saw Keyser gain possession of the ball on its own 19 and reel off five first downs, gaining from one to 12 yards on each play. It was second down for Keyser and six yards to go for another first when the whistle ended the game.

Lock your windows and latch the door when Altoona Catholic High School makes its next visit here.

The principal of Redstone (Pa.) High School suspended John Leon, 210 pound tackle because he took a punch at Referee John Graham at a game in Connellsville last week. The punch came at the end of the game as the official was picking up the ball.

Monessen, Pa., is indignant over the reported anabby treatment its fans got at Johnstown recently. Four rooters were hauled out of the stands and plastered $60 in forfeits before they were released. Somebody pulled a light switch and the team had to dress by match light. The Monessen truck which hauled equipment had the gas tank filled with grass, dirt and sand.

The Gaines Dog Research Center thinks it has found the oldest dog in America. He's nearly 26 years old and is at Rocky Mount, N. C. Mrs. E. C. Baynard is the owner. The dog is the offspring of a pure-bred Pekingese and an unknown sire.

According to the Fort Hill High School football schedule we have, the Sentinels have a game pending with Johnstown Catholic High School here November 15. But a Johnstown Catholic schedule received by LaSalle High School shows J. C. H. S. scheduled to play St. George, of Pittsburgh, in Johnstown on November 16. If the latter schedule is correct Fort Hill will have open dates November 15 and 22, two successive weekends before the Turkey Day game with A. H. S.

W. Arnold Gunther demands a retraction of our statement in this column the other day to the effect that Carl "Jerry" Joyce was the Caseys' No. 1 rooter in the days when the local basketball team was stepping high, wide and handsome.

"You should know better," the state health department bacteriologist says, "that George McDermott and Vincent Ingram rate one-two as the all-time Casey rooters and Joyce is third on the list.

"Ingram doesn't care but George feels he has been slighted and a correction of the ratings would make him feel better."

So sorry, George.

Joe Testa, the Morgantown slugger, who scored a knockout in his last outing here in "Vic" Ricker's show, is slated to fight Henry Jackson, of Morgantown, on Fairmont's first professional card in almost five years. Testa took a leathering from Johnny Pope of Johnstown, for three rounds in the last show here September 30, and then threw a crushing right to the jaw to flatten the Negro in 2:47 of the fourth round.

POTOMAC STATE HAS BEST YEAR SINCE DAYS OF COACH PARRISH

Cats Need Two More Wins To Equal Record Set In 1929

KEYSER, Oct. 21—Potomac State is enjoying its greatest football season since the days of Coach George Parrish in 1929 when the Catamounts won seven and lost two to chalk up a record that has stood through the years.

The current edition of State teams, coached by Dana "Horse" Lough, has won its first five games of the season and has yet to play one game away from home with Salem, which will be staged at Grafton Saturday night, and three home contests with Glenville, California, Pa., Teachers and West Liberty College.

Parrish, one-time VPI grid and basketball ace, coached Potomac State teams from 1921 through 1932 and he turned out many topnotch teams in football and basketball. Harley Staggers was State mentor in 1933 and 1934 and Lough, who starred in football under Parrish before going to West Virginia University, where he excelled in wrestling and on the gridiron, took over the coaching reins here in 1935. He recalls that the best season he ever had in football was when the Catamounts won four and lost three. "Horse" said his worst season was 1940 when the Cats won one and lost eight, scoring their only victory over Shepherd College, 41-0.

"Every game from now on will be hard," Lough remarked today. He is hopeful that his team will not become over-confident now that it is within two wins of all-time Potomac State record for victories in one year.

Lough stated that he will use a pass offensive in future games only if opposing elevens employed the aerial game. Potomac State won its fifth game from D. & E. on a last minute passing attack.

Potomac State emerged from the Davis-Elkins game in good physical shape. Keith Allen, the only boy on the injured list last week, saw action against the Senators on Saturday.

The Cats' mentor said that several boys have improved in their play since the start of the season. Those mentioned were John Dorsey, Bill McProuty, Don Rogers, Keith Allen and Phil Yanoschick. Dorsey has been a headache to opposing backfield men in the last few games when the Cats took to the air.

HE'S A HEADACHE—Now don't let this catch line give the wrong impression but Coach Dana "Horse" Lough, of Potomac State's undefeated football team, says that John Dorsey, above, has been a headache to opposing backfield men in the last few games when the Cats took to the air. "Jack" is a product of Keyser High and in 1944 was chosen to play in the North-South all-star classic, an honor looked forward to by all West Virginia high school gridders. He's also a whiz at basketball. Dorsey is majoring in engineering.

The team was given today off from practice because of their victory but starting Tuesday the Catamounts will be put through heavy work in preparation for the Salem battle.

BRITISH PROS WILL JOIN WINTER TOUR

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Dai Rees and Charles Ward, British professionals, were expected to arrive in the United States tomorrow to join the winter tour of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, Fred Corcoran, PGA tourney manager, said today.

Rees defeated Byron Nelson in the 1937 Ryder Cup matches, but is unlikely to face the Texan star, who has announced his retirement until the Masters' tourney next year.

Corcoran estimated the touring professionals will have played for purses totalling more than $500,000 when the 1946 season ends after five more meets. They include the Richmond, Va., open, Oct. 24-27; North-South Open championship, Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 5-7; Atlanta, Ga., Open, Nov. 21-24; Orlando, Fla., Open, Nov. 28-Dec. 1; and the Miami Open, Miami Springs, Fla., Dec. 5-8.

The 1947 campaign starts with the Los Angeles Open, Jan. 3-6. If the British pair arrive in time, Corcoran said, they will compete at Richmond.

Favorite Players Take Beating At Jamaica

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Favorite players in today's crowd of 22,715 were victims of one of the season's biggest setbacks when the South American filly Miss Grillo, a 19 to 20 shot in the field of four, ran a bad last throughout the featured Esposa Handicap.

The mile and a sixteenth test for fillies and mares went to William Noble's Kay Gibson by five lengths. Mrs. J. U. Gratton's Jupiter Light ran second, a length before William Woodward's Segula, which in turn beat Miss Grillo by four lengths.

Kay Gibson paid $6.30 for two and was timed in 1:45 4-5.

A total of $98,521 was burned up on Miss Grillo, there being $82,979 on her in the straight pool while $15,542 was bet on her for place. With only four starting, there was no show betting.

BRITISH PROS WILL JOIN WINTER TOUR

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Dai Rees and Charles Ward, British professionals, were expected to arrive in the United States tomorrow to join the winter tour of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, Fred Corcoran, PGA tourney manager, said today.

Rees defeated Byron Nelson in the 1937 Ryder Cup matches, but is unlikely to face the Texan star, who has announced his retirement until the Masters' tourney next year.

Corcoran estimated the touring professionals will have played for purses totalling more than $500,000 when the 1946 season ends after five more meets. They include the Richmond, Va., open, Oct. 24-27; North-South Open championship, Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 5-7; Atlanta, Ga., Open, Nov. 21-24; Orlando, Fla., Open, Nov. 28-Dec. 1; and the Miami Open, Miami Springs, Fla., Dec. 5-8.

The 1947 campaign starts with the Los Angeles Open, Jan. 3-6. If the British pair arrive in time, Corcoran said, they will compete at Richmond.

Favorite Players Take Beating At Jamaica

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Favorite players in today's crowd of 22,715 were victims of one of the season's biggest setbacks when the South American filly Miss Grillo, a 19 to 20 shot in the field of four, ran a bad last throughout the featured Esposa Handicap.

The mile and a sixteenth test for fillies and mares went to William Noble's Kay Gibson by five lengths. Mrs. J. U. Gratton's Jupiter Light ran second, a length before William Woodward's Segula, which in turn beat Miss Grillo by four lengths.

Kay Gibson paid $6.30 for two and was timed in 1:45 4-5.

A total of $98,521 was burned up on Miss Grillo, there being $82,979 on her in the straight pool while $15,542 was bet on her for place. With only four starting, there was no show betting.

Cattlemen Will Be Quizzed By 'Vox Pop' Emcees

By JEAN MEEGAN
(For C. E. Butterfield)

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—With meat on everybody's tongue—as a topic, Parks Johnson and Warren Hull are taking "vox pop" into the arena of the American royal livestock show at 9 o'clock Tuesday night on CBS to interview cattlemen, 4-H members, and the rodeo riders travelling with the show.

CBS stations in New York state will carry a Republican party campaign rally with Governor Thomas E. Dewey and his whole slate at 10 o'clock Tuesday night from Rochester, N. Y.

Mutual will have a touch of politics at 9:30 on "American Forum of the Air". William Murphy, director of public relations for the Republican National Committee and Sam O'Neal, who holds the corresponding position for the national Democratic committee, will answer questions on "Campaign Predictions" asked by two reporters of national affairs who have travelled around the country and studied current political conditions at first hand.

Kate Smith will sing the radio premier of the official Community Chest song at 2:45 Saturday afternoon from the steps of the U. S. treasury building in Washington, D. C, on the opening of the Community Chest drive.

Serge Koussevitzy will conduct Tchaikowsky's fourth symphony with the Boston Symphony Orchestra at 9:30 Tuesday evening on ABC.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear wife and Mother, Ida May Tysinger, who passed away two years ago today.

When the evening shades are falling,
And we are sitting all alone,
In our hearts there comes a longing,
If you only could come home.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To your grave not far away,
Where we laid you, dearest wife and Mother,
Two long years ago today.

Sadly missed by her
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
10-21-1t-TN

In memory of our beloved wife and Mother, Mrs. Lucy Boone, who died seven years ago today, October 21, 1939.

Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps them near.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
10-21-1t-TN

In loving memory of Carolyn Louise Anderson, who departed this life three years ago today, October 22, 1943.

Three years, bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God, that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do,
No thought of self, but of "the other."
I know He said, "Well done, dear Carolyn."

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER,
SISTER AND BROTHER.
10-22-1t-N

In loving memory of our dear daddy and husband, Mr. J. C. Turner, who passed away October 22, 1941.

Today is the day of remembrance,
A day of sad regrets,
As the hour you passed away,
God knows you are always with us.

As we walk through life alone,
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your gentle eyes,
And sweetly whispered come home to Rest.

Sadly missed by his

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of our dear wife and Mother, Ida May Tysinger, who passed away two years ago today.

When the evening shades are falling,
And we are sitting all alone,
In our hearts there comes a longing,
If you only could come home.

Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To your grave not far away,
Where we laid you, dearest wife and Mother,
Two long years ago today.

Sadly missed by her
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
10-21-11-TN

In memory of our beloved wife and Mother, Mrs. Lucy Boone, who died seven years ago today, October 21, 1939.

Today recalls sad memories
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And the ones who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps them near.

Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
10-21-11-TN

In loving memory of Carolyn Louise Anderson, who departed this life three years ago today, October 22, 1943.

Three years, bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God, that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do,
No thought of self, but of "the other,"
I know He said, "Well done, dear Carolyn."

Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER,
SISTER AND BROTHER.
10-22-11-N

In loving memory of our dear daddy and husband, Mr. J. C. Turner, who passed away October 22, 1941.

Today is the day of remembrance,
A day of sad regrets,
As the hour you passed away,
God knows you are always with us.

As we walk through life alone,
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb.
So He closed your gentle eyes,
And sweetly whispered come home to Rest.

Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Evidence Conflicts In Myers Assault Case In Court

Defendant Denies Pointing Gun Or Striking Theodore Trenum

Conflicting testimony marked the trial of Lester Myers, World War II veteran, of Reynolds, near Westernport, before a jury in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of assault in a case growing out of a disturbance July 15 on the road between the Myers home and the nearby home of Theodore Trenum and Howard Doman.

The state builds its case around "feeling" that allegedly arose between the Trenum and Myers families over rent charged Trenum, an ex-serviceman, by his landlord, Bruce Myers, Sr.

Bruce Myers, Jr., caused the fracas when he cursed Trenum and the two got into a fight, according to state witnesses, but Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Myers, Sr., parents of the Myers brothers, Bruce, Jr., Lester and Bernie, and the brothers declared Trenum cursed Bruce, Jr., and the fight resulted.

Doman Called Police

Lester Myers, state witnesses said, pointed a revolver at Trenum's wife and his father-in-law, Howard Doman, warning them to come no closer when they approached the fight. Thereupon, Doman returned to the Trenum home, obtained a shotgun and started back to the fray, but his wife and daughter took the weapon away from him. Then Doman called police, the state said.

The Myers family, however, declared that Lester had no revolver but was carrying a camera he intended to give his girl friend. They said he did not point a weapon of any kind at anyone.

Instead, the Myers family testified, Doman came out of the house with a shotgun, cursed the Myers family and threatened to "blow their brains out."

Trenum and his three-and-a-half-year-old son were together when Bruce Myers, Jr., cursed Trenum, the state declared, and when Trenum stooped down to assist his son, Lester Myers kicked Trenum in the head and knocked him unconscious. When Trenum "came to," the state said, Bruce Myers, Jr., was on him and "chewing his thumb."

Upstairs Dressing

Lester Myers said he was upstairs dressing and knew nothing of any trouble until he came outside to get the car to go visit his girl friend.

Handed a shotgun, brought into court along with several rifles and a revolver in connection with the trial, Lester demonstrated to the jury how he said Howard Doman charged off the steps of his home with the weapon after Trenum called "Hey, Doman," when Bruce Myers, Jr., had him down.

Lester likewise demonstrated to the jury how he was carrying the camera. He declared he struck no one, was not carrying a weapon of any kind and consequently could not have pointed one at anybody.

After the state closed its case, the judges continued the trial until this morning, excusing the jurors with the admonition that they are to discuss the case with no one.

Edward J. Ryan and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., represent Lester Myers.

Manslaughter Case Today

Indicted on a charge of manslaughter, Forrest R. Hulings, a World War II veteran, will go on trial today, his counsel, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., announced yesterday.

While hunting in the Cresaptown section on September 20, Hulings shot and killed Vernon Kaefer, a farmer, who also was hunting squirrels, according to the indictment.

Trial of Carl Wilson Price, indicted for manslaughter in the deaths of three men in a highway accident, is scheduled to begin Wednesday. He also is defended by Ryan. Price, authorities said, was driving a truck which crashed into a disabled automobile on Baltimore Pike, east of Cumberland, last May 3.

Philip Fletcher, Ezra Watson and Homer Mann were fatally injured.

Brothers Are Fined After Car Mishap

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 21—William Bowman, 20, New Creek, was fined $25 and costs here today at a hearing before Justice of the Peace T. E. Pownall when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Bowman's brother, Vernon, 25, was reported in good condition in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where he was admitted Sunday night after the car William Bowman was driving crashed against a concrete abutment on Route 28 near Springfield, injuring both men and a third brother, Carl, 18, listed as the owner of the car, a 1935 Oldsmobile sedan.

Carl Bowman pleaded guilty to a charge of permitting his brother to drive his car while intoxicated, and Justice of the Peace Pownall fined him $25 and costs. The licenses of both William and Carl were suspended for six months. Cpl. Ralph Hawkins of the Romney State Police, preferred the charges. The car was completely demolished.

Four Men Including Three Vets Join Army Here

Three veterans and one recruit left yesterday for Baltimore after enlisting at the local Army recruiting station for three years' service each.

They include Sgt. Howard V. Lashbaugh, of Barton, a veteran of four years and five months service who saw action in the ETO. He enlisted in the infantry.

Pfc. Howard L. Folk, of Old Fields, W. Va., a veteran of three years and five months, who signed with the Air Forces.

F. Jackson Lewis, 18, of Horseshoe Run, W. Va., enlisted for three years in the artillery and requested service in the Pacific.

Cpl. Virgil D. Keplinger, of Lahmansville, W. Va., a veteran of three years and eight months joined the Air Forces. He served in the ETO from October, 1943 to December, 1945.

Miss Ruby Adams Addresses P-TA At Mt. Royal Avenue

Suggests Exchange Of Reports Between Parents And Teachers

Miss Ruby Adams, supervisor of elementary education, addressed the Mt. Royal Avenue Parent Teacher Association last night at the school on the subject of "Reporting on the Progress of Children."

Miss Adams emphasized the need for closer co-operation between teachers and parents and co-ordination of effort to aid the development of individual children. She said the report card method from teacher to parents should give way to progress reports from parents to teacher as well as teacher to parents, and that these reports should be exchanged periodically.

The obligation of molding the lives and educating the children rests neither with the parents alone, or the public school teachers alone, Miss Adams declared. It is a mutual responsibility and teachers and parents should learn to work closer together and should plan together for the children.

Jack Platt, director of music in Allegany county public schools, spoke on the advantages now offered children in the field of instrumental music, and urged parents to co-operate by encouraging their children to participate in the program.

Rudolph Kompanek, president of the association presided at the business session and presented the two guest speakers. The business session was routine, although it was reported the association now has 204 members, 80 of whom attended the meeting last night.

Ministers Make Plans To Hold Training School

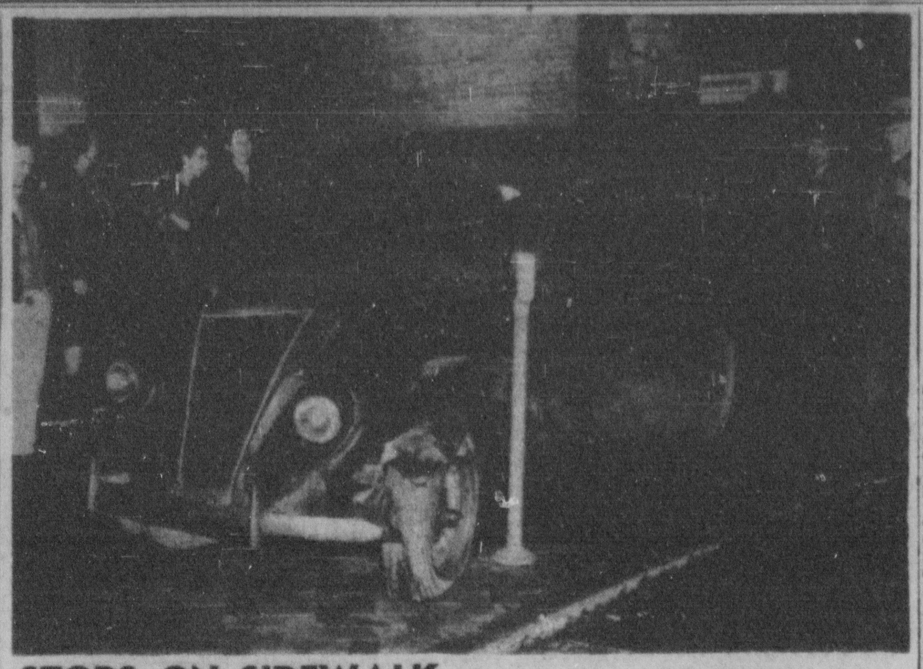

At a meeting of the Cumberland Ministerial Association yesterday in Central YMCA, plans were outlined for the annual training school to be held this week of April 21. Rev. Randolph Keefe, pastor of Grace Baptist Church, was named dean of the school and Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, was named chairman of the board of managers.

Members of the board include Rev. W. Clark Main, pastor of Trinity Methodist; Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal; Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of First Presbyterian; Rev. Ray L. Henthorne, pastor of First Christian; and Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church.

Plans were also discussed for the formation of an interdenominational Youth Council for Allegany County, as a part of the state Youth Council.

Rev. Robert Campbell, pastor of Southminster Presbyterian Church, was named chairman of a committee to investigate the possibility of placing church bulletin boards in local railroad stations, hotel lobbies and both YMCA buildings.

A report was made by Rev. Brake on "The Reformation", and he led the discussion period which followed. Rev. Mr. Henthorne, president of the association, presided at the meeting.

STOPS ON SIDEWALK—Shown above is the car, driven by Thomas F. Shannon, 310 Jefferson street, after it came to a stop on the sidewalk on Greene street, near the Johnson street intersection late Sunday afternoon. The car left the street when it was struck by a truck. According to the police, the driver of the truck did not stop after the accident. However, the police said they have the license number and know the owner of the truck. What puzzled the several spectators, who can be seen in the picture, is how the car got on the other side of the parking meter.

Local Breweries Can Make More Beer Each Month

Restrictions On Use Of Grain Eased By Agriculture Department

Local breweries will be able to brew about 1,000 more barrels of beer a month, according to information from Washington last night, easing the restrictions on the use of grain by brewers and distillers.

The Associated Press reports from Washington, D. C., that the Agriculture Department announced last night that the nation's distilling industry will be granted about 16 per cent more grain for making whiskey and distilled spirits in October and subsequent months until further notice.

It also granted brewers about six per cent more grain and lifted restrictions upon the use of wheat by breakfast food and other manufacturers.

Officials in Washington estimated that distillers will be allowed a total of around 3,000,000 bushels of grain a month compared with 2,600,000 bushels allowed for September.

Brewers will be permitted to increase their quarterly use of grains from 85 to 90 per cent of the quantity they used in the corresponding quarters of 1945.

G. William Bibby, of the Cumberland Brewing Company and James W. Bishop of the Queen City Brewing Company each said last night that this increase will permit each brewery to make about 500 barrels more beer per month, on the average, or a total of about 1,000 barrels more a month.

Production has been curtailed in both breweries for some time and there have been several short-lived but definite "draughts" among beer drinkers here, especially during the hot-weather months. Local plants have, according to retailers, done a "pretty fair job" in taking care of local trade, and Cumberland area beer drinkers have been more fortunate than those in distant territories.

According to Washington officials, the total increase in grain to brewers will be about 1,000,000 bushels throughout the country. The Agriculture Department said that because of continued heavy foreign requirements for wheat and flour, it will be necessary to continue the present 85 per cent limitation on the quantity of flour that can be distributed for domestic use.

Wiley Ford Child Bitten By Dog

Attaches at Allegany Hospital reported last night that Miss Helen Heffner, 23, Virginia avenue, who suffered head injuries in a motorcycle crash on Baltimore Pike early Sunday morning, is in "fair" condition.

Charles E. Davidson, 21, 349 Williams street, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital Sunday morning after suffering back injuries when his car was struck by a westbound Western Maryland Railway train at the Virginia avenue crossing, was reported improving last night.

Powder Company Officials Cancel Inspection Trip

Eight Navy and Hercules Powder Company officials scheduled to fly here yesterday for an inspection of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory cancelled the trip due to bad weather over the mountains.

Laboratory officials said last night the Powder Company officials flew from Wilmington, Del., to Washington, D. C., to pick up the Navy personnel, but the ship was grounded there for the flight to Cumberland due to dense fog and low ceilings over the mountains.

Officials of the Powder Company indicated last night the visit here will be postponed indefinitely, but will be made at a later date.

3 Navy Veterans Enlist In Inactive Reserve

Three more veterans enlisted in the V-6 inactive naval reserve last week, according to Chief Quartermaster Charles Drinkwater, of the local recruiting office.

They are Harold Joseph Gaebl, 202 Virginia avenue, as a store keeper 1-c; John Donald Connor, Frostburg, as an electronic technician's mate 3-c; William Ashby Shirer, Oakland, as an electrician's mate 3-c.

Valley Road May Be Closed By City If Found Unsafe

After Bowman's Addition residents appealed to the Mayor and Council for the third successive week to have Valley Road improved, Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday instructed Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, to inspect the road and to close off the part within the city limits if it is unsafe.

Despite statements at yesterday's council meeting by John R. Greise, W. Ward Wilson, a school bus operator, and James F. Bittner, regarding the need for improvements, Street Commissioner Myers G. Light said the road is in good condition as compared to some of the streets in the city proper. Light explained that other street work is just as important and that jobs must wait their turn, but he promised that the work will be done before winter.

Others who appeared at the meeting to ask for improvements to Valley Road were Herbert F. Sarver and David M. Robertson, who told the council members, "You are putting dollars before human life."

The council refused to grant the American Iron and Metal Company "a license in the purchase of and sale of scrap materials and structural steel." Mayor Post pointed out that under the zoning ordinance junk yards are not allowed in the city and that the council would be violating an ordinance to grant the license. The company has a warehouse on Springdale street.

Second hand licenses were granted to the Price Furniture Exchange and to Harry R. Fayman. The former is a transfer from 79 North Centre street to 116-120 North Centre. Fayman proposes a tool and hardware business at 418-420 Virginia avenue. In each case the display of merchandise on sidewalks is prohibited.

The council authorized Commissioner Light to purchase a ton of fibre for the street sweeper from the Keystone Brush Company at a cost of $560.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards was empowered to advertise for bids for a 1946 Buick sedan for Charles J. Bruce, superintendent for the Evitts Creek Water Company.

Douglas R. Bowie, 723 Washington street, was ordered refunded $18 for a water bill paid twice.

On request of Mrs. Fred Sutherland the Navy Mothers' Club was given permission to sell "Sailor Tags" Friday through Monday.

The Mayor and Council also voted to change the name of the alley running from Cumberland to Washington streets and from Greene to Water streets from Cherry Alley to Cherry Place, after receiving a written request from William L. Sherman.

New Nurse Supervisor Assumes Duties Here

Mrs. Anna E. Love, recently appointed supervisor of county health nurses, assumed her new duties with the local Health Department yesterday, succeeding Miss Marion Weber, who resigned last July 1.

For the past year Mrs. Love has been working as special field representative on community organization for the Georgia Tuberculosis Association, with headquarters in Atlanta.

She began her career in public health nursing in New York, where she served for 11 years with the Community Service Society. She has also served as nursing field representative for the American Red Cross in Florida, and as nursing consultant with the State Board of Health in Indiana, in the United States Public Health Service.

A native of Clifton, N. J., Mrs. Love received a Bachelor of Science degree in education from New York University, and trained at the School of Nursing at Bellevue Hospital in New York. At one time she was supervisor and instructor of surgical nursing at the hospital.

Concrete Block Work Permit Is Granted

A permit to use the old Zihlman glass factory building for the manufacture of concrete bicok was granted to Jerome S. Ervin, 108 Altamont terrace, in the city engineer's office yesterday.

The building, which was partially destroyed by fire a number of years ago, is located on part of Lot No. 19, Block A, Northern Addition, in the rear of the 800-block on Columbia avenue, along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks.

The basement of the one-story concrete block structure is still intact, and Ervin said that part of the building will be used for the work. The basement measures 20 by 60 feet.

The building is owned by the Zihlman estate, in charge of Mrs. Girard Everstine, 624 North Mechanic street.

Oakland Veteran Dies Of Injuries In Sawmill Mishap

Judson W. "Tommy" Foster Fatally Hurt While Repairing Pipe

Judson W. "Tommy" Foster, Jr., 25, of near Oakland, an Army veteran, died in Memorial Hospital yesterday at 4:40 p. m. of injuries suffered when his head was caught in a buzz saw at the sawmill near Oakland which he operated with his brother-in-law, Hugh Ream, Swallow Falls. He was admitted at 1:50 p. m.

Dr. James A. Gannon, Jr., Oakland physician, who treated Foster at the scene of the accident, said that the saw bit into Foster's head on the right side, just above the hairline, and tore into the brain from the temple to the mid section. The injured man was conscious while being treated, Dr. Gannon said, although hospital attaches reported that Foster was unconscious when admitted. He was taken to Cumberland by ambulance.

Neighbors reported that the accident happened about 11:30 a. m., when Foster crawled into a pit under the saw to tighten a sawdust conveyor pipe. Hugh Ream called to him to warn him against repairing the pipe while the saw was in motion, and Foster raised his head, striking it against the saw.

Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster, reside on a farm near Oakland, where he was born. A graduate of Oakland High School, he was associated in the grocery business in Oakland with another brother-in-law, Edward Schmidt, before entering the army. He served for two and a half years with the Army Air Forces in this country, receiving his honorable discharge about a year ago.

Two months ago he married the former Miss Betty Ashby. He had been engaged in the sawmill business for about four months.

Besides his parents and widow, he is survived by one brother, William Foster, at home; and four sisters, Mrs. Nina Schmidt, 39 Water street, Oakland; Mrs. Violet Lee, Red House; Mrs. Gertrude Ream, Swallow Falls, and Mrs. Daisy Schmidt, of near Oakland.

The body has been taken to the Bolden Funeral Home in Oakland.

DR. KINTNER RITES

Funeral services for Dr. Adrian C. Kintner, an optometrist here for many years, who died Sunday in Painesville, O., where he had been living with his brother and sister, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the George Funeral Home. Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Bedford, Pa., cemetery.

The body will arrive at the funeral home tomorrow morning.

Dr. Kintner, who closed his practice here in July, 1945, because of ill health, maintained an office for many years in the Fort Cumberland Hotel building. Before opening his own office he was employed by Walter Powell and Son, jewelers. He was active in musical circles and directed choirs at Centre Street Methodist Church and at St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Chest Campaign Needs $40,000 To Reach Quota

Drive Moving Slowly As Many Teams Fail To Make Reports

Campaign leaders of the annual Cumberland Community Chest drive stated yesterday that the amount raised to date is about 20 per cent behind what it should be at this stage of the effort, and an analysis of the report shows that some teams and regiments have made no report.

Workers who have reported indicate that people are giving as liberally as ever and there have been few decreases in pledges over previous years. In fact, workers who have reached their assigned quotas say people are actually giving more liberally than in past years because they have more money. Leaders therefore express the view that failure on the part of solicitors to complete their jobs and to make reports accounts for the situation.

After yesterday's report, an audit shows a total of $44,118 subscribed by 4,170 contributors. The goal is $84,800 from a total of 15,830 contributors.

Average Gifts Shown

The Advanced Gifts section has raised to date, $27,935 from 261 contributors or an average of about $110 per contributor. The goal of Advanced Gifts is $45,000 from 333 prospects. It was explained yesterday that Advanced Gifts is not holding back any contributions from the report, and every contribution this section has is in the report. Three of the largest contributors are yet to be heard from.

The National Firms Section, with 67 prospects and a goal of $3,500 has reported to date 27 contributions totalling $1,745 or an average of about $65 per contributor.

The Classified Section which comprises all employe groups, small firms, professional groups etc., has reported $8,786 collected from 1,956 subscribers for an average gift of about $4.50 per contributor. This section has a total of 7,171 prospects and a goal of $17,800.

The Industrial Section with a goal of $12,800 and 6,125 prospects, has reported $2,031 collected from 883 contributors. This is an individual average of about $2.25.

In the Women's Section there are 2,139 prospects and a goal of $6,300 A total of 1,043 persons have contributed a total of $3,621 for an average gift of about $3.50.

Three Sections Lagging

Only the Women's Section and an Advanced Gifts Section have reported more than 50 per cent of their assignments. Classified, National Firms and Industrial sections have much work yet to be done, the report shows.

In the Classified Section, yesterday's report shows that nine of the 32 teams have made no report whatever. Not a single one of the 12 divisions has reached its quota and only five of the 12 have passed the halfway mark. Of the 32 teams, nine are still below the halfway mark and only three have reached quota. These three are Social Agency employes, led by Kenneth Jackson, 102 per cent; Telephone and Telegraph employes captained by George Eppler, 100 per cent for the first time in five years; Power and Light employes, J. W. Webb captain, 100 per cent. The latter two teams are in the Utilities Division captained by G. L. Storey. The division also includes gas company employes led by W. G. Pomeroy who has made no report.

Women Have Best Report

In the Women's Section, five teams have made no report. Ten other teams are still under the 50 per cent mark, although partial reports have been made. Three teams have exceeded 100 per cent, Mrs. Thomas G. Davis, Mrs. Jim McQuown and Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein. One division, that headed by Mrs. George Henderson, known as Division 3, has exceeded its quota with 104 per cent. Four of the seven divisions in the section are still under 50 per cent of their quotas. There are 30 teams in the section.

The average contributions reported, campaign leaders say, are equal to the usual contributions. The number of persons refusing to give, as reported by workers, is far below the usual average, because most people in the community realize the importance of keeping the nine Red Feather Agencies, partially supported by the chest, active and in operation.

While no one would say so in as many words, an analysis of the report shows that the campaign quota of $84,000 can be raised if all teams which have not reported will get their reports in, and if those who have not yet worked their cards will do so before the report meeting tomorrow noon.

Kiwanis Club Will Elect Three Directors

From a list of nine nominees the Kiwanis Club will elect three directors at its meeting in Central YMCA Thursday, to serve for three years. The nominees are Alex R. Buchanan, Earle W. Cobey, Thomas B. Finan, William E. Landefeld, Clarence Lippel, Dr. Charles L. Owens, John J. Robinson, John C. Snoupe, and John F. Workmeister

A program "I'd Like To Know", which will pertain to the history organization, activities, etc of Kiwanis will be presented by several members of the club. There will also be a short report on the Capital District Kiwanis convention held in Washington, D. C., the first week of October.

Canadian Official Praises Local Health Setup

A Canadian health official who visited Cumberland yesterday said that the joint city-county health department is the "best I have seen," and added that he has received many ideas from Dr. Joseph F. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The official is Dr. D. V. Currey of the St. Catherine Lincoln Health Unit, St. Catherine, Ontario. He has made a survey of ideas used in Michigan, Kentucky and North Carolina. He visited Hagerstown before coming here, and his next stop before returning to Canada will be in New York.

Temperatures Near Freezing Point Here

Temperatures in the Tri-State area began dropping late last evening and by midnight, mercury in Cumberland stood at 40 degrees above zero, at Deal, Pa., 36 degrees above zero and at Thomas, W. Va., 37 degrees above.

At Deal and Thomas weather was cloudy with low hanging fog reported. Skies over the Cumberland area were cloudy and in some sections in the mountains roads were covered with light fog.

At the local airport yesterday, planes were grounded during early morning hours, but were able to fly later in the day.

With temperatures approaching the freezing point motorists are beginning to prepare their cars for winter and local service stations report increased business in battery, radiator, heater and anti-freeze service.

Police Continue Campaign To Halt Parking Violation

Local Citizens Indicate In Police Court They Are Getting "Sore"

Tickets for parking violations were still being added to the traffic docket at Police Headquarters last night as City Police continued their drive to enforce parking laws by handing out 16 more tickets from 1 p. m. until midnight.

On Saturday, police booked 101 motorists on parking charges and in Police Court yesterday morning there was plenty to indicate that a number of citizens are getting "sore." Nonetheless the drive is being continued.

Some of the offenders put up their dollar for parking overtime or against a red curb without a murmur, a large number squawked and others arrived at headquarters yesterday to comment on what they thought of the whole proposition.

The additional meters and the new red curbs are all a part of a plan outlined recently by Commissioner William V. Keegan and Police Chief Oscar A. Eyerman to cut down traffic jams in downtown Cumberland, and to reduce the hazard created by parked cars when fire trucks have to pass through traffic lanes.

Parkers Complain

However, a number of parkers have complained that they have been parking near their business establishments for years and they fail to see why it is necessary to suddenly paint curbs red or install meters.

One Cumberland business man cooly tore up his ticket in front of the arresting officer. The man said he had been parking at this particular location for years without getting arrested and he failed to see why he should be arrested now.

The officer swore out a warrant for the offender and following his arrest the man put up bond for the offense and the warrant. He failed to appear in Police Court yesterday morning thereby forfeiting the bond.

Another offender, the wife of a well-known industrial official in the community, appeared at the station to protest against paying the dollar and told the desk sergeant that after finding the ticket on her car she personally made a tour of downtown streets and counted exactly 50 cars parked against red curbs that did not have tickets attached to them.

The sergeant told the lady that "Your story is probably true, and all I can say is that we will get to them as fast as we can."

Secures Lawyer

Walter F. Files, Jr., of RD 4, employed a lawyer yesterday after his car was impounded by police for knocking down a parking meter on Greene street.

Files was arrested Sunday by Officer Andrew Burns for operating his car without the written consent of the owner—pending the time he received proper papers. The fact that the previous owner had given him consent to drive the machine did not alter the matter, police explained, as he had to have it in writing.

Files paid one dollar on the charge and is now endeavoring to regain possession of his impounded maching in connection with knocking down the meter.

According to an informant in Trial Magistrate's Court, Files is alleged to have made the remark that "It looks to me as if a person is liable to hit a meter any place they go in this town," whereupon an offender with a ticket for meter violation praised him highly for his stellar accomplishment.

Fines taken in yesterday morning at headquarters amounted to $241.

Rev. John B. Jones, A.B., S.T.M., public relations officer for Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., will be the guest preacher at the First Methodist Church, Bedford street, Sunday, Oct. 27, at the 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. worship services, according to an announcement made yesterday by the local minister, Rev. He is in constant demand in Western Maryland as counsellor and leader of youth movements and leadership training schools.

Miss Mary M. Robb, a graduate of Western Maryland College, will sing during the morning services as guest soloist and Rev. Mr. Richards will sing at the evening worship hour.

Rev. Mr. Richards said last night that all Western Maryland College alumna are cordially invited to attend both of the services sitting in a group which, he said, will make it a real "Western Maryland" day Sunday at the First Methodist Church.

Abortion Charge Costs McCallum Fine Of $250

Court Suspends Two-Year Term In State House Of Correction

A fine of $250 and a two-year suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction were imposed on Dr. Frank B. McCallum, 57-year-old veterinarian and former Cumberland humane officer, in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of abortion.

Chief Judge William A. Huster, who announced the sentence arrived at by him and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, told McCallum, "It's a rather serious charge preferred against you. There isn't much excuse in a case of this kind."

McCallum told the court, "It was to help out a GI that I did it. I'll never do it again."

Has Good Reputation

Commenting on letters from several city officials and well-known citizens that were presented to the court by McCallum's attorney, Edward J. Ryan, Judge Huster said the letters show the veterinarian to be of the best reputation.

The jurist told McCallum that the prison term would be suspended due to his age and his reputation since coming to Cumberland, and on condition that he be of good behavior and "never do this again."

Ryan, in presenting Dr. McCallum's plea, asked for clemency, citing that he was "not in very good health." He also said McCallum was divorced and supports his daughter, aged 12.

According to the indictment, McCallum was charged with performing the illegal operation last July 23, upon Mrs. Dorothy Marie Glass, of this city. She later was taken to a local hospital, where she reported that she underwent the operation.

Ryan asserted that McCallum "merely desired to help out a woman who was 'in a jam' and consented to the operation" at the request of a man named Robert Miller, who brought the woman to McCallum's office on North Mechanic street. The attorney said the woman became ill later, not as a result of the operation, and was taken to the hospital.

Paroled For Three Years

Carl Wade Kaese and Glenn Webb, entered pleas of guilty to a burglary charge and were paroled for three years. The duo were accused of stealing three radios from the Enterprise Amusement Company on September 13.

Judge Capper, in passing sentence, pointed out that Webb was previously paroled and that Kaese has a clean record. The jurist said that both are young men of good appearance and that the court had decided to give them another chance. Restitution previously had been made in the case. Edward J. Ryan represented Webb and Julius E. Schindler was attorney for Kaese.

Following a brief trial before Judge Huster, Mrs. Rachel Gormer, South Allegany street, was convicted on a charge of assault and received a one-year suspended sentence. The woman, represented by Ryan, was accused of attacking her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah B. Graves, who lives nearby.

Wanda Lee Stewart Hutson, who pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, was given a suspended sentence for one year, on condition that she refrain from infractions of the law.

Howard Weller, indicted for malicious destruction of property, entered a plea of guilty, and was paroled for three years, with orders to make restitution and be of good behavior.

Lillian Rice Miller, who pleaded guilty to larceny and receiving stolen goods, was given a suspended sentence for three years, and warned to be of good behavior.

Harry Matthew Wahl, George Kifer and William Keiling, of the Frostburg section, pleaded guilty to maintaining gaming devices, and were fined $100 and costs. Officers said they had slot machines on their premises.

Bigamist Paroled

Sidney A. Stark, charged with bigamy, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to the House of Correction by Judge Huster and Judge Capper. The sentence was suspended, however, on condition that he refrain from future law infractions. Stark was represented by Ryan.

According to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Stark married Florence Abel, of Frostburg last May 11, and had not been divorced from Beulah Irene Cooke, whom he married September 5, 1936, in Garrett County. The first wife caused his arrest after seeing a picture in a newspaper with a story about the birthday of Stark's daughter, born of the second marriage, authorities said.

Judge Huster announced that the second marriage will be annulled in accordance with a Maryland law enacted last year by the Legislature.

WIFE STAYED OUT WITH OTHER MEN, HUSBAND DECLARES

Testifying that his wife "stayed out to all hours with other men," Donald W. Frantz, 32, Route 3, Bedford road, was granted an absolute divorce from Mildred P. Frantz in a decree signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Frantz, represented by John M. Robb, said he and his wife were married October 18, 1941, and separated in Chicago, where they were living, in October, 1945.

Mrs. Frantz was granted the custody of their two children.

Suit for divorce from James E. Dye was filed by Mrs. Anna Lee Dye who asks the right to resume use of her maiden name of Sanders. Represented by Edward J. Ryan, she said they were married January 27, 1941, and separated in April of the same year. She charged her husband with desertion.

William R. Smith sued for divorce from Ethel L. Smith, said to be a resident of New York. He asks for the custody of their son. Ryan is his attorney.

Thomas E. Emigh filed suit for divorce from Mary J. Emigh on undisclosed grounds. Julius E. Schindler is attorney for the husband and Harold E. Naughton represents the wife.

Evidence Conflicts In Myers Assault Case In Court

Defendant Denies Pointing Gun Or Striking Theodore Trenum

Conflicting testimony marked the trial of Lester Myers, World War II veteran, of Reynolds, near Westernport, before a jury in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon on a charge of assault in a case growing out of a disturbance July 15 on the road between the Myers home and the nearby home of Theodore Trenum and Howard Doman.

The state builds its case around "feeling" that allegedly arose between the Trenum and Myers families over rent charged Trenum, an ex-serviceman, by his landlord, Bruce Myers, Sr.

Bruce Myers, Jr., caused the fracas when he cursed Trenum and the two got into a fight, according to state witnesses, but Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Myers, Sr., parents of the Myers brothers, Bruce, Jr., Lester and Bernie, and the brothers declared Trenum cursed Bruce, Jr., and the fight resulted.

Doman Called Police

Lester Myers, state witnesses said, pointed a revolver at Trenum's wife and his father-in-law, Howard Doman, warning them to come no closer when they approached the fight. Thereupon, Doman returned to the Trenum home, obtained a shotgun and started back to the fray, but his wife and daughter took the weapon away from him. Then Doman called police, the state said.

The Myers family, however, declared that Lester had no revolver but was carrying a camera he intended to give his girl friend. They said he did not point a weapon of any kind at anyone.

Instead, the Myers family testified, Doman came out of the house with a shotgun, cursed the Myers family and threatened to "blow their brains out."

Trenum and his three-and-a-half-year-old son were together when Bruce Myers, Jr., cursed Trenum, the state declared, and when Trenum stooped down to assist his son, Lester Myers kicked Trenum in the head and knocked him unconscious. When Trenum "came to," the state said, Bruce Myers, Jr., was on him and "chewing his thumb."

Upstairs Dressing

Lester Myers said he was upstairs dressing and knew nothing of any trouble until he came outside to get the car to go visit his girl friend.

Handed a shotgun, brought into court along with several rifles and a revolver in connection with the trial, Lester demonstrated to the jury how he said Howard Doman charged off the steps of his home with the weapon after Trenum called "Hey, Doman," when Bruce Myers, Jr., had him down.

Lester likewise demonstrated to the jury how he was carrying the camera. He declared he struck no one, was not carrying a weapon of any kind and consequently could not have pointed one at anybody.

After the state closed its case, the judge continued the trial until this morning, excusing the jurors with the admonition that they are to discuss the case with no one.

Edward J. Ryan and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., represent Lester Myers.

Manslaughter Case Today

Indicted on a charge of manslaughter, Forrest R. Hulings, a World War II veteran, will go on trial today, his counsel, Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., announced yesterday.

While hunting in the Cresaptown section on September 20, Hulings shot and killed Vernon Kaefer, a farmer, who also was hunting squirrels, according to the indictment.

Trial of Carl Wilson Price, indicted for manslaughter in the deaths of three men in a highway accident, is scheduled to begin Wednesday. He also is defended by Ryan. Price, authorities said, was driving a truck which crashed into a disabled automobile on Baltimore Pike, east of Cumberland, last May 3.

Philip Fletcher, Ezra Watson and Homer Mann were fatally injured.

Brothers Are Fined After Car Mishap

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 21—William Bowman, 20, New Creek, was fined $25 and costs here today at a hearing before Justice of the Peace T. E. Pownall when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Bowman's brother, Vernon, 25, was reported in good condition in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where he was admitted Sunday night after the car William Bowman was driving crashed against a concrete abutment on Route 28 near Springfield, injuring both men and a third brother, Carl, 18, listed as the owner of the car, a 1935 Oldsmobile sedan.

Carl Bowman pleaded guilty to a charge of permitting his brother to drive his car while intoxicated, and Justice of the Peace Pownall fined him $25 and costs. The licenses of both William and Carl were suspended for six months. Cpl. Ralph Hawkins of the Romney State Police, preferred the charges. The car was completely demolished.

Miss Ruby Adams Addresses P-TA At Mt. Royal Avenue

Suggests Exchange Of Reports Between Parents And Teachers

Miss Ruby Adams, supervisor of elementary education, addressed the Mt. Royal Avenue Parent Teacher Association last night at the school on the subject of "Reporting on the Progress of Children."

Miss Adams emphasized the need for closer co-operation between teachers and parents and co-ordination of effort to aid the development of individual children. She said the report card method from teacher to parents should give way to progress reports from parents to teacher as well as teacher to parents, and that these reports should be exchanged periodically.

The obligation of molding the lives and educating the children rests neither with the parents alone, or the public school teachers alone, Miss Adams declared. It is a mutual responsibility and teachers and parents should learn to work closer together and should plan together for the children.

Jack Platt, director of music in Allegany county public schools, spoke on the advantages now offered children in the field of instrumental music, and urged parents to co-operate by encouraging their children to participate in the program.

Rudolph Kompanek, president of the association presided at the business session and presented the two guest speakers. The business session was routine, although it was reported the association now has 204 members, 80 of whom attended the meeting last night.

STOPS ON SIDEWALK—Shown above is the car, driven by Thomas F. Shannon, 310 Jefferson street, after it came to a stop on the sidewalk on Greene street, near the Johnson street intersection late Sunday afternoon. The car left the street when it was struck by a truck. According to the police, the driver of the truck did not stop after the accident. However, the police said they have the license number and know the owner of the truck. What puzzled the several spectators, who can be seen in the picture, is how the car got on the other side of the parking meter.

Local Breweries Can Make More Beer Each Month

Restrictions On Use Of Grain Eased By Agriculture Department

Local breweries will be able to brew about 1,000 more barrels of beer a month, according to information from Washington last night, easing the restrictions on the use of grain by brewers and distillers.

The Associated Press reports from Washington, D. C., that the Agriculture Department announced last night that the nation's distilling industry will be granted about 16 per cent more grain for making whiskey and distilled spirits in October and subsequent months until further notice.

It also granted brewers about six per cent more grain and lifted restrictions upon the use of wheat by breakfast food and other manufacturers.

Officials in Washington estimated that distillers will be allowed a total of around 3,000,000 bushels of grain a month compared with 2,600,000 bushels allowed for September.

Brewers will be permitted to increase their quarterly use of grains from 85 to 90 per cent of the quantity they used in the corresponding quarters of 1945.

G. William Bibby, of the Cumberland Brewing Company and James W. Bishop of the Queen City Brewing Company each said last night that this increase will permit each brewery to make about 500 barrels more beer per month, on the average, or a total of about 1,000 barrels more a month.

Production has been curtailed in both breweries for some time and there have been several short-lived but definite "draughts" among beer drinkers here, especially during the hot-weather months. Local plants have, according to retailers, done a "pretty fair job" in taking care of local trade, and Cumberland area beer drinkers have been more fortunate than those in distant territories.

According to Washington officials, the total increase in grain to brewers will be about 1,000,000 bushels throughout the country. The Agriculture Department said that because of continued heavy foreign requirements for wheat and flour, it will be necessary to continue the present 85 per cent limitation on the quantity of flour that can be distributed for domestic use.

Wiley Ford Child Bitten By Dog

Attaches at Allegany Hospital reported last night that Miss Helen Heffner, 23, Virginia avenue, who suffered head injuries in a motorcycle crash on Baltimore Pike early Sunday morning, is in "fair" condition.

Charles E. Davidson, 21, 349 Williams street, who was admitted to Memorial Hospital Sunday morning after suffering back injuries when his car was struck by a westbound Western Maryland Railway train at the Virginia avenue crossing, was reported improving last night.

Powder Company Officials Cancel Inspection Trip

Eight Navy and Hercules Powder Company officials scheduled to fly here yesterday for an inspection of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory cancelled the trip due to bad weather over the mountains.

Laboratory officials said last night the Powder Company officials flew from Wilmington, Del., to Washington, D. C., to pick up the Navy personnel, but the ship was grounded there for the flight to Cumberland due to dense fog and low ceilings over the mountains.

Officials of the Powder Company indicated last night the visit here will be postponed indefinitely, but will be made at a later date.

3 Navy Veterans Enlist In Inactive Reserve

Three more veterans enlisted in the V-6 inactive naval reserve last week, according to Chief Quartermaster Charles Drinkwater, of the local recruiting office.

They are Harold Joseph Gaebl, 202 Virginia avenue, as a store keeper 1-c; John Donald Connor, Frostburg, as an electronic technician's mate 3-c; William Ashby Shirer, Oakland, as an electrician's mate 3-c.

Valley Road May Be Closed By City If Found Unsafe

After Bowman's Addition residents appealed to the Mayor and Council for the third successive week to have Valley Road improved, Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday instructed Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, to inspect the road and to close off the part within the city limits if it is unsafe.

Despite statements at yesterday's council meeting by John R. Greise, W. Ward Wilson, a school bus operator, and James F. Bittner, regarding the need for improvements, Street Commissioner Myers G. Light said the road is in good condition as compared to some of the streets in the city proper. Light explained that other street work is just as important and that jobs must wait their turn, but he promised that the work will be done before winter.

Others who appeared at the meeting to ask for improvements to Valley Road were Herbert F. Sarver and David M. Robertson, who told the council members, "You are putting dollars before human life."

The council refused to grant the American Iron and Metal Company "a license in the purchase of and sale of scrap materials and structural steel." Mayor Post pointed out that under the zoning ordinance junk yards are not allowed in the city and that the council would be violating an ordinance to grant the license. The company has a warehouse on Springdale street.

Second hand licenses were granted to the Price Furniture Exchange and to Harry R. Payman. The former is a transfer from 79 North Centre street to 116-120 North Centre. Payman proposes a tool and hardware business at 418-420 Virginia avenue. In each case the display of merchandise on sidewalks is prohibited.

The council authorized Commissioner Light to purchase a ton of fibre for the street sweeper from the Keystone Brush Company at a cost of $560.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards was empowered to advertise for bids for a 1946 Buick sedan for Charles J. Bruce, superintendent for the Evitts Creek Water Company.

Douglas R. Bowie, 723 Washington street, was ordered refunded $18 for a water bill paid twice.

On request of Mrs. Fred Sutherland the Navy Mothers' Club was given permission to sell "Sailor Tags" Friday through Monday.

The Mayor and Council also voted to change the name of the alley running from Cumberland to Washington streets and from Greene to Water streets from Cherry Alley to Cherry Place, after receiving a written request from William L. Sherman.

New Nurse Supervisor Assumes Duties Here

Mrs. Anna E. Love, recently appointed supervisor of county health nurses, assumed her new duties with the local Health Department yesterday, succeeding Miss Marion Weber, who resigned last July 1.

Concrete Block Work Permit Is Granted

A permit to use the old Zihlman glass factory building for the manufacture of concrete bicok was granted to Jerome S. Ervin, 108 Altamont terrace, in the city engineer's office yesterday.

The basement of the one-story concrete block structure is still intact, and Ervin said that part of the building will be used for the work. The basement measures 20 by 60 feet.

The building is owned by the Zihlman estate, in charge of Mrs. Girard Everstine, 624 North Mechanic street.

Judson W. "Tommy" Foster Fatally Hurt While Repairing Pipe

Judson W. "Tommy" Foster, Jr., 25, of near Oakland, an Army veteran, died in Memorial Hospital yesterday at 4:40 p. m. of injuries suffered when his head was caught in a buzz saw at the sawmill near Oakland which he operated with his brother-in-law, Hugh Ream, Swallow Falls. He was admitted at 1:50 p. m.

Dr. James A. Gannon, Jr., Oakland physician, who treated Foster at the scene of the accident, said that the saw bit into Foster's head on the right side, just above the hairline, and tore into the brain from the temple to the mid section. The injured man was unconscious while being treated, Dr. Gannon said, although hospital attaches reported that Foster was unconscious when admitted. He was taken to Cumberland by ambulance.

Neighbors reported that the accident happened about 11:30 a. m., when Foster crawled into a pit under the saw to tighten a sawdust conveyor pipe. Hugh Ream called to him to warn him against repairing the pipe while the saw was in motion, and Foster raised his head, striking it against the saw.

Foster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foster, reside on a farm near Oakland, where he was born. A graduate of Oakland High School, he was associated in the grocery business in Oakland with another brother-in-law, Edward Schmidt, before entering the army. He served for two and a half years with the Army Air Forces in this country, receiving his honorable discharge about a year ago.

Two months ago he married the former Miss Betty Ashby. He had been engaged in the sawmill business for about four months.

Besides his parents and widow, he is survived by one brother, William Foster, at home; and four sisters, Mrs. Nina Schmidt, 39 Water street, Oakland; Mrs. Violet Lee, Red House; Mrs. Gertrude Ream, Swallow Falls, and Mrs. Daisy Schmidt, of near Oakland.

Chest Campaign Needs $40,000 To Reach Quota

Drive Moving Slowly As Many Teams Fail To Make Reports

Campaign leaders of the annual Cumberland Community Chest drive stated yesterday that the amount raised to date is about 20 per cent behind what it should be at this stage of the effort, and an analysis of the report shows that some teams and regiments have made no report.

Workers who have reported indicate that people are giving as liberally as ever and there have been few decreases in pledges over previous years. In fact, workers who have reached their assigned quotas say people are actually giving more liberally than in past years because they have more money. Leaders therefore express the view that failure on the part of solicitors to complete their jobs and to make reports accounts for the situation.

After yesterday's report, an audit shows a total of $44,118 subscribed by 4,170 contributors. The goal is $84,800 from a total of 15,830 contributors.

Average Gifts Shown

The Advanced Gifts section has raised to date, $27,935 from 261 contributors or an average of about $110 per contributor. The goal of Advanced Gifts is $45,000 from 333 prospects. It was explained yesterday that Advanced Gifts is not holding back any contributions from the report, and every contribution this section has is in the report. Three of the largest contributors are yet to be heard from.

The National Firms Section, with 87 prospects and a goal of $3,500 has reported to date 27 contributions totalling $1,745 or an average of about $65 per contributor.

The Classified Section which comprises all employe groups, small firms, professional groups etc., has reported $8,786 collected from 1,956 subscribers for an average gift of about $4.50 per contributor. This section has a total of 7,171 prospects and a goal of $17,800.

The Industrial Section with a goal of $12,800 and 6,125 prospects, has reported $2,031 collected from 883 contributors. This is an individual average of about $2.25.

In the Women's Section there are 2,139 prospects and a goal of $6,300. A total of 1,043 persons have contributed a total of $3,621 for an average gift of about $3.50.

Three Sections Lagging

Only the Women's Section and an Advanced Gifts Section have reported more than 50 per cent of their assignments. Classified, National Firms and Industrial sections have much work yet to be done, the report shows.

In the Classified Section, yesterday's report shows that nine of the 32 teams have made no report whatever. Not a single one of the 12 divisions has reached its quota and only five of the 12 have passed the halfway mark. Of the 32 teams, nine are still below the halfway mark and only three have reached quota. These three are Social Agency employes, led by Kenneth Jackson, 102 per cent; Telephone and Telegraph employes captained by George Eppler, 100 per cent for the first time in five years; Power and Light employes, J. W. Webb captain, 100 per cent. The latter two teams are in the Utilities Division captained by G. L. Storey. The division also includes gas company employes led by W. G. Pomeroy who has made no report.

Women Have Best Report

In the Women's Section, five teams have made no report. Ten other teams are still under the 50 per cent mark, although partial reports have been made. Three teams have exceeded 100 per cent, Mrs. Thomas G. Davis, Mrs. Jim McQuown and Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein. One division, that headed by Mrs. George Henderson, known as Division 3, has exceeded its quota with 104 per cent. Four of the seven divisions in the section are still under 50 per cent of their quotas. There are 30 teams in the section.

The average contributions reported, campaign leaders say, are equal to the usual contributions. The number of persons refusing to give, as reported by workers, is far below the usual average, because most people in the community realize the importance of keeping the nine Red Feather Agencies, partially supported by the chest, active and in operation.

While no one would say so in as many words, an analysis of the report shows that the campaign quota of $84,000 can be raised if all teams which have not reported will get their reports in, and if those who have not yet worked their cards will do so before the report meeting tomorrow noon.

Kiwanis Club Will Elect Three Directors

From a list of nine nominees the Kiwanis Club will elect three directors at its meeting in Central YMCA Thursday, to serve for three years. The nominees are Alex R. Buchanan, Earle W. Cobey, Thomas B. Finan, William E. Landefeld, Clarence Lippel, Dr. Charles L. Owens, John J. Robinson, John C. Snoupe, and John F. Workmeister.

A program "I'd Like To Know" which will pertain to the history organization, activities, etc of Kiwanis will be presented by several members of the club. There will also be a short report on the Capital District Kiwanis convention held in Washington, D. C., the first week of October.

Canadian Official Praises Local Health Setup

A Canadian health official who visited Cumberland yesterday said that the joint city-county health department is the "best I have seen," and added that he has received many ideas from Dr. Joseph F. Franklin, city and county health officer.

The official is Dr. D. V. Currey of the St. Catherine Lincoln Health Unit, St. Catherine, Ontario. He has made a survey of ideas used in Michigan, Kentucky and North Carolina. He visited Hagerstown before coming here, and his next stop before returning to Canada will be in New York.

Temperatures Near Freezing Point Here

Temperatures in the Tri-State area began dropping late last evening and by midnight, mercury in Cumberland stood at 40 degrees above zero, at Deal, Pa., 36 degrees above zero and at Thomas, W. Va., 37 degrees above.

At Deal and Thomas weather was cloudy with low hanging fog reported. Skies over the Cumberland area were cloudy and in some sections in the mountains roads were covered with light fog.

At the local airport yesterday, planes were grounded during early morning hours, but were able to fly later in the day.

With temperatures approaching the freezing point motorists are beginning to prepare their cars for winter and local service stations report increased business in battery, radiator, heater and anti-freeze service.

Police Continue Campaign To Halt Parking Violation

Local Citizens Indicate In Police Court They Are Getting "Sore"

Tickets for parking violations were still being added to the traffic docket at Police Headquarters last night as City Police continued their drive to enforce parking laws by handing out 16 more tickets from 1 p. m. until midnight.

On Saturday, police booked 101 motorists on parking charges and in Police Court yesterday morning there was plenty to indicate that a number of citizens are getting "sore." Nonetheless the drive is being continued.

Some of the offenders put up their dollar for parking overtime or against a red curb without a murmur, a large number squawked and others arrived at headquarters yesterday to comment on what they thought of the whole proposition.

The additional meters and the new red curbs are all a part of a plan outlined recently by Commissioner William V. Keegan and Police Chief Oscar A. Eyerman to cut down traffic jams in downtown Cumberland, and to reduce the hazard created by parked cars when fire trucks have to pass through traffic lanes.

Parkers Complain

However, a number of parkers have complained that they have been parking near their business establishments for years and they fail to see why it is necessary to suddenly paint curbs red or install meters.

One Cumberland business man cooly tore up his ticket in front of the arresting officer. The man said he had been parking at this particular location for years without getting arrested and he failed to see why he should be arrested now.

The officer swore out a warrant for the offender and following his arrest the man put up bond for the offense and the warrant. He failed to appear in Police Court yesterday morning thereby forfeiting the bond.

Another offender, the wife of a well-known industrial official in the community, appeared at the station to protest against paying the dollar and told the desk sergeant that after finding the ticket on her car she personally made a tour of downtown streets and counted exactly 50 cars parked against red curbs that did not have tickets attached to them.

The sergeant told the lady that "Your story is probably true, and all I can say is that we will get to them as fast as we can."

Secures Lawyer

Walter F. Files, Jr., of RD 4, employed a lawyer yesterday after his car was impounded by police for knocking down a parking meter on Greene street.

Files was arrested Sunday by Officer Andrew Burns for operating his car without the written consent of the owner—pending the time he received proper papers. The fact that the previous owner had given him consent to drive the machine did not alter the matter, police explained, as he had to have it in writing.

Files paid one dollar on the charge and is now endeavoring to regain possession of his impounded maching in connection with knocking down the meter.

According to an informant in Trial Magistrate's Court, Files is alleged to have made the remark that "It looks to me as if a person is liable to hit a meter any place they go in this town," whereupon an offender with a ticket for meter violation praised him highly for his stellar accomplishment.

Fines taken in yesterday morning at headquarters amounted to $241.

Abortion Charge Costs McCallum Fine Of $250

Court Suspends Two-Year Term In State House Of Correction

A fine of $250 and a two-year suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction were imposed on Dr. Frank B. McCallum, 57-year-old veterinarian and former Cumberland humane officer, in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of abortion.

Chief Judge William A. Huster, who announced the sentence arrived at by him and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, told McCallum, "It's a rather serious charge preferred against you. There isn't much excuse in a case of this kind."

McCallum told the court, "It was to help out a GI that I did it. I'll never do it again."

Has Good Reputation

Commenting on letters from several city officials and well-known citizens that were presented to the court by McCallum's attorney, Edward J. Ryan, Judge Huster said the letters show the veterinarian to be of the best reputation.

The jurist told McCallum that the prison term would be suspended due to his age and his reputation since coming to Cumberland, and on condition that he be of good behavior and "never do this again."

Ryan, in presenting Dr. McCallum's plea, asked for clemency, citing that he was "not in very good health." He also said McCallum was divorced and supports his daughter, aged 12.

According to the indictment, McCallum was charged with performing the illegal operation last July 23, upon Mrs. Dorothy Marie Glass, of this city. She later was taken to a local hospital, where she reported that she underwent the operation.

Ryan asserted that McCallum "merely desired to help out a woman who was 'in a jam' and consented to the operation" at the request of a man named Robert Miller, who brought the woman to McCallum's office on North Mechanic street. The attorney said the woman became ill later, not as a result of the operation, and was taken to the hospital.

Paroled For Three Years

Carl Wade Kaese and Glenn Webb, entered pleas of guilty to a burglary charge and were paroled for three years. The duo were accused of stealing three radios from the Enterprise Amusement Company on September 13.

Judge Capper, in passing sentence, pointed out that Webb was previously paroled and that Kaese has a clean record. The jurist said that both are young men of good appearance and that the court had decided to give them another chance. Restitution previously had been made in the case. Edward J. Ryan represented Webb and Julius E. Schindler was attorney for Kaese.

Following a brief trial before Judge Huster, Mrs. Rachel Gormer, South Allegany street, was convicted on a charge of assault and received a one-year suspended sentence. The woman, represented by Ryan, was accused of attacking her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah B. Graves, who lives nearby.

Wanda Lee Stewart Hutson, who pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, was given a suspended sentence for one year, on condition that she refrain from infractions of the law.

Howard Weller, indicted for malicious destruction of property, entered a plea of guilty, and was paroled for three years, with orders to make restitution and be of good behavior.

Lillian Rice Miller, who pleaded guilty to larceny and receiving stolen goods, was given a suspended sentence for three years, and warned to be of good behavior.

Harry Matthew Wahl, George Kifer and William Keiling, of the Frostburg section, pleaded guilty to maintaining gaming devices, and were fined $100 and costs. Officers said they had slot machines on their premises.

Bigamist Paroled

Sidney A. Stark, charged with bigamy, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to the House of Correction by Judge Huster and Judge Capper. The sentence was suspended, however, on condition that he refrain from future law infractions. Stark was represented by Ryan.

According to State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Stark married Florence Abel, of Frostburg last May 11, and had not been divorced from Beulah Irene Cooke, whom he married September 5, 1936, in Garrett County. The first wife caused his arrest after seeing a picture in a newspaper with a story about the birthday of Stark's daughter, born of the second marriage, authorities said.

Judge Huster announced that the second marriage will be annulled in accordance with a Maryland law enacted last year by the Legislature.

WIFE STAYED OUT WITH OTHER MEN, HUSBAND DECLARES

Testifying that his wife "stayed out to all hours with other men," Donald W. Frantz, 32, Route 3, Bedford road, was granted an absolute divorce from Mildred P. Frantz in a decree signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Frantz, represented by John M. Robb, said he and his wife were married October 18, 1941, and separated in Chicago, where they were living, in October, 1945.

Mrs. Frantz was granted the custody of their two children.

Suit for divorce from James E. Dye was filed by Mrs. Anna Lee Dye who asks the right to resume use of her maiden name of Sanders. Represented by Edward J. Ryan, she said they were married January 27, 1941, and separated in April of the same year. She charged her husband with desertion.

William R. Smith sued for divorce from Ethel L. Smith, said to be a resident of New York. He asks for the custody of their son. Ryan is his attorney.

Thomas E. Emigh filed suit for divorce from Mary J. Emigh on undisclosed grounds. Julius E. Schindler is attorney for the husband and Harold E. Naughton represents the wife.
